AUGUST AUGURINGS.

Leaves From the Notebook of Chronicle Reporters.

A small fleet of fishwheels is anchored or rather beached in the mouth of the slough opposite the depot, their usefulness for this season being over.

The remains of Mrs. Mary M. Gordon were brought here Saturday night from Portland, and the funeral took place yesterday morning at 9 o'clock.

On and after September 1st, 1894, the office hours of the Pacific Express Co. will be from 8 to 12 and from 1 to 6 o'clock. The office will not be opened Sunday.

All persons who are interested in forming a local union of the various young people's societies in The Dalles will please meet at the Cong'l. church tomorrow evening (Tuesday) at 8 o'clock p. m. All are cordially invited to come.

Everyone should save their money this week to enable them to attend the Firemen's Tournament at Oregon City, on the first two days of next week, the 3d and 4th of Sept. Fare for the round trip to Portland by boat $2, by rail $3.

A Dangerous Place.

The walk on the trestle across Mill creek has not been replaced since the high water and it is in a dangerous condition. When the east bound train arrives at night several cars are on the trestle and there being insufficient light, should a passenger step off an accident is liable to happen. It is some thirty feet down to the rocky ground, and a fall would be almost certain death. One person was killed there some years ago, and then the company put in the walk. We suggest that a little money expended in replacing the walk will probably save a heavy bill for damages.

Lots of Hoppers.

Tom Gilmore tells us the grasshoppers have taken the country across the Columbia. That in the foothills the leaves have all been eaten off the oak trees, and that the corn has been stripped until nothing but the bare stocks remain. The hazel bushes have been robbed of their foliage the only thing not eaten being the bushes and the nuts, the latter of which have had their husks eaten and only the hardness of the shell saved them. It is fortunate that they came too late to tackle the grain fields.

Astronomer—You don't seem to know much about an eclipse. Old Henpecked—O, don't I? I married a brilliant woman.—New York Journal.

And So, She Died.

A week ago Sunday morning the west-bound passenger train brought to the city Mrs. Mary Lewis, a lady 68 years of age. She was sick at the time, and was assisted to a room in the Umatilla House, which she never left until all that was mortal of her was carried from it Sunday night. Homeless, friendless, penniless, trembling from sickness and weak from age, the poor old woman found tender hearts and kindly hands to minister to her wants, until death came to her relief.

From her statements and a letter found among her effects we learn she leaves a daughter, Mrs. Sarah Sparks, who resides at Battle Creek, Michigan. Her hands, which were large and bony, showed she had done much hard work, and the uncomplaining manner in which she bore her sufferings has given evidence of great fortitude. But the hands shall labor no more, nor the brain worry. She "knocked and it was opened unto her," and she passed through the gates that forever shut in those who reach the other side. The funeral takes place this afternoon at 5 o'clock from Mr. Wm. Mitchell's undertaking rooms.

Wasco Peaches.

Mr. Chrisman presented THE CHRONICLE force a box of Early Crawford peaches this morning, partly because he admires the CHRONICLE, but chiefly to show us just what old Wasco can do in the fruit line. The peaches were simply one box out of a wagon load, and not assorted, yet we assert that California never produced anything to compare with them in flavor, and seldom any to exceed them in size. We have not had a taste like they left with us since a little sweetheart kissed our pouting lips under the apple blossoms in her father's orchard in old Illinois, when we were young and alas! impressive. Indeed though time may have robbed our memory of some of the delight of that blissful occasion, yet in the light of a maturer judgment and tougher and more hairy lip, we believe we prefer the flavor of the peaches—ripe peaches.

For the Sundown Isles.

Mr. John Marlin, one of The Dalles' oldest stage drivers, will leave for San Francisco tomorrow morning. Remaining there until September 16th, he will sail for Hilo, Hawaii, where he expects to put in the balance of his days. He will handle the lines over a stage team running from Hilo to the big volcano a distance of seventy miles, the line being managed by Mr. J. W. Wilson, formerly of this city, and owned by his brother. Mr. Marlin leaves a host of friends here who wish him happiness and prosperity in his new home.

When baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became a woman, she clung to Castoria.
When she had children, she gave them Castoria.

Working Hours in Germany. The hours of the German laborer are very long, frequently exceeding fifteen hours a day, but there are certain regulations in factories that are rigidly carried out in regard to women's work. All factories where women are employed are registered, and only eighty hours a year overwork is allowed. Children under thirteen cannot work in factories, although the law is often evaded by making them work at home. Strange as it seems, the state is more merciful to the children than the parents; in some villages children three years old are kept busy threading needles. Thuringian watch-makers keep their children working from Saturday noon until Sunday morning at two. After two hours' sleep they must work again until church time.

Malarial and other atmosphere influences are best counteracted by keeping the blood pure and vigorous with Ayer's Sarsaparilla. A little caution in this respect may prevent serious illness at this season. Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the best all-the-year-round medicine in existence.

We know why weddings always occur on time; so few brides are married with their hats on.—Atchison Globe.

Many bodily ills result from habitual constipation, and a fine constitution may be weakened and ruined by simple neglect. There is no medicine, for regulating the bowels and restoring a natural action to the digestive organs, equal to Ayer's Pills.
