Who are puny, pale, weak, or scrofulous, ought to take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. That builds up both flesh and strength. For this, and for purifying the blood, there's nothing in all medicine that can equal the "Discovery."

In recovering from "Grippe," or in convalescence from pneumonia, fevers, or other wasting diseases, it speedily and surely invigorates and builds up the whole system. As an appetizing, restorative tonic, it sets at work all the processes of digestion and nutrition, rouses every organ into natural action, and brings back health and strength.

For all diseases caused by a torpid liver or impure blood, Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Scrofulous, Skin and Scalp diseases—even Consumption (or Lung-scurf) in its earlier stages—the "Discovery" is the only guaranteed remedy. If it doesn't benefit or cure, in every case, you have your money back.

Right Up with Him.

There are certain Scotch lairds who take the name of their estate, and usually use that appellation in place of a surname. One of these is "Cluny" Macpherson, to whom Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lockwood recently paid a visit. During the London lawyer's stay, Mr. and Mrs. Macpherson and their guests were invited to lunch at a neighboring country house, where a visitors' book was kept. The head of the Clan Macpherson, in accordance with Scotch custom, wrote in the book: "Cluny and Mrs. Macpherson." Mr. Lockwood was not to be outdone by any Scotch chief, and underneath "Cluny's" signature he wrote in a fine, bold hand: "36 Lennox Gardens, and Mrs. Lockwood."

Deafness Cannot be Cured

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Will do you as much good as the one that buys Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. This is what you get with them: An absolute and permanent cure for Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, Sick and Bilious Headaches and all derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels. Not just temporary relief, and then a worse condition afterward—but help that lasts.

Last June, Dick Crawford brought his twelve months old child, suffering from infantile diarrhoea, to me. It had been weaned at four months old and being sickly everything ran through it like water through a sieve. I gave it the usual treatment in such cases, but without benefit. The child kept growing thinner until it weighed but little more than when born, or perhaps ten pounds. I then started the father to giving Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. Before one bottle of the 25 cent size had been used, a marked improvement was seen and its continued use cured the child. Its weakness and puny constitution disappeared and its father and myself believe the child's life was saved by this remedy. J. T. MARLOW, M. MAD ELEPHANTS.

The Peculiar Affection That Often Seizes the Great Beasts.

Instances in India When the Crazy Creatures Have Gone on the Rampage and Killed and Destroyed People and Property.

In the East Indies, where tame elephants are classed as intelligent machines and are invaluable adjuncts to civil engineering and transportation, a "rogue" elephant is as much dreaded as an outbreak of cholera, a tornado, or a man-eating tiger. Its very sagacity makes it all the more dangerous, and when started on a career of destruction and life-taking its methods appear cruel in their pertinacity and ingenuity. Of such "rogues" there are the wild beasts excluded from communion with its fellows and the domesticated animal in the condition of "must." The latter is more dangerous than the other because its spell of blind fury generally begins in densely populated neighborhoods.

East Indian official statistics, however, prove that, as a rule, where one person is killed by an elephant nearly forty are destroyed by tigers, leopards, bears, wolves and hyenas. Exceptions after these data. In one instance a tame elephant which had been docile for years became demoniacal and tore away trumpeting to the woods. Before it was killed it had ravaged a community and killed thirty-five persons.

In India the condition known as "must," which is synonymous with madness, is heralded by an exudation on the forehead of the bull elephant and swelling of the temples. Such an animal in captivity is shackled, and attention is observed in approaching it. Occasionally elephants with chronic bad tempers are found, but they should not be classed with those who are periodically dangerous, or the wild maniacs which are also known as "bitaries." A typical "rogue" ran maraud near Jubbulpore in 1875, and is spoken of as a man eater, because in killing some of its victims it took them all its mouth and tore them to pieces.

Many of the "rogue" elephant stories from Asia are based on the doings of either ostracized beasts or those who escaped from captivity, who in hunting agricultural neighborhoods to feed on crops devastated plantations and killed people who came in their way. One which wandered in the Doon district for fifteen years, and destroyed rice fields and killed many persons, was the property of the government, and never rid itself of a chain which it carried away when it escaped. Its presence near the village was known by the clank of the broken fetters. All such marauding brutes are simply predatory and vicious, sleeping in the jungle during the day and traveling at night. They are not "rogues" proper, or elephants suffering from periodical fury.

Cruelty sometimes makes "rogues" of elephants. In 1886, while an elephant was being ridden by its keeper in the district of Sultapore, in Oude, the animal resented prodding with a spear by pulling the man from his back and throwing him some distance away. Fortunately the man fell in a hollow and remained there undiscovered by the elephant, who went to a neighboring village. There he chased an old man into a house, then broke down the walls, pulled the man out and dashed him to pieces.

The same night the elephant knocked down several houses in quest of human beings in the villages of Sardapur, Bargaon and Jaipurpur. He killed six men in Bersona, three in Sora, four in Ganges, and four in Marjan. He likewise killed a bullock and a pony and also destroyed a new carriage. The animal used to stand at the door of a house, force his entry by demolishing the walls on either side, and would then kill as many of the inmates as he could, pursuing those who tried to run away. He mangled his corpses terribly.

After securing a victim he sometimes returned to the spot to see if life were extinct, and would commence mutilating the body afresh. He carried several bodies long distances and threw them into ravines, etc. The elephant found his way into the dehra rajah's palace, where he tried to enter the house of a gardener, but some men, mounted on three elephants, assisted by a spearman, drove him off. He then returned to Behipur, where he tried to break down his master's house, in which several persons had taken refuge. The police got into the house from a back window and were obliged to send for help to the dehra rajah, who sent three elephants and some spearmen. The animal received two gunshot wounds on the head at Behipur, which, however, only temporarily drove him off. He was ultimately captured at imminent risk by the rajah's three elephants and men.

National Wealth of Europe. Holland still enjoys the distinction of being the richest country in Europe. The national wealth of England per capita is $4,026. France, $5,300, and Holland, $12,500. The average incomes per head are given as follows: England, $209; France, $305, and Holland, $637. With one-tenth the population of England, Holland has one-fourth as much aggregate wealth, and with one-eleventh of the population of France, Holland has nearly one-third as much wealth. On an area of one-quarter of Iowa Holland sustains 3,750,000 of people and wealth in the aggregate of $47,500,000,000.

A Little Green. During a strike on the North British railway, much difficulty was experienced to find the necessary engineers to keep the necessary trains running. One of the substitutes, a young fellow, ran some distance past a station, and then, putting back, ran as much too far the other way. He was preparing to make a third attempt, when the station agent shouted, to the great amusement of the passengers: "Never mind, Tammas; stay where you are! We'll shift the station."

Chemical Perfumery.

Chemistry seems to furnish substitutes for the expensive perfumes now made from flowers. It has long been known that the exact odor of the banana is produced in the laboratory. There seems a possibility, however, that even when some fragrant plants cease to be cultivated for the perfumes many may become of importance in surgery. It has been discovered that some such plants are free from the attacks of insects and from fungous growths, and this may be due to the fact that their essential oils have antiseptic properties. The eucalyptus yields an antiseptic, and so do other familiar plants.

A horse kicked H. S. Shafer, of the Freemyre House, Middleburg, N. Y., on the knee, which laid him up in bed and caused the knee joint to become stiff. A friend recommended him to use Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which he did, and in two days was able to be around. Mr. Shafer has recommended it to many a bruise or sprain. This same remedy is also famous for its cures of rheumatism. For sale by Blakeley & Houghton.

W. H. Nelson, who is in the drug business at Kingville, Mo., has so much confidence in Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy that he warrants every bottle and offers to refund the money to any customer who is not satisfied after using it. Mr. Nelson takes no risk in doing this because the remedy is a certain cure for the diseases for which it is intended and he knows it. It is for sale by Blakeley & Houghton.
