

PIG AT A CANDY PULL.

Surprise of the Forker When He Dipped His Nose in the Dish. Pretty nearly everyone knows or ought to know what an old-fashioned "candy pull" means. It used to be the "apple bees" and such other country affairs away out of sight, and was a much sweeter way of enjoying a winter evening, says the Hartford Courant. It chanced recently that a family in the outskirts of the city thought they would indulge the children in one of these pastimes, and things were made ready. It was just at the end of the last snow, and when the molasses had been boiled sufficiently and had been "tried" by dropping a few drops on a bit of snow, the dishful was placed on the snow just outside the door, the quicker to cool off and be ready for pulling. Some half-grown pigs had been capering about the yard, likely to keep warm, and one of them chanced to come upon the dish of sweet stuff, which by that time had become considerably cooled off on the surface, so that when the fellow's nose touched it it was not in the least uncomfortable. The supposition is that, with his usual avariciousness, the fellow plunged his "snout" away down to the bottom of the vessel. Naturally he got a pretty warm reception when he hit the middle of the mess, and quite naturally, too, he pulled—pulled for dear life. The half-cooled candy stuck to him like a leech, and with an audible grunt he fled as best he might. The people who were chatting within while the cooling process was going on hurried to the door just in time to see piggy lighting out, candy and all, for freedom. They gave chase, but they might as well have tried to catch a cyclone. The youngster finally ran himself out, so to speak, the candy having meantime cooled off sufficiently to make it quite a difficult matter to remove the encumbrance from the poor brute's nose. It is understood that the "pull" that was down for the evening was indefinitely postponed.

LET IT RUN and your cough may end in something serious. It's pretty sure to, if your blood is poor. That is just the time and condition that invites Consumption. The seeds are sown and it has fastened its hold upon you, before you know that it is near.

It won't do to trifle and delay, when the remedy is at hand. Every disorder that can be reached through the blood yields to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

For Severe Coughs, Bronchial, Throat and Lung Diseases, Asthma, Scrofula in every form, and even the scrofulous affection of the lungs that's called Consumption, in all its earlier stages, it is a positive and complete cure.

It is the only blood-cleanser, strength-restorer, and flesh-builder so effective that it can be guaranteed. If it doesn't benefit or cure, in every case, you have your money back. All medicine dealers have it.

For every case of Catarrh which they cannot cure, the proprietors of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy agree to pay $500 in cash. You're cured by its mild, soothing, cleansing, and healing properties, or you're paid.

An International Family. A typical southern African household described by Oliver Schriener had an English father, a half Dutch mother with a French name, a Scotch governess, a Zulu cook, a Hottentot housemaid, and a Kaffir stable boy, while the little girl who waited on the table was a Basuto.

Deafness Cannot be Cured. By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for every case of Deafness caused by catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Help is Wanted. by the women who are ailing and suffering, or weak and exhausted. And, to every such woman, help is guaranteed by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. For young girls just entering womanhood; women at the critical "change of life"; women approaching confinement; nursing mothers; and every woman who is "run-down" or overworked, it is a medicine that builds up, strengthens, and regulates, no matter what the condition of the system.

It's an invigorating, restorative tonic, a soothing and bracing nerve, and the only guaranteed remedy for "female complaints" and weaknesses. In bearing-down sensations, periodical pains, ulceration, inflammation, and every kindred ailment, if it ever fails to benefit or cure, you have your money back.

The fortune of Cecil Rhodes, premier of Cape Colony, in Africa, is set at somewhere from $50,000,000 to $75,000,000—all made in the diamond mines of that country.

Last June, Dick Crawford brought his twelve months old child, suffering from infantile diarrhoea, to me. It had been weaned at four months old and being sickly everything ran through it like water through a sieve. I give it the usual treatment in such cases, but without benefit. The child kept growing thinner until it weighed but little more than when born, or perhaps ten pounds. I then started the father to giving Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. Before one bottle of the 25 cent size had been used, a marked improvement was seen and its continued use cured the child. Its weakness and puny constitution disappeared and its father and myself believe the child's life was saved by this remedy. J. T. MARLOW, M. HER NAME NEVER PRINTED.

The Curious Ill Luck Which Has for Years Followed a Washington Woman. It looks as though social notoriety is not to be the fate of one Washington woman whose name for some inscrutable reason for the last half-dozen years has been omitted from all published accounts of gatherings in which she has taken part. An overmastering curiosity finally prompted her to institute an investigation into the matter, says the Post. She then found that, so far from the omission having been intentional on the part of the correspondents, it arose from the fact that she was personally unknown even by sight to them. Having satisfied herself on this score, the incognito shortly thereafter ordered her carriage, and, calling for a friend, took her for a drive. The little excursion, planned for pleasure, had a most disastrous termination, as the horses, taking fright, ran away and, getting beyond the control of the coachman, the vehicle was overturned and both ladies injured, the owner of the carriage quite seriously. In the midst of her pain as she was being carried home there flashed through her mind the thought that the runaway would be given a space in the papers. Then, as the turn-out was her property, her name would of necessity figure in the account. The following morning a detailed account of the accident appeared in the paper, but by a strange fatality that has for so long ruled her elimination from print, her name was not mentioned. That of her companion was several times repeated in the article, which wound up by stating that "a friend who was in charge at the time was also injured."

SAVED BY A HORSE.

An Enraged Elephant Flees Before a Gentle Pony. Elephants are extremely afraid of horses, writes Maj. John Butler in "Travels in Assam." To that fact he owed the deliverance of his wife and child from a terrible death. With them he was traversing the jungle over an exceedingly rough road, through forest and grass jungle alternately. The way had to be cut as they advanced.

I was in the lead on a large elephant in my howdah, with a good battery of guns, when about midday I heard behind me a general cry of alarm, and hastily rode to the scene of danger. It seems that just after I had passed, with the coolies who cut down the jungle, a huge Mukna elephant rushed from the jungle in a terrible rage, and pursued the little baggage elephant, which was just behind my wife and child! The little elephant screamed and fled for its life, straight ahead.

Fortunately a pony was led beside the palkee which contained my wife and child. The wild elephant was close upon them, and they closed their eyes in horror, expecting to be dragged from their places and trampled to death. At that moment the great beast caught sight of the pony. It stopped short, turned aside, and fled back to the jungle as if pursued by an evil spirit.

Snoozers in Day Coaches.

"I suppose," said a traveler, "that a man ought not to sleep in an ordinary day coach, especially if there is anybody in the seat with him. To most men it is an annoyance to have the other man in the seat go to sleep. He may be the nicest man in the world, but you don't like to have him lean over against you, and even if all he does is nod, and as likely as not he will do that, he attracts attention, and some of that attention is pretty sure to be devoted to you. The passenger whose attention is attracted by a man asleep generally glances also at the man in the seat with him. Sometimes you will see a man whose seat neighbor has gone to sleep get up and go somewhere else, and I can't say that I blame him for it."
