MONDAY, AUGUST 20, 1894. THE PONY EXPRESS.

We have just finished reading an article in the Sunday Oregonian, entitled "The Pony Express," and written by John Henry Martin. Outside of some dates, we doubt if there is a true statement in it. The roads along the Carson river never existed except below where the Nevada state prison stands, and there the Carson river runs through a country where the sage brush grows down to the water's edge, and the country is as level as the flats about Umatilla.

A PRACTICAL HUMANITARIAN.

Miss Adalina Lucinda Brown, the accomplished graduate of a Buffalo, N. Y., seminary, who was married to a Pitt river Indian in Modoc county, where she is teaching an Indian school, was formerly a teacher at Yainax agency, in Klamath county. She is a humanitarian, and zealously labors for the uplifting of the Indian, Negro and other neglected and somewhat despised races.

It is quite certain that Miss Adalina Lucinda Brown might have been done more brown than she has been. She might, for instance, have married a white man with no higher ideas than those of the gentleman who penned the article above quoted.

The Pendleton East Oregonian believes that the repeal of all laws for the collection of debts would do more to relieve the workers and producers than any other one thing proposed or to be proposed, and that paper further says: "It would simply prevent the manipulative, speculative and parasitical classes from getting on the backs and bodies of the masses, to gradually exhaust their resources and destroy their vitals."

The secretary of the treasury, Mr. Carlisle, is sending printed copies of the senate bill to the customs officers. From this it can easily be inferred that the secretary knows what the ultimate fate of the bill be. Cleveland has given no intimation as to what he intends to do with the bill, but Carlisle would certainly not be preparing to put the new law in force unless he knew it was going to be the law.

The president is still at Buzzard's bay wrestling with his defeat and the malaria. Gorman still sits in Washington awaiting his return. The senate tariff bill will be the law in a few days more, but the president will see Gorman blowed before he will sign it, and then he won't.

The war between Japan and China so far seems to have been fought principally in the newspapers. As far as lying is concerned honors are pretty easy, though we incline to the opinion that the Japs excel in that as well as the other barbarous arts of war.

Congress still manages to keep a quorum, but that is about all it can do. When the tariff bill is finally settled there will be a grand scattering for home.

The Pendleton Tribune is congratulating itself upon the good work it has done in exposing the whiskey-to-Indian business. Our contemporary is premature in its boasting, for the end is not yet.

Senator Dolph has left Washington, and will arrive in Portland in a few weeks.

The Most Gorgeous Treasures of Arabia. What a splendid picture it brought before your mind! You read the glow-which the geni of the ring spread before Aladdin's gaze. You perused this favorite story of yours in "Arabian Nights" when a boy, and your imagination pictured brilliantly for you everything that the words suggested.

That was when you were a boy. Today, possibly, you are unable to do it. Shall we tell you the reason why? Most probable because your liver is sluggish, and as a consequence you suffer from sick headache, dizziness, and constipation. Do you want to cure all these troubles permanently, make your liver active, your imagination lively, and in general enjoy things as you did when a boy? All you have to do is to use Dr. Fierce's Pleasant Pellets, purely vegetable, perfectly harmless, the smallest and easiest to take, and they are the cheapest because they are guaranteed to give satisfaction, or your money is returned. What more can you ask?

PARIS' VENDOME COLUMN.

A Few Words of Its History and the Facts of Its Destruction.

The Vendome Column in Paris, which was destroyed by the Commune in 1871, was erected by Napoleon I., principally of cannon taken at Ulm, to commemorate the victory of Austerlitz in 1805. It was covered with four hundred and twenty-five bronze plaques, molded in bas-relief to display the chief incidents in the Austrian campaign of that year. They were each three feet and eight inches high, and formed a continuous band, inclosing the column twenty-two times as it circled to the top, the entire length of the spiral being eight hundred and forty feet.

Owing to some engineering difficulties in cutting the base it could not be brought down at the time originally fixed. The members of the Commune attended in state to witness the affair, and sentinels were posted about half way down the Rue de la Paix to prevent the crowd from approaching too close, as up to the last moment accidents were feared.

"When a girl at school, in Reading, Ohio, I had a severe attack of brain fever. On my recovery, I found myself perfectly bald, and for a long time, I feared I should be permanently so. Friends urged me to use Ayer's Hair Vigor, and, on doing so, my hair
