

THE WOMAN WHO WORKS, and is tired, will find a special help in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Perfectly harmless in any condition of the female system. It promotes all the natural functions, and builds up, strengthens, regulates and cures. For women approaching confinement, nursing mothers, and every weak, run-down, delicate woman, it is an invigorating, supporting tonic that's peculiarly adapted to their needs.

But it's more than that, too. It's the only guaranteed remedy for all the functional disturbances, painful disorders, and chronic weaknesses of womanhood. In "female complaints" of every kind, periodical pains, bearing-down sensations, internal inflammation, and kindred ailments, if it ever fails to benefit or cure, you have your money back.

Something else that pays the dealer better, may be offered as "just as good." Perhaps it is for him, but it can't be, for you.

THE VINEGAR HABIT.

A Dangerous Method of Improving the Complexion.

A Rochester (N. Y.) physician tells about a patient that he had not long since, who poisoned herself by drinking vinegar. She began to use it to improve her complexion, but soon grew to like it, and after a time it became a necessity to her. As the habit grew she got stronger and stronger grades, until she was daily consuming large quantities of almost pure acetic acid. When he was called to attend her it was a long time before he could make up his mind what was the matter with her. Her complexion was of a deadly white, she had no appetite, and could hardly be persuaded to touch food of any sort. Four eminent physicians, who were called in consultation, failed to diagnose the real cause of the trouble, but attributed the lady's condition, one to one thing and another to another. Finally the attendant physician, through the lady's servant, found out the real root of the trouble, but too late to do his patient any good. He said this was the only case in his experience of a person's forming a vinegar habit, but he was persuaded that a good deal of the ill health of many ladies was due to their using too much vinegar, with the idea that it would improve their looks.

The London Stone.

Most travelers while in London pay a visit to "London stone." This historic stone is oblong in shape, of a grayish color, and is imbedded in the slabs of the foundation of St. Swithin's church, which is situated right in the heart of the city. This stone was erected by the Romans half a century before the birth of the Saviour as the central milestone of point of their possession in Britain. From it all roads, divisions of property and distances throughout the province were measured. It has been recognized as the heart of England from which all its arteries flowed by every historian or antiquary known to English literature. A feeling has always existed among Englishmen about this stone which was not altogether superstition, that as all distances were reckoned from it so it was in a certain way the base of the stability of England.

"I know an old soldier who had chronic diarrhoea of long standing to have been permanently cured by taking Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," says Edward Shumplik, a prominent druggist of Minneapolis, Minn. "I have sold the remedy in this city for seven years and consider it superior to any other medicine now on the market for bowel complaints." 25 and 50 cent bottles of this remedy for sale by Blakely & Houghton druggists.

It's a powerful bad sine when wimen get the polttricks habit. Congress thinks it ain't doin' its dooty of it ain't makin' laws all the time.

My boy was taken with a disease resembling bloody flux. The first thing I thought of was Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. Two doses of it settled the matter and cured him sound and well. I heartily recommend this remedy to all persons suffering from a like complaint. I will answer any inquiries regarding it when stamp is inclosed. I refer to any county official as to its reliability. Wm. Roach, J. P., Primroy, Campbell Co., Tenn. For sale by Blakely & Houghton drug dist.

We have made arrangements with the San Francisco Examiner to furnish it in connection with THE CHRONICLE. Having a clabbing rate with the Oregonian and N. Y. Tribune for our republican patrons, we have made this arrangement for the accommodation of the democratic members of THE CHRONICLE family. Both papers, the Weekly Examiner and Semi-Weekly Chronicle will be furnished for one year for $2.25, cash in advance.

A FOOLISH BELIEF.

Alligators Do Not Follow the Stealers of Their Eggs.

"There is a generally believed theory in regard to alligators' nests," said a Florida man recently to a representative of the Globe-Democrat, "which is entirely erroneous. The popular idea is that the mother alligator never goes out of sight of her eggs, and that if anyone disturbs the nest their life insurance policies are worth near in a very few minutes.

"I was not an alligator expert when I went down on Indian river for the first time, and was ignorant of the dire consequence of touching alligators when they were still bottled up in a shell in a liquid state. Seeing a nest and three eggs on the bank of the river, I captured them, without seeing any maternal guardian, and took them home with me. Here I put the eggs under a stove, and in the course of a few days they hatched out.

"The reptiles broke through the sides of the shell, which remained fastened to them by umbilical cords, and did not free themselves from their late place of residence for several days. They were fierce from the moment of birth and would strike at anyone who approached them. Running around with the egg still attached to them and their mouths wide open, they presented a strange spectacle.

"Since then I have robbed several nests when the parent alligator was out calling upon the neighbors, and I have never yet caught a glimpse of any angry guardian endeavoring to avenge the abduction of her embryo offspring. The nests are not found very frequently, but when they are and there are no reptiles in sight they can be robbed with perfect safety to the robber."

WOMEN AND MARRIAGE.

The Typewriter Responsible for a Large Decrease in Marriages.

The federal census for 1899 reports that of the 19,002,178 women of marriageable age 6,233,207, or one-third, were unmarried. Over one-half (53 per cent.) of the women between 20 and 25 were unmarried, and 28 per cent. of those between 25 and 30, while 6 per cent. will never marry.

If a woman does not marry by the time she is 20, says the New York World, the chances are 53 to 47 that she will not be married until she is 25, and 28 to 72 that she will not be married until she is 30. To put it in simpler form, of every 100 women who reach the age of 20 unmarried, 47 marry between 20 and 25, while 25 marry between 25 and 30, and 6 never marry.

One reason why fifteen years ago 63 out of every 100 women married between the ages of 20 and 25, while only 47 marry now, is because many avenues have been opened to women by which they can earn a living without becoming the "servant in all but salary" of a man. Shorthand and the typewriter have opened opportunities for hundreds of thousands, and the commercial colleges have filled our cities and towns with clerks, bookkeepers and telegraphers of the gentler sex. Tasting the sweets of independence they apparently look askance at matrimony with its burdens and sacrifices.

A FOUR-FOOTED BIRD.

It Sheds Its Extra Feet, However, Before It Is Six Weeks Old.

That there are still numerous chances for the indefatigable student and investigator to make new discoveries may be judged from the fact that the only known species of four-footed bird has been discovered only quite recently, says the St. Louis Republic.

This curious anomaly, which could very properly be styled an "avis paradoxicalis," is a native of the Amazon river country, its principal habitat being the islands of Marajo. It is only during the period of incubation (at which time the little embryo's extra legs and feet are seen at their best) and early birdhood that the four-footed feature is at all observable. Like the baby frog, which either "sheds" or "absorbs" its tail, the four-footed bird rid itself of its useless legs in the same manner, chicks six weeks of age usually being perfectly free from any signs of the extra members. The ornithologists profess to believe that this curious creature is a survival of some past geological epoch. Its scientific name is Opisthocornis cristatus. The natives call it the "hinetzin," which means the "evil-sounding bird." It is also claimed that there is not a carnivorous animal known that will taste its flesh.

No Prohibition About It.

During a certain court-martial trial held recently in New Mexico, a colored sergeant was called to testify against a lieutenant, formerly his troop-commander, now charged before the court with intoxication and neglect of duty. "You say that the lieutenant told you to march the troop down to So-and-so's ranch and there go into camp?" asked the judge-advocate. "Yes, sah," replied the African sergeant. "Well, from previous testimony, it seems that 'our troop went that night without water.' 'No, sah; we didn't get no water.' 'Well, how was that? There was plenty of water at the ranch. They didn't prohibit you from getting water, did they?' asked the judge-advocate. "Oh, no sah; dey warn't no prohibition about it. Dey was watah dere, but dey just wouldn't let us hab it."

A Quiet Man.

A certain prominent and excellent lawyer of Chicago, but one of the quietest and most unobtrusive of men, steals around noiselessly, with his hands meekly clasped on his breast and a serene and perpetual smile. A bon mot at his expense is told of the late Emory Storrs, of Chicago, a brilliant advocate and an exquisite wit. He went to the lawyer's office and inquired for him, but was informed that he was out. "Oh, no, he isn't," he replied; "I know he is in." "But I assure you, Mr. Storrs, he is not in." "Now," responded Mr. Storrs, "I know better; he must be in, it is so still in there!"
