

A "RUN-DOWN" and "used-up" feeling is the first warning that your liver isn't doing And, with a torpid liver and the impure blood that follows ft, you're an easy prey to all sorts of ailments.

That is the time to take Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. As an appetizing, restorative tonic, to repel disease and build up the needed flesh and strength, there's nothing to equal it. It rouses nothing to equal it. It rouses every organ into healthful action, purifies and enriches the blood, braces up the whole system, and restores health and vigor.

For every disease caused by a disordered liver or impure blood, it is the only guaranteed remedy. If it doesn't benefit or cure, in every case, you have your money back.

WOMAN'S NEW TYRANNY. The Girl on a Bicycle Makes Man More

Helpless Still. There is a new terror in town, says the Louisville Courier-Journal.

It goeth forth like a lion, seeking whom it may run down. It is more to be dreaded than a car of Juggernaut, because it can speed around the square while Juggernaut is turning the corner. It is more t rrible than an army with banners; yea, than an army of nurses with baby buggies. It is-what need to say?-the woman

Pedestrians have some slight protection against the man on a bicycle when he goes on a rampage. They can scurry out into the gutter and kick mud at him. They can scramble upon the fence and hurl hard hunks of language at him. They can subsidize a teamster and sick a coal cart on him. They can lug around baseball-batwalking-canes and knock him out on the fly now and then. They can even carry their guns at half cock and bring him down on the wing, if quick enough on trigger. But the woman on a bicycle is another thing altogether. The public has long since recognized the fact that it is at the mercy of the woman on a pavement, especially if she walk double or triple file, and more especially if she carry an umbrella. Put her on a bicycle and she is simply devestation on wheels. With faces set as grimly as fate's, with eyes as unseeing as the sphinx's, with pedals as relentless the jaws which clamp her tolu, she swoops down the street, and when she does let the beasts hunt their holes, the fowls their roosts, and men and children hurry to the second stories, if second stories be in reach.

"I know an old soldier who had chronic diarrhoes ot long standing to have been permanently cured by taking Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoa Remedy," says Edward Shumpik, a prominent druggist of Minneapolis, Minn. He Mispronounced It.

The Housekeeper's Weekly tells how a boy was led astray by a misunder stood title. He was about eight years old and was looking over the bookshelves for something to read. A volume bound in red attracted him. It was Pope's "Essay on Man." He read it for a few minutes and then threw it down. "It may be easy on man." he said, "but it's hard on a boy.

My boy was taken with a disease resembling bloody flux. The first thing I thought of was Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhosa Remedy. Two doses of it settled the matter and cured him sound and well. I heartily recommend this remedy to all persons suffering from a like complaint. I will answer any inquiries regarding it when stamp is inclosed. I refer to any county official as to my reliability. Wm. Roach, J. P., Primroy, Campbell Co., Tenn. #### THE "WOODEN NAVY."

Life on the Early Warships of the United States.

Jected to Shaving

Early in August, 1831, the United States 44-gun frigate Potomac, Capt. John Downes, lay in New York har bor tugging away at her anchor in a half-restless, half-indolent mood, as if anxious to get to sea, but was deterred from making the necessary exertion by the enervating heat of the sun President Jackson, writes Edgar Stanton Maclay in Harper's Magazine, had recently appointed Martin Van Buren minister to England, and the frigate was waiting to convey the future president of the United States to the "Tight Little Island." Conscious of the honor of having a distinguished passenger (with political influence), the younger officers of the ship spent more time than usual before the mirror, endeavoring to give a martial part to their hair. They even got out their uniforms, as if they expected to wear them every day in the week, instead of only once or twice in the cruise, when some special ceremony required it.

The scale of pay established at the time of the war of 1812 allowed our captains only one hundred dollars a month, with which to maintain the honor of the flag abroad, and incidentally support a family. The lieutenants got fifty dollars a month, and the mid-shipmen struggled along on considerably less, so that it was not to be expected that they could afford the luxury of a uniform every day in the week. In the cruise in which he captured the Macedonian, Capt. Stephen Decatur is described as "wearing an old straw hat and a plain suit of clothes, which made him look more like a tarmer than a naval hero."

If the handsome young officers of the Potomac could not make as noble a display as they might have desired in the matter of padding, epaulets and gold lace, they at all events could devote more than usual attention to their embryo beards. The regulations in force compelled them to shave their faces smooth at least once in so many days, no matter how luxuriantly inclined some of them might have been toward whiskers. The officers who were especially prone to run to hair found the regulation a stumbling block to their pride, and no small amount of temper was expended in consequence. But in view of the fact that their distinguished passenger "had a pull," which might land them in a choice position some grace than could have been expected. Moreover, the hearts of these officers warmed toward "Martin," because in the war over Peggy O'Neal, "the pretwith Peggy-and Peggy was the widow of a naval officer.

The same bustle and air of expectancy was noticeable among the sailors of the Potomac. They were busily en-gaged in togging themselves out in druggists. their best rig, polishing their neat morocco pumps, and going through the most approved and latest style of naumost approved and latest style of had tical prinking. Some of the real old salts in the frigate, however, who affected to despise the "innovation of my boy. He's about seven now, and a my boy. He's about seven now, and a out delay at Cascades. good old days when men-o'-wars-men nad their inalienable rights to dress "their own exclusive persons in their own exclusive tastes," were not so particular in washing and pressing out their nest nankeen uniforms. They were satisfied with greasing their long hair, and then braiding it down their backs, with just enough wax in the end to make it curl up like a fish hook.

These were the men who had made the American navy famous. They had taken a hand in flogging the Parleyvous in 1798-1801, and had downed the yataghan-armed Turks in the fierce and had exterminated hordes of pibeen through the "late war," in which the pride of the mistress of the ocean was taken down a peg or two.

voyage might be made as endurable as possible for their passenger "with a pull" and his "land-lubberly" retinue, supply of hideous-looking chairs, such as never before had dese-crated the decks of the frigate. and heathenish-looking trunks, pre-posterous bundles, and outlandish packages, were piled around in just the places where an out-and-out good seaman would be most likely to crack his shins against them. The stewards, also, began to assume a pompous and condescending air that was entirely beyond their station, while the masterat-arms and quartermasters were, busy hoisting squealing pigs (tied in bunches by their feet), coops filled with eackling hens, and many other delicacies that might tempt the weak stomachs of the guests.

New Tanning Process.

One of the most important recent applications of chemistry has resulted in great improvement of the processes of a long-established and widely extended industry-the tanning of leather. The many beautiful exhibits of "mineral-tanned leather" at the world's fair attracted the attention of all interested in that industry and of many others as well. The chemical principle involved in this mineral tanning lies in the conversion of the fiber of the skin into an insoluble, impermeable and non-putrescible compound by combining it with chromic oxide. It is well known that in the common leather the fiber is combined with tannic acid. It may then be said that the new process differs from the old by the substitution of chromic oxide-or tannic

Sugar Growing in Jamaica.

Work on a Jamaica sugar plantation commences at six in the morning and lasts until dusk. The period of sugar-making extends from the beginning of December till the middle of June, the cane being planted so as to ripen in succession during those months, for if The Dalles, Portland and Asteria it all ripened at once it would be impossible to find either the labor or the machinery to deal with it. In an ordinary plantation, say of seven hundred acres, the output will be about ten tons of sugar per day, or forty-five to fifty tons a week, but that is sugar enough to sweeten two million five hundred thousand cups of tea.

Kenneth Bazemore had the good fortune to receive a small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera, and Diarrhoa Remedy when three members of his tamily were sick with dysentery. This day, the officers lathered and scraped one small bottle cured them all and he away at their chins with more good had some left which he gave to Geo. W. Baker, a prominent merchant of the place, Lewiston. N. C., and it cured him of the same complaint. When ty, witty, saucy, active tavern keeper's troubled with dysentery, diarrhea, colic daughter," which nearly wrecked or cholers morbus, give this remedy a President Jackson's cabinet, he sided trial and you will be more than pleased with the result. The praise that naturally follows its introduction and use has made it very popular. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Blakely & Houghton,
