AUGUST AUGURINGS.

Leaves From the Notebook of Chronicle Reporters.

Mr. Frank Fulton of Sherman county is in the city.

The special with the Western Union superintendents arrived here this afternoon.

Spokane is making an effort to have the next irrigation congress meet in that city.

It is estimated that California has over 10,000,000 bushels of wheat held over from the crop of 1893.

The first wheat of this season to find its way to market was shipped from Walla Walla to Portland Monday. None has been received here yet.

The president has written a pathetic letter to Congressman Wilson, sympathizing with him on his defeat by the senate. Who will write to the president?

The Regulator brought up a large number of passengers and about fifty tons of freight, ten of which were for La Grande merchants. She took down something more than fifty tons of wool this morning.

"One more unfortunate weary of breath," and not to be wondered at either, considering the combination of beer and cheese with which it was flavored, was before the city recorder this morning. Result, $5.

C. J. Mulkey, who was convicted of smuggling, has applied to the president for a pardon. The papers in the case have been forwarded to District Attorney Murphy for his recommendation concerning the application.

Hunters in the Willamette valley say there is no necessity for protecting the Denny pheasant. That they are perfectly able to take care of themselves, not allowing the hunters to get near them, and taking to the center of the big grain fields when disturbed.

Times are remarkably dull in legal circles, but when they begin to get better the fraternity will reap a harvest. There are hundreds of mortgages that are not foreclosed, simply because the holders are afraid the properties will not sell for enough to pay the mortgages and expenses.

Messrs. Sinnott & Fish have had the opera house repaired, and it is now about ready for business. The flood caused the center of the floor to lift up and as the sand washed under the supports it remained that way. These have had the sand removed from under them, and the floor leveled, and everything is in place except the stage.

There is a dearth of news today but as the county clerk has promised to give us tomorrow the names of parties who have taken out a marriage license, we see plain sailing for our local page for one day at least. In the present ocean of dullness a real live wedding notice ought to make a run on the paper.

Mr. Geo. Reed has left with us some specimens of vegetable peaches. They are said to be a versatile vegetable, tasting like peaches when pickled, like mushrooms when they are fried and can pass muster for almost anything, the flavor depending entirely on the manner of cooking. They look like a cucumber that was not on to its job, and smell like the hired man might like them.

Judge Bellinger has made another ruling in the whiskey-to-Indians cases, and will not let those arrested on the charge be proceeded against by information, but insists that they must be indicted before they can be tried. He adds that the state authorities are perfectly able to take care of these cases. All of which is no doubt true, but the state officers are not anxious to saddle expense on the different counties by taking care of Uncle Sam's wards. When they are made citizens the state courts will look out for them.

If there is a city in the whole broad land with as villainous a lot of sidewalks as we have we would like to know where it is. The walks themselves are all right but down each and every one run three or four rows of nails, that have their heads sticking out of the wood from half an inch to two inches. This state of affairs should not be allowed to exist, for not only are these projecting nails a nuisance, but they are actually dangerous. Now let the property owners follow the example of this article and hit the nail on the head.

Jack, the Window Smasher.

Coxey, the distinguished guest of the city, who is serving out a sentence of fifty-five days for breaking the windows in the Umatilla House, has been working steadily since his incarceration, and had succeeded in gaining the confidence of his watchers. For nearly a month he has been a trusty, and has behaved in an exemplary manner. Last night, however, he fell from grace, for somehow he managed to get a jag of beer aboard, and in the night he took his boots and smashed all the windows in the city jail he could reach. He will have a chance to serve out another fifty day sentence.

Crop Bulletin.

The following is the report of the Oregon State Weather Service for the week ending Monday, Aug. 13th, 1894:

Normal temperature conditions prevailed during the week. The precipitation was below the normal, except in Baker county, where some beneficial showers occurred. The sunshine was possibly below the average.

The yields of fall grain are very satisfactory. At Endersby, in Wasco county, a correspondent states the crop is the largest for years. Many large yields are reported from the Walla Walla valley. In some sections of Wasco county some grain is reported as shriveled, consequently not first-class; but the berry, as a rule, is plump. The grain crop generally is what farmers expected, and the damage by the grain aphid is slight and confined to localities. The barley crop is accordingly good. Our correspondent from Heppner, Morrow county, states that there will be an abundant crop of wheat and barley. Harvesting is being advanced; the headers are running early and late. There appears to be some kind of sickness among the horses, from which several died at Ella, Morrow county. Stock is in good condition, and there is a good sale for beef cattle.

In the interior and eastern counties the fall wheat and barley crops are being harvested and some early sown spring grain is ripe enough to cut. Grain ripened slowly, and as a consequence the berry is plump. No threshing has yet been done. A correspondent from Crook county states that the harvest will be the largest in the history of the county; but the grain aphid is on all kinds of grain. Haying is well advanced. The crop will be short in Grant county. The crop of alfalfa will be an average in all sections. The potato crop is unusually promising. All kinds of stock are in fine condition, and are being sold at fair prices.

A Judge of More Than Law.

Mr. J. P. McInerney returned from Clatsop Saturday. He tells us Judge Bradshaw is as happy as the proverbial clam, has gone to the seaside for a good time and is having it. From other sources we learn that the judge is the sea lion of the beach. That when he doffs his judicial ermine and every-day garments, and comes out in a suit decollete at both ends, every office holder takes off his hat, thinking it is Grover himself. And when with airy tread his slyph-like form undulates down over the golden sands to the briny deep the patient clam exhausts his fire extinguisher and hunts bedrock. And when against the heaving bosom of the grand Pacific he pushes his own broad breast, the resultant tidal wave starts all the disciples of Falb for high ground. Besides, there isn't on the whole coast a mind better stored with knowledge of the sea-girt clam than he. From roasting him out of bed with a stick, to opening his pearly mouth and preparing him for subsequent deglutition, the judge is an expert. He knows to the fraction of a hair how much seasoning he requires, and to the fragment of a second how long to cook him. He knows how to eat him too, and in consequence has gained something less than fifty pounds in weight since he reached the shore. The judge will return in about three weeks or a month, and the clams will hold high carnival at high tide to celebrate his absence.

Reduction in Wages.

The O. R. & N. Co. has issued the following circular to its employees:

"This company has been wholly unable to meet its operating expenses during the months preceding the recent flood although the strictest economy has been followed. The interruption of traffic and the damages by the recent flood have caused us extraordinary losses, and the business outlook is most depressing by the reason of the general low prices prevailing, and the general stagnation of business everywhere. All these causes make a reduction of operating expenses absolutely necessary, and it has been decided to reduce wages as follows: "On all employees drawing over $100 per month, 12 1/2 per cent. "On all employees drawing over $50, to and including $100 per month, 10 per cent.

"The reduction takes effect August 13. It is very unpleasant to reduce wages, but the necessity existing at the present time must be met, and employees should cheerfully accept their portion of the burden resting on the company. On the other hand, the company should and will advance wages when improved conditions permit it. J. P. O'BRIEN, Superintendent.

We Are Not Afraid.

According to Professor Fall, there is to be an upheaval of the bottom of the Pacific some time between the 17th and 30th of this month. The result will be a tidal wave sixty feet high. Some of our Portland contemporaries are estimating the damage that would be done in Portland. As a matter of fact, should a tidal wave of the height named enter the Columbia, it would never be felt in Portland, as it would soon spread out and exhaust itself. We need not lose any sleep on account of the prediction, as The Dalles is not afraid of any flood since its recent experience.
