WEDNESDAY, - - JULY 25, 1894

Senator Gorman is making a bold effort to distract attention from the sugar stealing propensities of the U. S. senators by attacking Cleveland. The country will not be fooled that way. The president is not on trial, but the senate is. What Mr. Cleveland has done may have been impolitic, but it was not dishonest. What the sugar ring in the senate has done is to sell out the people to the sugar kings. Stand up and defend yourself, Mr. Gorman, against the charges which, if true, should send you and your kind to the penitentiary; but do not undertake to excuse your actions by drawing attention to the president.

Charles S. Miller has been arrested, charged with trying to swindle his men by getting away with the bullion, some $6000 worth produced by his mine, and without paying his men. Miller says he intended to use the money to pay off his men, and was only trying to keep one or two from getting it all. We know nothing of the case, but will wager our last cent that C. S. Miller was not trying to beat anyone. If Charley isn't as honest and upright a gentleman as there is in the state, then thirty years or more reputation has been obtained fraudulently. The only man he ever took the advantage of was himself.

China and Japan it seems are determined to go to war, and though Japan is the weaker nation, she is the one apparently most anxious for the fray. This desire may be begotten by the backing of Russia, as it is more than probable that the latter country will fall on China as soon as war is commenced with Japan. Russia has lots of diplomacy, and the Korean trouble will make an excellent opportunity for the great bear to put his paw down on and retain a portion of Northern China.

It appears from yesterday's Oregonian that the story concerning the robbing of the Mt. Hood stage running between Portland and Government Camp, was a fake, and probably gotten up by Cohen, the proprietor of the stage line, as an advertising scheme. The Evening Telegram published the details of the robbery giving the names of the victims. This only confirms us in our opinion that it is an utter impossibility for the truth to get over the Cascades since the Baker put its hoodoo on them.

Little by little the strike has worn itself out until nothing remains of it but the remembrance of its inconveniences, and the bills. The latter will be large, but as they are mostly divided pretty evenly the country can stand it. Chicago and Cook county will have some settlements to make but as they are rich it will cut no serious figure. The main expense of the strike has been the loss of business, and the strikers themselves are no light losers, when their wages are taken into consideration.

Justice Stephen J. Field, of the United States supreme court, has been offered a transfer, placing him on the New York circuit, which he has declined, stating that he will continue to hold down the Pacific coast circuit. This is devilish tough on the Pacific coast, but there is no help for it. Field is one of those egotistical democrats who think the country can't get along without them, and are not patriotic enough to die or resign.

And now the dispatches tell us the Wellman Arctic party is thought to be lost, and the next thing in order will be to send a relief party to hunt up the strays and bring them in. It has often occurred to us that as a relief party is nearly always successful, it would be a good scheme to send the relief party first, as they always get farther and have little or no trouble.

The senate is disposed to stand on its dignity, and has refused to instruct its members of the conference committee. It is more than probable the house will have to yield or that no tariff bill will be passed. That the house will not yield seems certain, therefore the conclusion is justifiable that no tariff bill will be passed.

The Ambitious Little Slate Pickers.
 In a large room sat the little slate-pickers. The floor slanted at an angle of forty-five degrees, and the coal having been manifested by the great teeth was streaming sluggishly in long iron troughs. The boys sat straddling these troughs, and as the mass moved slowly, they grabbed deftly at the pieces of slate therein.

There were five or six of them, one above another, over each trough. The coal is expected to be fairly pure after it passes the final boy. The howling machinery was above them. High up, dim figures moved about in the dust clouds.

These little men were a terrifically dirty band. They resembled the New York gamins in some ways, but they laughed more, and when they laughed their faces were a wonder and a terror. They had an air of supreme independence and seemed proud of their kind of villainy. They swore long oaths with skill.

Through their ragged shirts we could get occasional glimpses of shoulders, black as stoves. They looked precisely like imps as they scrambled to get a view of us. Work ceased while they tried to ascertain if we were willing to give away any tobacco. The man who perhaps believes that he controls them came and harangued the crowd. He talked to the air.

The slate-pickers all through this region are yet at the spanking period. One continually wonders about their mothers and if there are any school-houses. But as for them, they are not concerned. When they get time off they go out on the culm heap and play baseball or fight with boys from other "breakers" or among themselves, according to the opportunities. And before them always is the hope of one day getting to be door boys down in the mines and, later, mule boys. And yet later, laborers and helpers. Finally when they have grown to be great big men they may become miners, real miners, and go down and get "squeezed" or perhaps escape to a shattered old man's estate with a mere "miner's asthma." They are very ambitious.

Meanwhile they live in a place of infernal din. The crash and thunder of the machinery is like the roar of an immense cataract. The room shrieks and blares and bellows. Clouds of dust blur the air until the windows shine blindly afar off. All the structure is a tremble from the heavy sweep and circle of the ponderous mechanism. Down in the midst of it sit these tinyurchins, where they earn fifty-five cents each day. They breathe this atmosphere until their lungs grow heavy and sick with it. They have this clamor in their ears until it is wonderful that they have any hoodlum-valor remaining. But they are uncowed; they continue to swagger. And at the top of the "breaker" laborers can always be seen dumping the roaring coal down the wide, voracious maw of the creature.

We have made arrangements with the San Francisco Examiner to furnish it in connection with THE CHRONICLE. Having a clubbing rate with the Oregonian and N. Y. Tribune for our republican patrons, we have made this arrangement for the accommodation of the democratic members of THE CHRONICLE family. Both papers, the Weekly Examiner and SEMI-WEEKLY CHRONICLE will be furnished for one year for $2.25, cash in advance.

Whether Pasteur and Koch's peculiar modes of treatment will ultimately prevail or not, their theory of blood-contamination is the correct one, though not original. It was on this theory that Dr. J. C. Ayer, of Lowell, Mass., nearly fifty years ago, formulated Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
 When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
 When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
 When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

Attention

In time to any irregularity of the Stomach, Liver, or Bowels may prevent serious consequences. Indigestion, costiveness, headache, nausea, biliousness, and vertigo indicate certain functional derangements, the best remedy for which is Ayer's Pills. Purely vegetable, sugar-coated, easy to take and quick to assimilate, this is the ideal family medicine—the most popular, safe, and useful aperient in pharmacy. Mrs. M. A. BROCKWELL, Harris, Tenn., says:

"Ayer's Cathartic Pills cured me of sick headache and my husband of neuralgia. We think there is

and have induced many to use it.
 "Thirty-five years ago this Spring, I was run down by hard work and a succession of colds, which made me so feeble that it was an effort for me to walk. I consulted the doctors, but kept sinking lower until I had given up all hope of ever being better. Happening to be in a store, one day, where medicines were sold, the proprietor noticed my weak and sickly appearance, and after a few questions as to my health, recommended me to try Ayer's Pills. I had little faith in these or any other medicine, but concluded, at last, to take his advice and try a box. Before I had used them all, I was very much better, and two boxes cured me. I am now 80 years old; but I believe that if it had not been for Ayer's Pills, I should have been in my grave long ago. I buy 6 boxes every year, which make 20 boxes up to this time, and I would no more be without them than without bread."—H. W. Ingraham, Rockland, Me.

AYER'S PILLS
 Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.
Every Dose Effective

He Wasn't Lending.

On the Cunard wharf at Liverpool, one day, an Irishman, evidently an intending emigrant, was noticed looking long and wonderingly at a great anchor that was lying on the landing. He lingered so long, and made such close observation that the man in charge finally came up and asked him why he was loitering around there. "Sir, I'm not 'lending at all," said the Irishman, with an air of offended dignity, "but, if I stay here a week, I'll get a look at the fellow that's able to handle that pick."

The International Sanitary Conference when in session at Paris formulated important measures to prevent the Mecca pilgrims from spreading cholera.

W. H. Nelson, who is in the drug business at Kingville, Mo., has so much confidence in Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy that he warrants every bottle and offers to refund the money to any customer who is not satisfied after using it. Mr. Nelson takes no risk in doing this because the remedy is a certain cure for the diseases for which it is intended and he knows it. It is for sale by Blakely & Houghton.

When, by reason of a cold or from other cause, the stomach, liver and kidneys become disordered, no time should be lost in stimulating them to action. Ayer's pills act quickly, safely, and surely. Sold by druggists and dealers in medicines.
