Where did you get that hat, Mr. Butts?

Members of the Y. W. C. T. U. will please take notice that a meeting will be held this evening at the reading room at 7:30 o'clock.

The King's Daughters will meet tomorrow at 2 o'clock at the residence of Mrs. N. Harris. All members are requested to be present.

Its blue Monday at the court house today, and no item in sight, neither deed, marriage license nor naturalization papers being filed.

Miss Blanche Jory instructor in voice culture, piano and organ. Rooms at Mrs. Brown's, one block east of academy, corner of B and Webster streets.

Mr. Waldo Brigham is agent for a sewing machine that runs without a treadle. Its motive power is generated by a lever that winds the machine up for a ten-minute run.

A Harney county girl was called upon at school to write a sentence on the blackboard containing the word delight. This is what she wrote: "Where was Moses when delight went out?"—Antelope Herald.

The city recorder's office has weakened, failing to furnish one of its stereotyped items for several days. Street Commissioner Butts is anxious for a little assistance, and insists that either it be furnished him, or that the city hotel be rented.

An exchange says that girls are of few days and full of mischief, and whoever is deceived thereby is not wise. When the fair girl chews her gum with great haste, and stampeth her pretty foot, then look out. She cometh forth in the evening in low neck and short sleeves, but in the morning she lieth in bed while her mother hustleth.

Here is the latest blue grass yarn: At the conclusion of an impassioned address down in Kentucky the other day Col. W. C. P. Breckinridge announced that he was weary, and that as soon as his campaign was ended he would visit England. Whereupon the leader of the band, who happened to be an Englishman, struck up "God Save the Queen."

Messrs. Charles Powne and Charles Keogh came in from Tygh Saturday to play a return game of tennis with Messrs. Fred W. Wilson and J. C. Hostetter. The game was called in the afternoon and resulted in the defeat of The Dalles team by the following score: First set—Tygh, 6; The Dalles, 2. Second set—Tygh, 6; The Dalles, 4. Third set—Tygh, 6; The Dalles, 4.

"The notion that the power of the toes of the men and women of modern times is destroyed by the binding up of the feet in leather through the greater part of life is incorrect," says a great London physician. We think the physician is correct; indeed the binding up of the feet in leather is conducive to their strength. If rubber is used instead of leather the effect is still more powerful, in fact overwhelming.

Where is McGuire?

Near the bank of the Klamath river at Pookama dam, projecting a little out into the roaring flood, is seen a box in which nearly 150 salmon trout a day are handsomely caught. Among the salmon trout jumping the dam are the unfortunates that never look before they leap, but land in the box and lay there gasping and floundering all day, until the owner of the box comes along and shovels them into his fish cart.

The above item is going the rounds of the press, and it does not seem possible that it can escape the eyes of our doughty fish and game protector. We suggest that here is a case where a conviction might be had for violating the game laws.

Another Story.

Attorney J. L. Story, formerly of The Dalles, has established a new paper at Goldendale, Wash., named the "Kick-hat County Agriculturist." Every live town should have a newspaper, but Goldendale is blessed a little too "abundantly" in this direction.—Antelope Herald.

The above news item is all right only Brother Shutt got hold of the wrong Story, W. J. being the man instead of our own J. L. It's funny though to think of the latter as occupying the editorial chair on an agricultural paper.

People who live in new countries are liable to be prostrated by malarial fevers. Inhabitants of cities, by reason of bad drainage and unwholesome odors, suffer from similar diseases. Ayer's Malarial Cure is warranted a specific for all malarial poisons.

The sum of $200,000 is represented by a pearl collar belonging to Baroness Gustav de Rothschild.

He Made the Trip.

The case of the state against Stewart is still undecided, having been postponed until this morning. One of the gentlemen wanted as a witness was not forthcoming Saturday simply because he was not served with a subpoena. That witness was Mr. Branner. He was preparing to go hunting over in Washington when he discovered the constable was looking for him, and although busily engaged in loading eatables into the wagon at the time, he surrendered that job to his friends and struck out at a Robert J gait around the corner from his restaurant and down Court street. A kind friend suggested to Constable Urquhart that he had gone up to Mays & Crowe's to buy ammunition. The constable who is on to his job, remarked that he guessed he would catch him, and so climbed into the wagon. It was a good piece of strategy under common circumstances, but the strategist overlooked the fact that the party was going hunting in Washington. When the load was completed the party drove down to the ferry landing, and there the constable discovered that Branner was profiting by the Salvation Army's advice to "Pull for the shore," and was half way across the Columbia. Branner had the hunting trip and the constable had the pleasure of making a return to the effect that witness was not found. The party arrived home last night with seventy birds.

A Pretty Home.

Yesterday we visited Hood River and took a drive out through the valley, taking dinner with Mr. and Mrs. John Parker at their new home. It was astonishing to see how rapidly that section is developing and the pretty home and young orchards of Mr. Parker were a typical example. Three years ago the forest alone held sway where now thrifty trees and luxuriant vines give promise of future wealth. It is one of the prettiest places in the valley and that is saying a great deal. There is a fine view of Mt. Hood, and the land sloping gently down to Hood river gives a magnificent view of that stream as it plays leap-frog over the boulders on its mad chase to the Columbia. The scenery was grand and twenty years ago might have evoked a half column of sentimentality, but gray hairs have brought wisdom and we confess that our tenderest recollections are of the dinner.

For the Defendant.

The case of the State against Stewart was finally decided this morning, the evidence being all in and arguments submitted about 11 o'clock. Justice Davis decided that the evidence was not sufficient to justify binding the defendant over to appear before the grand jury, and she was therefore discharged. The case was very hotly contested all the way through, Deputy Prosecuting Attorney Phelps putting up as good a case as the circumstances would admit, and Hon. Hon. E. B. Dufur, who conducted the defense, seeing that no debatable points went against him. The moral to this case is that it is dangerous to have $375 all at once, sometimes and places—or to think you have it.

Notice to Water Consumers.

The charges for patent closets when used when necessary only, is 25 cents, but when a constant stream is allowed to flow, the charge is $5 per month. In the last two years a large number of closets have been put in, and in a large number of them a constant stream is allowed to flow. The drain on the water supply has become so great that I am compelled to enforce the rules, and will hereafter charge $5 per month for all closets using a constant stream of water. Dalles City, Or., Sept. 10, 1894. I. J. NORMAN, Superintendent.

Deserving Praise

We desire to say to our citizens, that for years we have been selling Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Dr. King's New Life Pills, Bucklen's Arnica Salve and Electric Bitters, and have never handled remedies that sell as well, or that have given such universal satisfaction. We do not hesitate to guarantee them every time, as we stand ready to refund the purchase price, if satisfactory results do not follow their use. These remedies have won their great popularity purely on their merits. Snipes & Kinsersly's druggists.

Florence Nightingale, who is quite an invalid and confined to her couch, still takes an active part in the work of the world. She has been lately organizing a health crusade among the cottagers of Buckinghamshire—where she lives—for the purpose of instructing them in questions of ventilation, drainage and like sanitary matters.

Irving W. Laimore, physical director of Y. M. C. A., Des Moines, Iowa, says he can conscientiously recommend Chamberlain's Pain Balms to athletes, gymnasts, bicyclists, foot ball players and the profession in general for bruises, sprains and dislocations; also for soreness and stiffness of the muscles. When applied before the parts become swollen it will effect a cure in one half the time usually required. For sale by Blakeley & Houghton Druggists.
