First that soon, there is going to be an upthey start out on the theory that some tariff legislation must be had, and this we think is a serious mistake. It is not absolutely necessary that any legislation should be forced. The democrats of the house have as good artillery as the senate, for they can insist on the Wilson bill or the present law. Besides the temper of the members of the house should be taken into consideration, The senate led by Gorman who got up on his hind legs and howled, was indigmant at the president's interference with the business of the senate and his attempt to coerce lepislation. At the same time the senate has interfered with and usurped the prerogatives of the house, as no senate has ever done before. The bill for raising revenue must be originated in the house. The senate conceding this, take the house bill and so changed it that it is no longer the house bill but a bill originated in the senate, and clearly against the constitution. The lower house of congress will if there are men in it resist this encroachment at the sacrifice of everything else. It has its party behind it, it has the president behind it, and it has the constitution behind both. Looked upon as a party measure and from a democratic standpoint, the house cannot afford to pass the senate bill. The individual members of congress must face their constituents this fall, for re-election. They can go before them in pretty good shape by resisting the attempt of the senate to practically violate the constitution, and can justly claim that they passed a tariff bill on lines following the promises of the platform. If they cannot do this for the supper room, despite my comthey have no ground to stand on. For these and many other reasons, we be-

She threw a sheet over her head and came upon him sud-denly from around the house. Dr. Beck drew his revolver and called on the figure to stop. He called three times, but the girl heeded him not. Then the doctor shot twice. One ball entered Miss Cohee's abdomen and another lodged in her leg. She will prob-

There are several morals to this story, each better than the other. The first is, never to play ghost. The second, never associate with girls who can think of no better amusement than playing at being a ghost. Third, never fool with a Good line, because he has assisted so many in down, balance in three years. giving them up. Fourth, never carry a pistol, especially when you are visiting a lady. Fifth, never shoot at anything until you know what it is. Sixth, don't shoot at a ghost. If it is a ghost you can't hurt it, and if it ain't you will probably feel badly to think you have killed a blamed fool. Seventh, never trust yourself alone with a woman in the dark. Eighth, when you know a man carries a pistol drop the ghost business and kill him with a club. Ninth, don't own a pistol. Tenth, don't blow in your money for extra sheets. Having them too handy causes trouble. Eleventh, leave your abdomen and legs behind when you come the ghost act. Twelfth, avoid all rashly original jokes, like making a ghost of yourself, and Hall's Hair Renewer, an honest remwhen you are in love stick to the old edy. chestnuts if you have to be kittenish. And thirteenth, don't be a blamed fool anyhow.

There are a number of others, but these will do for samples.

THIS ROUTE THE BEST.

Several of the valley papers in advocating the completion of the Oregon Pacific to a point fifty-two miles west of Prineville, use some queer arguments that would be much more effective if true. The principle argument is that freights can be delivered in Prineville from San Francisco for one cent a pound, and that to get frieghts from Portland costs four cents a pound now, sent by way of The Dalles. The freight from here to Prineville in the summer time is three-fourths of a cent a pound, and in the winter it sometimes, but seldom, rises to as high as a cent and a half per pound. The freight from Portland to The Dalles by the river is $5 a ton, o, day and night.

making the rate from Portland to Prineville, except a short time in the winter, one cent s pound, or exactly what our contemporaries are counting on by the new route. Besides, when the freight is costing over a cent a pound by this route, it couldn't be handled at all on the Oregon Pacific, because at that time it would be snowed under.

The American Railway Union leaders are being prosecuted and it was heralded broadcast at the time they were indicted that the grand jury would also inquire into the conspiracy formed by the railway managers. This latter part of the program was suddenly cut. Will Judge We concede the plausibleness of This state of affairs is today the most heaval that will mark a new era.

AN EXPENSIVE DINNER.

It Cost at the Rate of Seven Hundred Del-

"History of the caisine fairly teems with descriptions of costly meals," remarked a resident of Brooklyn recently to a writer for the Washington Star. We read how that profligate Heliogabalus, the Roman emperor, had a single dish on his table once that cost two hundred thousand dollars, and how another Roman. Aelin Verus, gave a supper to a dozen cronies that cost a quarter of a million dollars. Then Vitellius, still another Roman and an emperor, likewise entertained his brother at a little smack that used up a couple of hundred thousand; but these were ancient fellows, who had nightingales' tongues and humming birds' brains and similar marvelous dainties. Coming down to modern days and plain, ordinary, everyday ham and eggs, I ate a supper once in this very town that cost a friend of mine four teen hundred dollars. A gentleman named Parker kept an establishment devoted to entertaining gentlemen at sundry games of chance. One night the friend I speak of and myself were killing an evening here together, when we conceived the idea that a visit to Parker's would be just the thing. We put it into execution at once. I have never gambled in my life, and my friend has not done it since. We went upstairs and entered the room just as supper was announced. My friend did not want to eat anything, but I was hungry, and when some plausible rascal of a dealer told me that there was broiled Smithfield ham flanked with pullets' eggs as a sort of side issue to the otherwise gorgeous feast I broke panion's pleadings. Of course he followed me when he found his protestations were useless, and we enjoyed the feed immensely. When we came out my friend pulled out a twenty-dollar bill and said 'he would play a turn or two to pay for our supper. I begged him in turn not to do it, but he was as A Columbus, Ind., dispatch of July twenty-dollar bill and tried to get it back. In two hours fourteen hundred performed by Ayer's Sarsaparilla, one in particular being that of a little daughter of a Church of England minister. The child was literally covered from head to foot with a red and exceedingly troublesome rash, from which she had suffered for two or three years, in spite of the best medical treatment available. Her father was in great distress about the case, and, at my recommendation, at last began to administer Ayer's Sarsaparilla, two bottles of which effected a complete cure, much to her relief and her father's delight.
