We received a letter today sending stamps for THE CHRONICLE, which is wanted in California by parties who are thinking of locating here. They will make no mistake if they profit by the words of wisdom they will find in the paper, and cast their fortunes and their fate with us.

Judge E. A. Wiswell of Vancouver, was drowned at Clatsop beach yesterday. He was an exceptionally good swimmer and ventured out beyond the lifelines. It is supposed he was taken with cramps and going down was caught by the undertow which is very strong. His wife stood on the beach and saw him drown.

An expert gives the following opinion regarding the recent discovery of gold in the artesian wells of Pullman: "There is no question but that the find is a rich one. Pullman is thoroughly excited over the discovery, and claims are being located in all directions. A number of companies with ample capital to make developments were formed. It will be but a few days until the lead will be uncovered. Alex. Rowe, owner of the land where the discovery was made, is regarded as a very fortunate man."—Walla Walla Statesman.

Shutt the Winner This Time.

The foot race which took place at Antelope last Wednesday evening, between the professional, Harry Stevens, and the Antelope puddin', E. M. Shutt, for $500 a side, resulted in the latter coming out winner by about 6 feet. Stevens conceded Shutt 15 feet on the start, and the former's backers, besides many others, judging from the race run on Sunday, July 30th, were confident of Stevens' ability to win the race easily, even with that handicap. Early in the morning, Steven's backers, Billy Hunt, of Tygh valley, and C. D. Beach, an insurance agent from Illinois, tossed their $50 bills around promiscuously, but did not find the Antelope boys willing to bet much until later in the day, when the strangers' money amounting to about $750, was all covered, and a great deal more of Antelope's money could find no takers. Beach lost a $65 gold watch and chain, a finger ring, a pocket knife and his hat, besides his money. Billy Hunt lost his $30 overcoat, sleeve buttons, pocket knife, two fine finger rings, and many other trinkets. By about 3:30 the race track west of town was occupied by about 300 spectators from all parts of the country, and they were pretty evenly divided as to the result of the race, though the betting then was two to one on the Antelope man. After the necessary preliminaries were gone through with, the runners took their respective positions, with Grant Mays as starter, and E. D. McArthur, E. M. Wingate and Wm. Menefee as judges. When the pistol cracked, both runners broke from the line as though they were shot out of a cannon, and made for the goal with all the speed at their command. Stevens gained slightly on Shutt until within 25 yards of the outcome, when the latter made a splendid home spurt, and passed the line about 6 feet ahead of his competitor. At this stage the Antelope crowd took on another of their victorious, enthusiastic "war whoops," and such yells have not been heard since the time of the memorable baseball game on June 16th. Shutt was tossed in the air and carried by the boys to his tent, where he was dressed and attended by his trainer, Mr. Roderiquez. The crowd then dispersed, and left for town, still yelling, "Hurrah for Antelope."

A fine ball was given that night, and the fantastic toe was tripped with a great deal more life and mirth than usual. Antelope is now giving baseball a much needed rest, and is talking foot race.—Antelope Herald.
