

A sedentary occupation, plenty of sitting down and not much exercise, ought to have Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets to go with it. They absolutely and permanently cure Constipation. One tiny, sugar-coated Pellet is a corrective, a regulator, a gentle laxative. They're the smallest, the easiest to take, and the most natural remedy—no reaction afterward. Sick Headache, Bilious Headache, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, and all stomach and bowel derangements are prevented, relieved and cured.

A great many medicines "relieve" Catarrh in the Head. That means that it's driven from the head into the throat and lungs. But, by its mild, soothing, cleansing and healing properties, Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy perfectly and permanently cures.

Kenneth Bazemore had the good fortune to receive a small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera, and Diarrhoea Remedy when three members of his family were sick with dysentery. This one small bottle cured them all and he had some left which he gave to Geo. W. Baker, a prominent merchant of the place, Lewiston, N. C., and it cured him of the same complaint. When troubled with dysentery, diarrhoea, colic or cholera morbus, give this remedy a trial and you will be more than pleased with the result. The praise that naturally follows its introduction and use has made it very popular. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Blakely & Houghton, druggists.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

"I know an old soldier who had chronic diarrhoea of long standing to have been permanently cured by taking Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," says Edward Shumpick, a prominent druggist of Minneapolis, Minn. "I have sold the remedy in this city for seven years and consider it superior to any other medicine now on the market for bowel complaints." 25 and 50 cent bottles of this remedy for sale by Blakely & Houghton druggists.

My boy was taken with a disease resembling bloody flux. The first thing I thought of was Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. Two doses of it settled the matter and cured him sound and well. I heartily recommend this remedy to all persons suffering from a like complaint. I will answer any inquiries regarding it when stamp is inclosed. I refer to any county official as to my reliability. Wm. Roach, J. P., Primroy, Campbell Co., Tenn. BROWN GOT THE MONUMENT.

And as He Had Been a Good Fellow, the Boys Said He Deserved It.

At a little settlement on the Indian river, Florida, before the railroad was built, lived a penniless, good hearted fellow of the name of John Brown. When Brown got any money he would divide it to the last cent with his friends among the boys, and of course the boys liked him. One day the boys found Brown dead in the woods. They dug him a grave, rolled him in a horse blanket and let him down in it and then drank several bottles of east coast bitters to his health and expressed the hope that whatever new climate he was in he would be healthy.

Some time later than that a stranger came among them. He died and, as the weather was too warm to ship his body off, he was buried next to Brown. A week or two passed and the relatives of the deceased stranger sent down money to erect a monument over the grave of the stranger.

The boys took the thing in hand and discussed it pro and con. They came to the conclusion that Brown was a "durned" sight better fellow in every way than the stranger and more entitled to a monument, so one night they went out and swapped the men from one grave to the other. As a result Brown, the ne'er-do-well Bohemian and all around good fellow, sleeps beneath a handsome marble monument and the rich stranger lies in an unmarked grave.

SHARPS ON THE DEEP.

Poker Players Who Swindle Ocean Travelers.

The Atlantic steamers are a fruitful field for the crooked poker players. Here is a specimen of the way this game is worked: A well-known New Yorker told the story, but stipulated that the name of the victim was to be suppressed.

"A certain New York millionaire," he said, "who is known to be more or less susceptible to the blandishments of women, was crossing the Atlantic alone on a Cunarder. A lovely woman made his acquaintance, which, you know, is the easiest thing in the world on ship-board. They became very friendly and she introduced him to her husband. I don't know whether he was really her husband, but he passed as such for that trip, at all events.

"This husband" was one of the complacent sort. He offered no objection when the millionaire flirted desperately with his wife.

"The millionaire, thinking it would pay him to stand in with the 'husband,' willingly acquiesced when a game of poker was suggested. Of course, the 'husband' had a few friends, who were also in the game.

"Well, they used to play every night on that trip and a large part of the day. The susceptible millionaire dropped a pile of money—how much I don't know—but he paid very dearly for his susceptibility that trip."

TOOK A MEAN ADVANTAGE.

The Engaged Man Insisted on Kissing His Fiancee in a Street Car.

A young man and a young woman changed from a Belt line to a Fourteenth street car at the avenue, Washington, and sat in one of the seats in the first car. He was carrying an overcoat and a satchel and was evidently going away. She wore a shirt waist and a dark skirt, as if starting out on a shopping expedition. Just before they reached Sixth street he leaned over her and said, quietly, so quietly that only the Post reporter back of them could hear: "I am going to kiss you good-by when I leave the car."

"Oh! please don't," she said, appealingly: "not before all these people."

But he was decided and said, persistently: "Yes I shall; so raise your veil. If you try to resist people will see it and wonder about it, and they will look at you all the way up-town after I get off."

She glanced up shyly and then slowly raised her veil. He bent over her and kissed her and no one in the car looked up. A few people wondered why she was so anxious to show the diamond ring on her left hand, but nobody but the reporter appreciated the fact that she was trying to justify the kissing by means of an engagement ring.

BRITISH "DRUMMERS."

Some Minor Differences from the American Commercial Traveler.

The commercial traveler in England is little different from his American brother, pursuing the same line of policy in "getting there" so far as securing trade is concerned, says Hardware. His invariable rule, however, is that his first price given to a local merchant is his last and only one. There is no going in the morning with an offer, and then in the afternoon with an extra inducement to make the trade. This being the invariable rule, it saves much labor and apprehension in the mind of the buyer that he has not done so well as he could have done with more diplomacy.

Everything is done for the comfort of the traveler, and at the hotels a special department called the commercial room is set apart for his exclusive use. In this room smoking is prohibited until nine p. m., a place being devoted to that purpose at other times. The traveler takes his meals in the commercial room, the dinner being a set affair in which all travelers in the house generally participate. The oldest man is at the head of the table, and is called the president; while at the foot is the youngest man, and he is termed vice president.

Wilhelm's Title.

The actual title of Wilhelm II. is "German Emperor," and not "Emperor of Germany." The German empire is a confederacy consisting of four kingdoms, five grand duchies, five duchies, seven principalities and four free cities. Within its own limits each state is a sovereign, except as to its army and its power of coining money and imposing duties, in which matters the imperial government controls, as well as in all international matters.

Montezuma's Watch.

This curious basaltic stone, now in the cathedral of Mexico, is cut into figures that are supposed to represent the Mexican calendar or division of time. It weighs about twenty-four tons, and its age is conjectured to be a considerable period anterior to the Spanish occupation of that portion of America.

HAIL FORMED BY TORNADOES.

The Result of Whirlwinds in the Atmosphere Far Above the Earth.

The fact that hail is formed at an indefinite but, in most cases, a great height above the surface of the earth, and that it is commonly precipitated when storms are raging, has prevented any direct observation of the process of freezing the vapor of the atmosphere into ice pellets or large masses, and what has been decided regarding the phenomena of hailstorms is almost wholly the work of theory and logic. Nevertheless some points are pretty clearly established.

In the first place, hail is the result, as a rule, of whirling or tornado-like storms. There may be no whirling on the surface of the earth but, according to the Cleveland Leader, it seems certain that in the higher regions of the air, where hail is formed, there is always an atmospheric disturbance resembling what is commonly called a cyclone when it sweeps the ground. A curious indication of the soundness of this conclusion was to be noted the other afternoon, when the storm which wrought such havoc with skylights had passed by. Out over the lake there was a great mass of cloud, very high and dark, which had the form of an oval race track of enormous proportions. It might easily have been fifty miles in length and two-thirds that distance in width. The formation of the cloud mass was noticeably such as might have resulted from the violent whirling around a moving center of the whole bulk of cloud vapor. The appearance of the sky was thoroughly in harmony with the accepted theory of the formation of hail. It is believed that the nucleus of a large hailstone is usually a bit of snow or snow-like ice, which falls from the snow strata, or level, above the rain level, into the latter, and is caught up with a cloud of raindrops and mists into the higher freezing regions of the atmosphere by the force of a whirlwind. The rain and water in the form of mist, which clings to the snow nucleus, or touches it as it is whirled swiftly up into the intense cold, freezes around it as clear and solid ice.

HOOKED A BEE MARTEN.

He Was Fishing for Trout, But Got a Bite of Another Sort.

"A strange thing happened to me when I was trout fishing last year up in northern New York," said Andrew Bishop, of Bridgeport, Conn., to a Washington Star man. "The fish were very wary, the stream was narrow, and the pools were but lightly bordered with bushes or cover of any kind, consequently when I would reach a promising looking spot I would get as far from the bank as possible, and at the same time be able to drop my fly over in the water. I had followed this plan with poor success, getting only one or two strikes in as many hours, when suddenly my line began to run out with a whirr. No trout had ever carried off a fly for me in such a way before, and I was nonplussed, but in a moment I saw that it was not a fish that was making my reel sing. Rising from the surface of the stream and flying above it was a bee marten which had gobbled my fly as I cast it over the bank, and he was making away with it. The bird soon had nearly all my line out, and not caring to lose it, I began to play him as I would play a fish. He struggled gamely. I tell you, but the hook had caught in his beak and held him firmly. At last, after a full hour of fighting, the bird fluttered helplessly to the ground, and I released him. You may think that's a fish story, but it's true."

HE TAUGHT HER A LESSON.

One Wife Will Not Again Trouble Another for a Spool of Silk.

One summer the wife of a Chicago man went to one of the resorts. At the end of a week she found that her black silk had given out, so she wrote her husband to "find a spool of it in the lower drawer of the bureau" and send it on. The dutiful husband spent three solid hours one hot day before he found the missing spool. Of course, it was not where his wife had said it was. After he had changed his saturated linen the man went down and sent the spool by registered mail to his wife. That night it struck him as absurd that she should have put him to all that trouble, and he resolved to teach her a lesson. He thought that with a little effort she might have found some silk at the summer resort that would have answered her purpose. Well, he bought a gross of spool silk and put it in a drawer of his desk. The next time she left town she found a spool of black silk under her plate at the place where she took her first meal, and ever since then she has been followed by a spool of silk, even to Europe. Wherever she may stop she finds the spool at her plate or on her dresser. She has learned the lesson.

Irish Bulls.

A recent number of London Truth has compiled the following specimens of Irish bulls: Irish Professor in Chemistry—"The substance you see in this vial is the most deadly of all poisons. A single drop placed upon the tongue of a cat is enough to kill the strongest man." A lady, invited to a very recherche musical party, had met with an accident to her front teeth which there was no time to repair. She said: "I will come, and as I dare not open my mouth, you must tell your friends I am deaf and dumb, but appreciate music."
