of President Cleveland concerning the murdered Carnot, the French president, tariff bill. He will allow it to become a June 24th. He was tried, his appeal law. He will do this, not because the taken and settled, and yesterday he was country wants it, but because the necessities of the party demand it. The elec- He died a coward. tions are coming on, and the lower house was anxious to adjourn and get home to stocks of all kinds have been used up. No matter what tariff laws were passed, the factories had to start to supply the demand. Should Cleveland veto the senate bill, or had the house refused to pass it, the McKinley bill would have remained in force. Of course the increase of business would then have been credited to the operation of that bill. As it is, the democrats will claim the increase of business and better times as says Macmillan's Magazine. Here is the result of the passage of the senate

For this reason the president's hands' are tied. Gorman saw his opportunity and took advantage of it. He realized his ability to catch the rabbit whenever he got ready, and has no doubt enjoyed the situation immensely. He has killed himself with the democracy, but he will go down into history as the only man who ever bent President Cleveland to his will and compelled him to do those things that he did not want to do.

No doubt the president is raging way down in his inwards, but he has to smile and look pleasant, and stand up to the rack, even though there is no fodder that he likes. Gorman has won, and Gorman is done.

OUR STATE MILITIA.

The Pendleton Tribune falls on the militia heavily in its issue of the 15th, saying among other things that "as an imitation of soldiers they are all right; as fighters ignominious failures." further says in substance that the militia is composed of the "masculated youth of the city," and that the militia will have to be composed of country boys before it will amount to anything.

We heartily indorse all our contemporary says about the country boys, but

WHICH KIND IS IT?

Mr. John B. Gorham. whose communication concerning religion and the sinks of iniquity appears in this issue, rather arraigns the churches for not being more aggressive. While it is no doubt true that the Salvation Army methods reach elements that are not reached by the churches, it is equally true that all Christians cannot be expected to follow those methods. When they do the loss will be greater than the gain. In regards to what the gentleman calls "sinks of iniquity," opinions vary also. We do not know exactly ment between the nours of or. We have heard it applied by one newspaper man to another's palatial office; we have heard it applied to the Oregon legislature, and it is quite a catchy phrase in election times, each party insisting that the other is a "sink of iniquity." ANCIENT ADVERTISEMENTS.

How the Old Roman Tradesmen Solicited Public Patronage.

Latin inscriptions, advertisements of tradesmen, form an interesting class, one near Rome: "If you want inscriptions made, or have any need of marble work, you'll get it here." Another enterprising man at Bologua announces: "A bath in town style and every convenience." A similar notice meets us only eight miles from Rome, where, of course, most of the customers would be able to know whether they really had

"town style" or not. A curious example comes from Lyons which may be paraphrased thus: "Here Mercury promises profit, Apollo safety. and Septumanus bed and breakfast. He who has been here before will be treated all the better a second time. Stranger, settle on your lodging beforehand.' A more independent tone is taken by another innkeeper, who doesn't hesitate to declare that his house is not intended for people of moderate means. "If you live in good style, here's the house for you; if in poor fashion, I'll put up with you. but I shall be ashamed of having you."

Perhaps there are a good many modern hotels conducted on this principle but the proprietors are not, as a rule, quite so frank in expressing their sen-
