The social to be given by the Juvenile Temple, is postponed until Saturday evening, October 1st.

The fall catch of salmon ought to be a good one on account of the river remaining at so high a stage.

He—"May I kiss this dainty hand?" She—"Oh, yes, if it will give you any pleasure. But where do I come in?"

Mays & Crowe are putting up a warehouse on the lots back of their store. They received two carloads of stoves yesterday.

Evidently the melon crop in this neighborhood is a good one, as the markets are well supplied and the melons are cheap.

There will be a ball game at the fair grounds Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock between Dufur and Hood River. Admission free.

It is predicted that in a little over a year the Cascade locks will be completed and boats will be running from The Dalles to Astoria.

Reports from all parts of the country adjacent to The Dalles are to the effect that the wheat yield will be much larger than was anticipated.

The Wasco warehouse is sending out an immense amount of wool. The baler is running steadily, turning out ten bales of over 600 pounds each per hour.

If you want a couple of days trout fishing that will make your heart glad, take the Regulator to Sprague, and then go up Wind river to the upper bridge nine miles. It is only half a mile from that point to Trout creek, which is properly named.

Charley Fouts is preparing the hill schoolhouse for moving today and will probably have it on rollers and ready to start tomorrow. The foundation at the new site is nearly completed, and will be ready for the building by the time it gets there. It is expected the building will be in place and ready for use by the time school opens. It will be known as the East-hill primary. The contract price for moving the building is $370.

Morton Green, one of the men who escaped from jail at Corvallis, or some other valley point, was caught at Oak Grove a few days since. Sheriff Driver took possession of him Wednesday, and yesterday sent him in by the stage. He is in jail waiting the arrival of the sheriff from whom he escaped, who will come up tonight.

It is seldom we kick if our good contemporaries swipe an article from our columns and forget to credit it. In fact it always makes us feel proud, and besides we know how hard it is to fill space, sometimes. Yet once in a while a favorite squib the playful infant of our gleeful brain gets on its travels that we feel we ought to have credit for. Six weeks ago we published the statement that "J. S. Shafer of the Freemeyer house of Middlebury, New York, was kicked in the knee by a horse" and all of our exchanges here fell on and claimed it. Brothers desist or take your medicine.

Fell From the Train.

A tramp fell from the east bound passenger last night near the messhouse, while the train was running at a 25-mile-an-hour rate. The section men were notified and went out on a hand car to bring him in. He was found lying beside the track with one of his legs broken, and brought in this morning. He was a profane fellow and those who brought him in speak in the highest terms of his expertness in that line. Dr. Logan reduced the fracture. The man's name, we learn from him is Byars. He claims to be a railroad man, having worked last for the Northern Pacific. Says he boarded at the Portland hotel, and that he had a ticket and was a passenger on the train. He explains the accident by saying he was showing another man how he could climb on top of the cars, when a sudden lurch of the train caused him to lose his hold.

Used a Knife.

Wasco News.

On last Saturday evening, while working in the heading crew of G. W. Brock and J. I. Miller of Monkland, Jake Brock, brother to V. C. Brock of Wasco, was seriously cut in the left eye by one A. Morris. The particulars have been learned as follows: Jake was relating an incident to Mr. Miller, when W. L. Wilson, a brother-in-law of Morris, disputed the truth of his statement. This caused hasty words from both parties, but after a few minutes the boys stopped talking and went about their work.

About an hour and a half after this, while the header and both wagons were near to the stack, Mr. Morris, who had all this time been riding with Wilson and working in his wagon, jumped out on the ground, took up Wilson's side of the dispute, and with abusive names informed Jake that he "had it in for him." Jake asked Morris what he meant by his conduct, and he again began his abuse and tried to thrust a pitchfork into him. Jake refused to fight him in that manner, and Morris demanded a fight with fists. This was consented to and Jake tied up his lines and proceeded to climb out of the back end of the wagon. Morris was behind the wagon waiting and when Jake touched the ground and turned toward him, Morris sprang forward and struck him in the face with a knife, burying it to the hilt in the socket of Jake's eye. The men interfered before another blow could be struck. Morris skipped out, but was overhauled at the John Day by Deputy Sheriff McCoy and landed in the county jail. He waived examination and was held in $500 bonds, in default of which he is still in jail.

Jake is in a critical condition, will lose his eye and be badly disfigured for life if he recovers. He has been removed to the residence of V. C. Brock in this city, and is doing nicely.

A Pitiful Case.

County Judge Blakeley and Dr. Logan this morning examined Mrs. Clara Neely as to her sanity. This is the lady mentioned by us yesterday, our informant getting the name wrong on account of Mr. Wishart and his wife bringing the unfortunate woman to Hood River from her home. She will be sent to the asylum tomorrow, and it is expected that a speedy recovery will result. Her husband is working somewhere in the harvest fields east of here, and had left his wife with his parents. He had also made arrangements for her to get such groceries as she needed from the store of Oscar Fredenburg, but these it seems from the statement of witnesses, her father-in-law refused to let her purchase. She has had nothing to eat but bread and water for the past month and is extremely weak and emaciated. Her baby is in consequence also starved and no larger than when born. It was pitiful to see her try to nurse her baby as she sat in the court room, pressing it with her skeleton hands against her arid breast.

There is no excuse for this state of affairs. The people of Hood River are large hearted and generous, and would have provided for her had they known, but being in the woods away from everybody but her husband's people, they did not know of her condition. The blame lies with those, who if they failed to recognize the ties of relationship, should have remembered that they were human, and she a mother. Her insanity is of a mild type, though she is suicidal in her ideas. Her father is in the asylum, and perhaps brooding over that, and the fear that the faint might be in her, together with lack of nourishment, and ill treatment, unbalanced her mind.

The Markets.

FRIDAY, Aug. 17th—The local market is quiet, and it may be said that it is lifeless. The movement of merchandise is correspondingly limited. Prices are maintained in all lines. The passage of the tariff bill has had a tendency to stimulate the sugar market. There is no change in the produce market.

The wool market has been active and nearly all the wool received at the warehouses has been sold at prices ranging from 7 to 10 cents per pound. Present quotations are reported at 8 1/2 to 9 1/2 cents, the price being governed on the condition, staple and firmness.

The wheat market is unsettled and has no features that any future calculations can be relied on.

European and Eastern advices indicate a firm tone and feeling, with some activity on call boards. The Oriental war, now in progress, will not effect our markets perceptibly.

Grain sacks are quotable at 7 1/2 cents each.

Dufur Doing.

The Haynes Bros. started out with their steam thresher on their usual tour Monday expecting to run till snow flies. Rev. J. W. Jenkins preached Sunday at the U. B. church as usual.

Mr. A. J. Brigham has returned after a visit of several weeks in the metropolis.

Miss Annie Frazier will teach the fall term at Union school. We wish her success in her undertaking.

Mr. Geo. McMamemy was in town last week with his face wreathed in smiles. Madam Gossip informed us of the late arrival of an infant son at his home.

Mr. J. C. Tattle is quite ill. We earnestly hope for his recovery.

Messrs. T. H. Johnston and family, W. L. Vanderpool and wife, E. C. Warren and family and others all went on an outing trip near Mt. Hood for a general good time. QREKV.
