Pleasant help, too. These sugar-coated little Pellets are the smallest, the easiest to take, and the easiest in the way they act. No griping, no violence, no disturbance to the system, diet or occupation.

They come in sealed vials, which keeps them always fresh and reliable; a convenient and perfect vest-pocket remedy. They're the cheap-set pills you can buy.

GIRLS WHO SELL THEIR HAIR. They Sometimes Do It to Acquire a Little Pin Money.

"Do we have many girls come to sell their hair? Well, I should so, but we don't make a business of buying on account of the risk we would have to run,' said a Pittsburgh hair dealer to a Dispatch representative, recently. "I have had girls come to me and offer to sell their hair as it was on their heads. No, they don't get good prices-one dollar and fifty to two dollars and fifty cents being as much as I ever gave. I know of one case, however, where a well-known society woman took a fancy to the hair of a young lady she met accidentally and she paid the highest price I have ever known for a head of hair. The young lady in question had a luxuriant growth of golden-brown hair and one day she was approached by this lady, who was compelled to use false hair, who said to her: 'Miss if at any time you desire to part with your hair, you can find a customer in me.' The young lady was in need of pin money at the time and said: 'Well, I am not particular about keeping it now, as it is a little too light for my taste.' So she agreed to have her hair cut and in payment received eight dollars and a half. If girls could always get such a sum for their flowing locks there would be a great many more short-haired young ladies about the

A MEMORABLE DAY.

The Earth Enveloped in a Mysterious Darkness.

an Explanation of the Phenomenon Which Filled the People with Terror.

The most memorable phenome non of the heavens in modern times was that day of remarkable darkness over New England May 19, 1781. That day, says a writer in the Chicago Times, made a more profound impression, has been more written and talked about, than all the auroras, comets and meteoric showers within the last ave centuries The great astronomer Herschel placed it in the domain of the unexplainable. thousands of persons anticipated the dawn of doom. The great colonial struggle for American independence was still in progress, the federal union was not yet established; there was that chaotic state that generally precedes great changes, and there was considerable rancor in the minds of the Patriot and royalist each regarded the ominous sky and the threatening gloom as the evidence of Heaven's displeasure against the other, and the general conclusion was that the impending mystery would culminate in the fate of Sodom and Gomorrah. The ignorant gave way to all sorts of grotesque conjectures, and the few pro-founder minds were unable to advance any rational explanation of the very unusual occurrence.

The legislature of Connecticut was in session on this ill-omened day, and most of the members made no secret of their belief that now had come the great day foretold in the apocalyptic vision. A member got up and pro-posed adjournment. The matter being open for discussion a legislator named Davenport arose and said:

"Mr. Speaker, it is either the day of judgment or it is not. If it is not there is no need of adjournment; if it is, I desire to be found doing my duty. Let candles be brought and let business continue." But the motion to adjourn was decisively carried, and the lawmakers who fashioned the laws for the "men of steady habits" went forth from their chamber to gaze at the weird and somber sky. It was Friday and the intensity began soon after ten o'clock a. m. and continued till past the middle of the following night. The wind was from the southwest, and the darkness seemed to come with it from that direction. It soon became too dark to read common print readily, and candles were lighted in order to attend to household duties. After a time the breeze subsided; a dead calm followed and added to the solemnity. The darkness was all over New England, westward as far as Al bany, N. Y., southward along the coast of Maryland, South Carolina and Georgia, and northward as far as any communication was had with any settlements.

Nothing was known beyond these boundaries, but there is reason to believe that a much greater area was involved.

Prof. Williams, of Harvard college, was indefatigable in observing, collectto him the credit is due for the data Warehouse. from which it is possible to deduce the causes of this soul-harrowing dark day. Mr. Williams professed himself unable to offer any solution, but this was probably owing to the lack of knowledge of the physical interior of this great country and its sometimes peculiar relationship to current meteorology.

All was black as primeval night when chaos ruled the world and sun and stars were as inky spots in the heavens.

And now we come to the key that unlocks the mental situation and it becomes clear what it was that stood in the way of an understanding of this mystery. Innumerable were the grotesque and irrational hypotheses that were advanced from which their advocates endeavored to find the solution of this extraordinary occurrence.

An eclipse of the sun was claimed. but as the moon was near its "full" and probably one hundred and eighty degrees out of solar line from the earth, such a condition was physically impossible. A transit of Venus or some other celestial body across the sun's disc had advocates. Men of grave demeanor contended that a star had egught fire and started a conflagration of the heavens, or the sun had expired, hence the residuum of smoke and ashes.

There had been immense land fires, where there was no one to report, covering perhaps many hundreds if not thousands of square miles, probably fanned by brisk gales, the vapor and sooty substances taken up by ascending currents from the heated surface and loaded on favoring breezes to be wafted over the land of the pilgrims and, as it chanced, to be air-dammed with the results narrated. This continued until the barrier gave way, when the vapor soon dispersed. The great middle and western states have time and again had this smokiness, which no one now thinks of regarding as supernatural. The only unusual feature of this occasion was the unusual combination of conditions.

This, in brief, is the explanation of the wonderful dark day.
