ALL OR NOTHING.

Should David Bennett Hill be elected governor of New York, which is by no means impossible, it is going to cause some queer complications. In the first place, it will make him the democratic nominee for president, despite the fact that a western man is desired.

Who the republican candidate will be it is at present hard to say, but it will be neither McKinley nor Tom Reed. Their pace is too heavy on the first quarter, and they will come in bunched and in the rear on the home stretch.

The New York state campaign will be the hardest fought and most closely contested of any that has ever been fought in the history of the country.

NOT AN UNCLE HELM.

Under the above title a correspondent of the Spokesman-Review comes to the defense of Hon. John L. Wilson, congressman from Washington, who has evidently been charged by some populist paper with usury.

"TO THE EDITOR: It is beyond understanding that the populists should attack John L. Wilson because of his half ownership in the money loaning business of Alonzo M. Murphey & Co.

"The appointment by Mr. Wilson of Alonzo M. Murphey, his partner, as receiver of the Spokane National bank has been characterized as reprehensible, because Mr. Wilson was supposed to share in the monthly salary of $250.

"A congressman's salary is but $5,000 a year. Why should a man seek an election to congress if he is not to take advantage of his opportunities? Has thrift become a crime. JUSTICE."

Sufficient pressure has been brought to bear on Mayor Frank of Portland that he has consented to veto the license ordinance. The members of the Multnomah county legislative delegation have promised the mayor and council that they will have the Portland charter amended so that more bonds can be sold.

An attempt is being made at Union to locate a beet sugar factory there. We have not seen anything concerning it lately, but we hope to see the experiment tried. If sugar can be made at Union, it can be made here, and we believe there is no doubt about the success of the business at either place.

The New York Times (democratic) scores Hill unmercifully. As Hill has not accepted the nomination, it is probable he is waiting to see the extent of the storm that action caused.

AN INSECT EXECUTION.

How a Quartette of Flies Put a Half-Burned Brother to Death.

Flies are not usually accredited with great intelligence, but an illustration observed one night recently goes far to disprove any idea that they are entirely bereft of thought. It was near midnight and a writer for the Philadelphia Call laid aside his pen for the day, but was constrained to remain at the desk by the strange actions of a quartette of flies.

Seventeen times were combats—for such they soon appeared to be—had. The fly, lying on his back, fought and apparently sought to keep off the big insects. As near as the eye could determine, they seemed to strive to reach the neck of the sufferer.

THE OLD EDITOR.

What Becomes of Men Who Have Led Their Country's Thoughts.

For a time all goes well with the enthusiastic, ardent young men who give to their employers the full benefit of their talent and learning and increasing experience, says the Gentleman's Magazine. By and by, however, the political partisanship or the editorial supervision of the paper changes.

As a rule it must be admitted that newspaper proprietors deal patiently and generously with writers whose brilliant work and devoted service laid the foundation of their papers' prosperity and of their own fortune.

"The journalist who toils unselfishly for the public, making everybody's concern his own, all too frequently neglects his personal interests. Often at the end of the day he is himself a neglected man, having little comfort or consolation beyond the reflection that if success has not been achieved it has been deserved.

performed by Ayer's Sarsaparilla, one in particular being that of a little daughter of a Church of England minister.
