

PUT TO FLIGHT

—all the peculiar troubles that beset a woman. The only guaranteed remedy for them is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. For women suffering from any chronic "female complaint" or weakness; for women who are run-down and overworked; for women expecting to become mothers, and for mothers who are nursing and exhausted; at the change from girlhood to womanhood; and later, at the critical "change of life"—it is a medicine that safely and certainly builds up, strengthens, regulates, and cures. If it doesn't, if it even fails to benefit or cure, you have your money back.

What you are sure of, if you use Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, is either a perfect and permanent cure for your Catarrh, no matter how bad your case may be, or $500 in cash. The proprietors of the medicine promise to pay you the money, if they can't cure you.

Emperors and empresses, kings and queens write to each other as brother and sister; reigning grand dukes also enjoy this privilege when addressing kings, but sovereigns not possessing royal honors are designated as cousins.

Deafness Cannot be Cured By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free. F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c.

A cat is enabled to send out or to retract her claws, because the bone to which the claw is attached has a rotary movement on the bone above, and a powerful ligament draws the former down and exhibits the claw.

A Leader. Since its first introduction, electric bitters has gained rapidly in popular favor, until now it is clearly in the lead among pure medicinal tonics and alternatives—containing nothing which permits its use as a beverage or intoxicant, it is recognized as the best and purest medicine for all ailments of stomach, liver or kidneys. It will cure sick headache, indigestion, constipation and drive malarial from the system. Satisfaction guaranteed with each bottle or the money will be refunded. Price only 50c. per bottle. Sold by Snipes & Kinersly.

Highness is an old title that was first used by the later Roman emperors, then by bishops, then by the Princes of Italy. Thence its use spread to Germany. It is now applied to princes who are vassals of an empire.

While in Chicago, Mr. Charles L. Kahler, a prominent shoe merchant of Des Moines, Iowa, had quite a serious time of it. He took such a severe cold that he could hardly talk or navigate, but the prompt use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy cured him so quickly that others at the hotel who had had colds followed his example and half a dozen persons ordered it from the nearest drug store. They were profuse in their thanks to Mr. Kahler for telling them how to cure a bad cold so quickly. For sale by Blakeley & Houghton Druggists.

Good remedies for persons poisoned with rhus ivy are to bathe the parts affected in a decoction of hemlock boughs or of oak leaves, or with a teaspoonful of sulphate of iron in a small cup of boiling water.

Bucklen's Arnicæ Salve. The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns, and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Snipes & Kinersly.

INDIAN SINGERS.

Their Vocalization is Crude, But Highly Appreciated by Their Fellows. In an address delivered in Washington, D. C., upon "Indian Music," Miss Alice Fletcher stated that the music of the Indians is solely and simply vocal. Their songs are compositions which have in them nothing borrowed from instruments, nothing of artificial instigation.

An Indian melody never serves two sets of words; there is no instance where the people have a custom like our own of singing the different stanzas of a ballad to the same tune. A large proportion of Indian songs are entirely without words, syllables being used to carry the tones. Perhaps the most striking peculiarity of Indian music is the lack of definite pitch, for there is no such thing as a standard pitch among the Indians. The Indian starts his song where the natural quality of his voice and his present mood renders it easiest for him to sing it. A tenor will naturally sing upon a higher pitch than a bass; a soprano will differ from a contralto. The pitch of a song depends upon the individual.

With the Indian there has never been anything we should call vocal training—any drill as to pitch. Some Indians, like some white people, always sing flat; while some Indians, like some of us, have what we call natural musical ears, and they sing in tones surprisingly near to our standards. Such Indians are recognized by their fellows as musical leaders. They are considered the best singers, men whose services are sought and paid for on occasions of festivity.

WANTED TO USE PLATINUM.

Interesting Experiment in Coinage Made by the Russian Government. "Once upon a time," said Mr. C. O. Baker, Jr., of New York, who is connected with the only platinum refining plant in the United States, "Russia concluded to try the experiment of using platinum as a money metal, says the Washington Post. There is really little of that article found anywhere else on the globe except in the Ural mountains, in the czar's dominions, and having a monopoly of the precious stuff, the idea of using it as a coin seemed plausible. But it didn't prove a glittering success, and I have never seen any coin made of platinum by that government dated later than 1844. "Here is one of the samples of the Russian experiment," said Mr. Baker, taking from his pocket a piece about the size of a silver quarter. It bore the date 1830 and had some Russian characters on it signifying it to be of the value of six rubles, or about $4.75 in American money.

"I gave $11 for it, however," said Mr. Baker, "and its intrinsic value is worth nearly that amount. Of course, no other nation would go in with Russia and take platinum for money, seeing that no other country produced any of it to speak of, which may be a tip to some of our silver friends. Platinum is lower than it was two years ago, being worth now $10.50 an ounce, though a while back it was worth $17 an ounce. At its present price it is just about half as valuable as gold. It is the heaviest of metals, its specific gravity exceeding that of gold about 5 per cent., and so ductile that it can be drawn into a thread 1-1000 of an inch in diameter."

HELPED THEM DIE EASY.

Farmer Leach's Indorsement of the Hog Cholera Cure. "In Nemaha county, southeastern Nebraska," said Representative Mercer, of Omaha, "there lives an old farmer, named Rufus Leach. The hog cholera was raging in the county and Leach's hogs were dying fast, when along came a smooth-tongued fakir with a patent cholera cure for hogs. He showed Leach his goods, read him the directions on the bottles, and sold him two or three bottles of the compound for five dollars.

"Three or four weeks later Farmer Leach was standing at his gate in the evening when a well-dressed stranger, who was driving by, hailed him. There was an air of desolation about the farm, a hull as of death, unrelieved by the musical bass grunts of a lot of contented hogs.

"Good evening, Mr. Leach," called out the stranger, pulling up at the gate. "Good evening," said Leach. "You don't remember me, I see," said the stranger. "No, not exactly," said the farmer. "I sold you some cholera cure for your hogs a few weeks ago," the stranger explained. "Oh, you're the man, are you?" said Leach, quietly. "Yes," said the fakir, "and by the way, how did it work?" "Well," said Leach, in his complacent style, "I don't know that it done any good, except to make the hogs die a little easier."

Two Very Old Ladies.

It is well known that women attain an extraordinary age oftener than men. One of the most celebrated female centenarians was Countess Desmond, who lived one hundred and forty-five years, and died in the reign of James I. as the result of an accident. This extraordinary woman was, at the age of one hundred years, so active and lively that she used to take part in the dances with young people. At the age of one hundred and forty-five years she traveled from Bristol to London, no small undertaking in those days. Even this instance, however, is surpassed by the case of a French woman named Marie Prion, who died at St. Colombe at the age of one hundred and fifty years.

Taxes in Germany.

Instead of paying taxes as ordinary mortals the citizens of Klingenberg-on-the-Main, Germany, received each three hundred marks from the income from several factories owned by the town. The division was made after the expenses of administration had been paid by money from the same source. That's one place where the politicians don't get it all.

RUB THE OTHER EYE.

Good Advice of an Engineer Regarding the Removal of Cinders.

Nine persons out of every ten with a cinder or any foreign substance in the eye will instantly begin to rub the eye with one hand while hunting for their handkerchief with the other. They may and sometimes do remove the offending cinder, but more frequently they rub until the eye becomes inflamed, bind a handkerchief around the head, and go to bed. This is all wrong. The better way is not to rub the eye with the cinder in it at all, but rub the other eye as vigorously as you like, according to a writer in the Medical Summary, who relates the following experience: "A few years since I was riding on the engine of a fast express. The engineer threw open the front window, and I caught a cinder that gave me the most excruciating pain. I began to rub the eye with both hands. 'Let your eye alone and rub the other eye' (this from the engineer). I thought he was chaffing me, and worked the harder. 'I know you doctors think you know it all, but if you will let that eye alone and rub the other one, the cinder will be out in two minutes,' persisted the engineer. I began to rub the other eye; soon I felt the cinder down near the inner canthus, and made ready to take it out. 'Let it alone and keep at the well eye,' shouted the doctor pro tem. I did so for a minute longer, and looking in a small glass he gave me found the offender on my cheek. Since then I have tried it many times, and have advised many others, and have never known it to fail in one instance, unless it was as sharp as a piece of steel or something that cut into the ball and required an operation to remove it."

SAWING WOOD.

The Old Man Was Somewhat Posted on Human Nature.

"Mornin', boys," said Old Jack, who believed in judicious flattery, and whose doings are reported in Harper's Young People. As he spoke he laid down his saw. "Feelin' well, I hope? Yes? Good. Nothin' like feelin' well to make a feller feel good. You don't look powerful strong though, Tommy; you're thin. "What's that? You're wiry, be ye? I don't believe that. You couldn't saw one o' them sticks through. You kin? Ho! Seein' believein'! "Why, ye kin saw purty well. Yer stronger'n ye look. I couldn't o' done that better myself. He beats you on sawin', I guess, Bobby. Eh? He can't? Yes, he kin, I believe. Beat ye all holler. What? You'll saw two sticks quicker'n he sawed that? Nonsuns! "Hokey! ye went through that like lightnin'; but one stick ain't two sticks. No, sir. One ain't never two. Goin' to do the other? Well, well! Tommy, he's goin' to do the other; whatever you goin' to do? You'll do two? "Don't brag, Bobby. Ain't braggin'? Ye'll do three? Waal, go ahead; don't let me interfere. Allers glad to see boys sawin'. What! the hull lot sawed? Waal, I'm surprised. That bein' the case, I think I'll go indoors an' rest. Sawin' allers did make me tired." The old man walked into the house, and Bobby and Tommy went home, wondering if their friend hadn't put up a little game on them, after all.

THE CONSCIENCE FUND.

Founded Early in This Century, It Now Amounts to About $270,000.

The "Conscience Fund" has figured in the statements of the treasury department for over eighty years, says F. L. Crisman in Lippincott's. It was opened by the register of the treasury department in 1811 and appears in the general fund of the government under the head of miscellaneous receipts. Like other assets of the treasury it can be used for any purpose that congress may deem proper. Its origin was due to the fact that away back in the beginning of the present century some unknown person began to feel the sharp thrusts of conscience. In some way he had defaulted the government, and could find relief only by returning the money to the treasury. This was the beginning of the account showing the receipts of moneys by the government from unknown persons. Since then the fund has been accumulating in large and small sums, until at the present time it aggregates nearly $270,000. Remittances are received nearly every week. During the prevalence of the hard times the receipts have fallen off considerably, and sometimes a fortnight elapses before a communication is received, showing that even a man's conscience can feel the effect of tight money.

DANGERS IN THE MINES.

Small Pay for Men Who Are Likely at Any Time to Be Succeeded.

Great and mystically dreadful is the earth from a mine's depth, says McClure's Magazine. Man is in the implacable grasp of nature. It has only to tighten slightly and he is crushed like a bug. His loudest shriek of agony would be as potent as his final moan to bring help from that fair land that lies, like heaven, over his head. There is an insidious silent enemy in the gas. If the huge fanwheel on the top of the earth should stop for a brief period there is certain death, and a panic more terrible than any occurring where the sun has shone ensues down under the tons of rock. If a man may escape the gas, the floods, the "squeezes" of falling rock, the cars shooting through little tunnels, the precarious elevators, the hundred perils, there usually comes to him an attack of "miner's asthma" that slowly racks and shakes him into the grave. Meanwhile, he gets three dollars a day and his laborer one dollar.

Guarded by Soldiers.

The Bank of Germany, like most other German public buildings, has a military guard to protect it. In a very strongly-fortified military fortress at Spandau is kept the great war treasure of the imperial government, part of the French indemnity, amounting to several million pounds.
