TEA AND TOBACCO INSANITY. HOME OF THE CUCKOO CLOCK. The Little Town of Villingen, Located in the Black Forest of Germany. Villingen is one of the centers for the Black Forest clock industry. The making of clocks in the Schwarzwald dates from a very old time, and the industry has here attained some forms which are to be found nowhere else, says the Philadelphia Telegraph. It is, perhaps, the most distinctive of all the skilled trades of these clever peo-

The inhabitants of the hills, from the earliest time, in distinction from the residents of the valleys, who preferred to farm, have shown a love for woodwork, and centuries ago trained their hands to cut out various clever untensils. Their skill in this line took the form of clockmaking about 1680 or There were very rudimentary *90. ideas afloat concerning what constituted a clock in those days. At first a weight was used hung from a string. Later the pendulum was introduced. Then came the striking one-day clocks. Again, a little later, the eight-day clocks. By their own discoveries and by the adoption of the inventions of foreigners these people have thus, steadily kept themselves in the front rank among the clock manufacturers of the world. This section particularly excels in making automatic clocks, and clocks combined with musical boxes and other novelties. The principal thing in this line, however, is the suckoo clock (in German kukuk). The first cuckoo clock was put together about one hundred and fifty years ago by an inventive old Schwarzwalder, and the popularity of his clover mechanical device continues without abatement. The cuckoo is put up in every kind of a clock case and with every kind of good, bad and indifferent time-keeping machinery. He may be had, works and all, for one dollar, and so on up, according to the quality of his song and other characteristics. His special pe-culiarity, of course, is his regularity, and this is what got him into trouble in the United States. He has a small they parted, "while you are away don't cage up at the top of the clock, and whenever the time comes for him to go through his exhibition his door flies open, he steps out in front, bows and flaps his wings and sings his little song. suspect it. The peculiar sound is made by the use of a sort of double bellows, through which the wind is forced at the proper intervals. If it is a good clock the mimiery is perfect. It is an invention which could have been made only here, in the land of the cuckoo. At this time of the year the bird can be heard seesawing away in every copse of woods. He has points of difference from the American cuckoo. He does not lay his egg in other birds' nests, and seems, in fact, to be a very decent kind of fowl.

A CARGO OF WIVES.

How a Community of Hungarian Miners Settled the Marriage Question.

"I think the most remarkable sight I ever witnessed," said a Pueblo (Col.) man to a St. Louis Globe-Democrat representative, "was at a small mining town in our state, where the majority of the miners are Poles or Hungarians or both. For some time a rumor had plegate. gone around that the bachelor members of the community had sent enough money to the old country to secure a delegation of unmarried females to come out and share their good fortune with them. The prospective bridegrooms drank more than usual as the arrival of the peculiar cargo became going a crucial test, but it is standing more certain, and when finally a telegram was received from New York that | emerge with the prestige of sustained these damsels had actually arrived and were on board a train, the men cele- has ever enjoyed. About half the town was at the depot as well, and some-one rather maliciously started a cheer when the young ladies with their huge bundles began to alight from the cars. The crowd took up the idea and ly diminished in volume, so that it was a mighty cheer rang through the air. The miners took charge of their protaxes posed brides, and retired with them to the house of a married friend, where it is to be presumed brides and bridegrooms were divided up so as to suit the feelings of the majority. The process did not take more than half an hour, and within an hour of the arrival of business in so strictly a regular and satisfactory manner."

Their Excessive Use by Underfed People the Cause of Mental Failure.

report upon insanity in Ireland which has just been issued enumerates among the causes of mental failure the innutritious dietary of the poorer population-tending to produce anaemia and constitutional weakness, which favor the development of scrofulous and neurotic disease-and the immoderate use of certain nervous stimulants, particularly tea and tobacco. "While the moderate use of properly prepared tea," the report adds. "is regarded as innocuous or even beneficial in its action on the nervous system, its ill effects, when decocted or overinfused, on persons who make it their stable article of dietary are dwelt on by almost all the resident medical superintendents in their several reports. Undoubtedly the method of preparation adopted and the excessive use of this article of diet, now so general among our poorer population, tends to the production of dyspepsia, which in its turn leads to states of mental depression highly favorable to the production of various forms of neurotic disturbance. The excessive use of tobacco also, especially among the young, whether by smoking or chewing, in the opinion of certain of our medical superintendents acts, though perhaps in a minor degree, injuriously on the nervous centers.

In many parts of Ireland it has been found that bread and tea have been substituted for porridge and milk, and for potatoes also; that the tea used is generally of an inferior quality, and the method of preparation is to put a quantity in the teapot early in the morning and to allow it to stew during the day, water being added as required.

A TRUE GHOST STORY.

The Request of the Apparition Was Car-ried Out to the Letter.

Here is a ghost story-one of a large class, and therefore perhaps more likely to be veracious, especially as it first saw the light in a London paper. It has an appearance of strict and even narrow truthfulness. There was a certain Capt. Blomberg, of some regiment unknown, on active service in America. Five or six of his brother officers, he being engaged on duty two hundred miles away, were dining together. The door was opened and Capt. Blomberg ap peared, to everybody's surprise. Without speaking, he walked in and sat down in a vacant chair. They all asked him how he came there.

To their questions he made no reply; then one of them said: "Blomberg, are you mad?" On this he rose and replied: "When ou go back to London take my son to the queen and beg her to be his protector.' This said, he walked out of the room as he had come in. A few days afterward the news came that he had been killed in action on the very day and at the same hour of his appearance

It is pleasing to record that the queen, on whose favor the gallant officer may have had some claims, did protect the son, wno became chaplainin-ordinary to his majesty, deputy clerk of the king's closet, canon residentiary of St. Paul's and vicar of St. Giles, Crip-

GOVERNMENTAL ECONOMY.

It Is Being Rigidly Exercised in Mexican Affairs. "Mexico," said an American resident of the City of Mexico to a Washington Post representative, "is undercredit and greater prosperity than it in these times of extraordinary deprescreased, and additional taxes imposed in order to meet the obligations of the government. There is no system of direct taxation down there, and all the revenues from imports are collected in silver. As silver has depreciated in value the revenues have correspondinga matter of necessity to increase the "In spite of all these difficulties the republic is gaining, and has a splendid future. The depression in mining is, I think, a blessing in disguise. It will tend to bring out the other great natural resources of the country. Agri-culture has never received in Mexico the attention it deserves. We have as fine coffee, sugar and tobacco lands as there are on the globe, and the people are at last waking up to the importance of their cultivation. In this neglected source of wealth lies Mexico's fairest promise of prosperity."

TOO WARM FOR COMFORT. A Spot in Persia Where the Thermometer Shows 130 in the Shade.

The hottest region on the earth's surface is on the southwestern coast of Persia, on the borders of the Persian gulf, says an exchange. For forty consecutive days in the months of July and August the mercury has been known to stand above one hundred de-grees in the shade night and day, and to run up as high as one hundred and thirty degrees in the middle of the afternoon. At Bahrin, in the center of the most torrid part of this most torrid belt, as though it was nature's intention to make the place as unbearable as possible, water from wells is something unknown. Great shafts have been sunk to a depth of five hundred feet, but always with the same result -no water. Notwithstanding this serious drawback, a numerous population contrives to live there, thanks to copious springs, which burst forth from the bottom of the gulf more than a mile from the shore. The water from these springs is obtained in a most curious and novel manner. Machadores, whose sole occupation is that of furnishing the people of Bahrin with the life-giving fluid, repair to that portion of the gulf where the springs are situated, and bring away with them hundreds of skin bags full of the water each day. The water of the gulf where the springs burst forth is nearly two hundred feet deep, but the machadores -divers-manage to fill their goat-skin sacks by diving to the bottom and holding the mouths of the bags over the fountain jets; this, too, without allowing the salt water of the gulf to mix with it. The source of these submarine fountains is thought to be in the hills of Osmond, five hundred miles away. Being situated at the bottom of the gulf, it is a mystery how they were ever discovered, but the fact remains that they have been known since the dawn of history.

Legend of the Daisy.

There is a pretty legend connected with the daisy, which is an Old World flower Americanized. When the early Christians of Britain were persecuted and put to death St. Bruon persuaded his sister, St. Olle, to flee with her maiden companions. After the persecution ceased the bishop searched fruitlessly for his sister until he noticed nection with this beverage there is little that there sprung up in his pathway harm in working the growler.—Philhearts and starry rays of white. He took them for his guides, and following their mute beckoning, after many days sembling bloody flux. The first thing I they led him to a desert place where, in a rocky hiding place, he found his sister.

> Plugging Ears to Induce Sleep. In order to insure sound sleep Prof. Scripture, of Yale, has for years plugged up his ears at night. He explains the process as follows: "The stick of wax is warmed over the gas flame, and a sufficient quantity is pressed off be-tween the thumb and finger. This is placed in the entrance of the external meatus. In order to make such a fit that no sensations of touch are produced when the head is placed on the pillow, the tragus is placed over it for an instant, and the end of the index finger slightly loosens the top and the bottom of the plug in the ear. Each morning the antiphones are thrown away.'

FORTUNE IN THE STREETS.

But Nobody Thus Far Has Been Ingenious Enough to Profit by It.

"Would you believe it, sir," said a well-known Strand boot maker the other day, "that some three million of people walk about the streets of London daily, and in doing so wear away a ton of leather from their boots and shoes

"Is that really a fact?"

"Really," was the emphatic reply. And the amount would be greater if the streets were not so well paved and attended to. The ton of leather I have just spoken of would in a year form a leather strip one inch wide and long enough to extend from London to New York.

'And what would be its value?" "Well, estimating the great amount of disintegrated sole leather at 5d. a pound, what it costs consumers, its value would be one hundred thousand pounds. If it could be recovered from the streets a fortune might result to somebody in the shoddy leather line.

But, unfortunately, there seems no means of recovering all this valuable leather, and so no doubt it will always be swept up in the dust and dirt. But," he reflectively added, "if a process by which this leather can be sep arated from the dirt is discovered, the inventor would be at once a rich man." All professional calls promptly attende
