EXPLOSION OF A MOUNTAIN.

Previous to July 14, 1888, Mount Bandai, a fine-cleft peak, 4899 feet in height, was the most conspicuous object in the mountain range lying from 100 to 150 miles north of Tokio, the chief city of Japan.

The explosion is said to have been heard a distance of over 1000 miles, and to have caused absolute darkness in the vicinity of the exploded peak upwards of three hours, during which time perfect torrents of hot water and mud were poured down from the immense heights to which they had been hurled by the force of the "pent-up furies" which caused the disaster.

These facts were gleaned from a report made by a visiting committee appointed by the university of Tokio.

AN IMPORTANT SUBJECT.

The American Farmer and Farm News, published at Springfield, Ohio, has the following to say concerning feeding wheat to hogs:

"As we go to press wheat in the local market is worth 43 cents and oats 36 cents per bushel. A farmer friend, who dropped into our office for a few minutes, told us that at these prices he should sell his oats and feed his wheat, and in our opinion this is a wise decision.

A WORLD BEATER.

Since Flora Temple set the horsemen wild with what was then considered a phenomenal record, the trotting horse has steadily improved, the record being reduced almost every year, except when such wonders as Rarus Goldsmith Maid or Nancy Hanks has set the mark for two or three years.

The growth of Portland is the growth of Oregon, and we congratulate ourselves as well as the city on the splendid showing. With a revival of business her growth will be rapid, and in another ten years she will begin to crowd up towards the 200,000 mark.

We acknowledge the receipt of this afternoon of the first number of the Klickitat County Agriculturist, published at Goldendale. It contains whole lots of local news but we have not had time to peruse it.

Do not wear impermeable and tight-fitting hats that constrict the blood-vessels of the scalp. Use Hall's Hair Renewer occasionally, and you will not be bald.

Arrested for an Old Crime.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Aug. 31.—Antonio Ochoa was arrested here by Sheriff L. K. Drais, of Pinalo county, for the murder of another Mexican near Casa Creada, six years ago. The murder has hitherto been a mystery, the man having been found one morning knifed to death in a lonely cabin. The defendant has lately confessed to several associates his complicity in the deed.

A Midnight Murderer.

KOKOMO, Ind., Aug. 31.—James Gregory, a wealthy bachelor, was called to the door last night and shot through the heart by an unknown assassin. The only other person in the house was a sick aunt, whom he was attending. The woman arose from bed and frightened the murderer away. The murder occurred at Shanghai, 12 miles west of here. The murderer will be lynched if caught.

STORY OF THROCKMORTON.

How He Obtained a Verdict for a Client in a Texas Court.

The late Gov. Throckmorton, of Texas, was once engaged in the defense of a man accused of murder. The evidence against his client, says Kate Field's Washington, was too strong to be overcome by any plea except that of self defense; but the man killed was in his shirt sleeves at the time, and no one had seen him with a weapon exposed.

With a knowing smile Mr. Throckmorton proceeded to draw from under his left arm one pistol, another from under his right, one from each of his boots, and, finally, a huge bowie-knife from under his shirt at the back of his neck.

As he laid the weapons in a row on the table, he said: "You, see, gentlemen, although in my shirt-sleeves, it was not safe to consider me unarmed." The counsel for the prosecution knew from that moment that their case was gone.

His Striking Feature.

A certain judge who is blessed with a tremendous head of hair, which is generally in a state of wild disorder, was questioning a youthful witness, to make sure that he comprehended the character and importance of the oath he was about to take. "Boy," he said, with his severest and most magisterial manner, "do you feel sure that you could identify me after six months. Now be careful. Think before you speak."

A Confusing Clause.

A famous London will bequeathed "all my black and white horses" to a certain devisee. After the lawyers had wrangled to determine whether all the black horses and all the white ones were meant, or only the piebald, or black-and-white ones, a witness testified that all the horses of the dead man were mares, and the confusion was worse confounded.

The Alabama Way.—The Judge of Election (in the remote Alabama district)—No, I dunno jest what majority we've piled up in this district.

The Citizen—Why not? You've only a handful of votes to count.

The Judge of Election—Well, we haven't heard from the other counties what majority is need have we?—(Chicago Record.)

A Racking Cough

Cured by Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Mrs. P. D. HALL, 217 Genesee St., Lockport, N. Y., says:

"Over thirty years ago, I remember hearing my father describe the wonderful curative effects of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. During a recent attack of La Grippe, which assumed the form of a catarrh, soreness of the lungs, accompanied by an aggravating cough, I used various remedies and prescriptions. While some of these medicines partially alleviated the coughing during the day, none of them afforded me any relief from that spasmodic action of the lungs which would seize me the moment I attempted to lie down at night. After ten or twelve such nights, I was and had about decided to sit up all night in my easy chair, and procure what sleep I could in that way. It then occurred to me that I had a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. I took a spoonful of this preparation in a little water, and was able to lie down without coughing. In a few moments, I fell asleep, and awoke in the morning greatly refreshed and feeling much better. I took a teaspoonful of the Pectoral every night for a week, then gradually decreased the dose, and in two weeks my cough was cured."

HE WAS ON TIME.

Although He Had to Make His Toilet in the Street Car.

One morning recently, says the St. Louis Republic, as a Washington avenue car came dashing cityward with its customary freight of folks on duty's errand bound, the passengers within were surprised at the sight of a young man rushing from a house, bounding across the street and boarding the car, with his hat, vest, coat and collar in his hand.

He was a fine-looking fellow, and, as far as one might judge by appearances, evidently a clerk employed in some one of the big stores. Once safely landed on the car, he laid his coat, hat and vest on the seat, while he buttoned on the collar and whipped the tie into place. Then he drew from the pocket of the vest he had just donned a comb case and mirror, and leisurely proceeded to fix his hair and mustache. This finished, he drew on his coat, placed his hat upon his head, and, with a quick survey of his person, a few sweeps of the hand to carry away any lint that might have stuck upon his trousers, he glanced about the car with an air of absolute unconcern. He was dressed and on time for the office.

Jones—Mr. Cady, where do you stand when your friends get up a tariff discussion? Mr. Cady—Nowhere. I run.—Chicago Record.
