BRIBERY OF NEWSPAPERS.

The Catholic Sentinel says it recently wrote to a large company in Oregon making a proposition as to advertising, and got this reply:

"Whatever we do is usually done by the editor and published as an editorial. If you would like to prepare and print an editorial, not to exceed 150 lines, at 5 cents per line, which is the price paid leading papers throughout our state, you may prepare and submit the article for our approval before being published. We enclose herewith clippings from other papers, which may be of assistance to you in preparing the article."

Commenting on this the Oregonian of the 14th says:

It would be interesting to learn the names of the "leading papers" that follow this practice. It then would be apparent to every person of judgment that they are papers in whose columns no business could be advertised with advantage or profit, at any price. The Catholic Sentinel does not overstate the degradation of newspapers that "make their editorial articles marketable commodity."

The argument of the Oregonian is all right, but we think either the Sentinel has made a mistake or the company it alludes to is running a cold bluff. We do not believe there is a newspaper in the state whose editorial columns are for sale. Did they do so, as the Oregonian well says, "Such prostitution advertises itself by its own signs, and intelligent readers cannot be deceived."

STATE BUILDINGS.

In conversation with one of our leading attorneys the other day, he advanced the idea that there was abundant room for the contention that a branch insane asylum was not a state building in the meaning of the constitution. That the words state building would properly mean the state house, public library, court room for the supreme court, residence of the governor if provided by the state and that class of buildings, and that the term state building would not necessarily mean every building in the state. For instance a roundhouse or building for protecting the engine on the portage road at the Cascades would not be a state building in the meaning of the constitution. As a matter of fact regardless of the legal aspects of the case there should be a branch asylum some place in Eastern Oregon, where a change of climate and abundant sunshine can be given the patients, especially those sent from the damp and foggy coast counties. However the matter has been argued and submitted and the decision of the supreme court ought to be handed down in the very near future.

Andrew Carnegie is now satisfied that the American laborer can live more cheaply than any other, and consequently the laborer can afford to work as cheaply as anyone. This is peculiar doctrine from the great iron king who accumulated his great wealth through the benefits of the protective tariff system. He has enough and while he hobbles with dukes and earls virtuously concludes that the American laborer does not need much anyhow. When the laboring men of any country become satisfied with only food and clothes, and no longer hope to better their condition, the nation will go backwards. America will not come to that, even though Carnegie advise it.

Robert J. again lowered the world's pacing record at Terre Haute, Ind. The little brown king was sent to beat his own record and the world's, of 2.02 1/2, and did it handsomely, taking a full second from it, leaving the world's record now 2.01 1/2. It is possible now that Robert J. may yet be the long-expected two-minute horse.

Col. Thomas G. Lawler of Rockford, Illinois, was elected commander in chief of the G. A. R. at the meeting in Pittsburg Thursday by a very close vote, beating his opponent, Col. Walker, by only eleven votes out of the total of 649. The new commander is an Englishman by birth, and was born in 1844.

Governor Pennoyer and State Treasurer Metchan have been at Oregon City several days superintending the construction of a fish ladder over the falls at that place. Only $1,000 of the $10,000 appropriated were used, but they are both confident the ladder will

SHE HAD GROWN.

The Woman Paid the Street Car Fare for the Child.

Two women got in a street car, says the New York Sun, one with a long-legged little girl. She gave the conductor two fares.

"Five cents more. You'll have to pay for that child, ma'am."

"Pay for Laury? Well! well!"

She opened a leather purse to look for pennies. With difficulty they were fished out separately. Meanwhile she discussed:

"Dye see, Laury? I'm payin' for you. Ye can't sit on mammy's lap any more. She's always climbin' for my knee."

Addressing the car: "She's our only one. Laury, ye must tell your paw you're a little lady now; ye've been paid for. Ye can't sit on mammy's knee no more. Dear me, how time flies." She took in the car with a comprehensive glance, then turned on her friend by her side. "It don't seem no time at all since Laury was born. Rebecca, ye remember, or was you away from home? It was that warm. But Laury's a little lady, now. She's been paid for."

The long-legged girl leaned shyly against her mother, who put her arm around the child and pressed her to her side. The amused smile of the car changed to one of sympathy, and a lonely old fellow in the corner with speckled silk stockings had a tear in his eye.

COLUMBIA RIVER SALMON.

How the Chinese Workmen Cut Up, Prepare and Can the Fish.

"On a recent trip to the Pacific coast," said Walter Stedman, a New York drummer, to the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, "I paid a visit to one of the large canning factories in Oregon, where the Columbia river salmon are packed and shipped all over the country. It was a novel sight to me, and one in which I took a great deal of interest. The fish are caught in nets and carried in boats to the factory, where they are thrown upon a stage and lie in heaps, a thousand or so in a pile. You can see huge fish among them that weigh from thirty to sixty pounds. One Chinaman will seize a salmon, and with a dextrous blow of a big knife, sever its head with one stroke; another workman then grabs it and slashes off the fins and disembowels it. It is then thrown into a vat, where the blood soaks out, and I tell you they bleed like a stuck pig. After repeated washings the fish is cut into chunks, plunged into brine and stuffed into cans. The bones, first being removed. The tops of the cans, which have a small hole in them, are then soldered on, and five or six hundred of them at a time are plunged into boiling water, where they remain until the heat has expelled all the air. Then the little airhole in the top of the lid is soldered up and the salmon is ready for market."

According to Dr. Gould there are 6,100 stars in the northern and 7,200 in the southern hemisphere distinctly visible to the naked eye. The enormous globe of Jupiter differs from ours in almost every respect. It is eleven times larger in diameter than the earth, being 125 times greater in solidity. It gravitates slowly in a year equal to twelve of our years, at five times the distance from the sun, as compared with us, so that the light and heat it receives are twenty-five times less intense than ours.

S. P. SMITH, of Towanda, Pa., whose constitution was completely broken down, is cured by Ayer's Sarsaparilla. He writes:

"For eight years, I was, most of the time, a great sufferer from constipation, kidney trouble, and indigestion, so that my constitution seemed to be completely broken down. I was induced to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and took nearly seven bottles, with such excellent results that my stomach, bowels, and kidneys are in perfect condition, and, in all their functions, as regular as clock-work. At the time I began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla, my weight was only 129 pounds; I now can brag of 189 pounds, and was never in so good health. If you could see me before and after using, you would want me for a travelling advertisement. I believe this preparation of Sarsaparilla to be the best in the market to-day."
