BEET SUGAR INDUSTRY.

Until sites are chosen for the two beet sugar refineries, which an enterprising company intends to establish in this state, the machinery now being manufactured in Germany, will not be shipped. At least that is the statement given out for publication by a prominent member of the company in Portland.

Eastern Oregon and one in the Willamlocation has not yet been decided. Nu-When we have made our selections, the machinery will be shipped to us, provided it is ready for shipment. I cannot state with any degree of certainty when we will be ready to begin builddistant when we will be ready to make contracts for beets."

quoted that the new tariff law will not tion, or your money is returned. seriously interfere with the beet sugar industry in this state. He explained that while the McKinley bounty has been abolished, there is still an advalorem duty on refined sugar sufficient to make its manufacture from beets profitable to both the producer and the refiner. Practical experiments in different parts of this state have demonstrated the fact that an average profit of $40 per acre can be made by beet cultivationmuch more than can be derived from any other branch of agriculture. True it is that beet-raising demands more attention than any other crop, but the percentage of saccharine matter in the beet rewards the grower according to his industry. To promote careful cultivation, the factories will put a graded price on the raw product.

No trouble is anticipated in finding a home market for all the sugar that the two factories will be able to turn out. Professor G. W. Shaw, of the agricultural college at Corvallis, who has made the other woman held back. The man exhaustive inquiry into the beet sugar question, found that Portland alone consumes and distributes about 25,000,000 pounds of sugar per annum. That is more than a dozen beet suagar factories could manufacture in a single season. By locating its Willamette valley factory within a short distance of Portland; the new company hopes to be able to undersell the San Francisco refiners in that city.

A GREAT DUTY.

The Oregonian yesterday has an article concerning the management of state, fellow passenger. county and city affairs that is directly to the point and filled with good hard horse sense. We regret that lack of space prevents our re-printing it, but we console ourselves by clipping the concluding paragraph:

"Never before has an Oregon legislature had such summons to duty as rests upon the one that will convene in January. Our whole official system has become honeycombed with practices which to use no harsher terms, are burdensome to the taxpayer and destructive to the state. Offices are sought for their emoluments, and "worked for all there is in them." Extravagance, looseness and recklessness of expenditure have prevailed in legislative halls and department offices. It should be the business of this legislature to reform these abuses, and put the state upon a career of honesty and economy such as honored its early years. The voice of the people has called it into life for that end, and their eyes are upon it,"

Senator Mitchell, in an interview concerning the probable candidates for president, after going over the field pretty thoroughly, gives as his opinion as to the most available man on the republican side the name of Senator Cameron of Pennsylvania. He says that room. Soon afterward, he called from events may transpire between now and the time of making the nominations that may make some other candidate more available, but that at the present time Cameron would lead all others. We confess our inability to understand by what process of reasoning the senator reaches this conclusion, as candidates as strong or stronger can be found in Cure. It cures without leaving any inevery state. Senator Allison of Iowa is jurious effect upon the system, and is a stronger and far abler man than Cam- the only medicine in existence which eron. VIGILANCE AGAINST THE PEST. What Happened to Kate Field in a Fifth Avenue Omnibus in New York. If Kate Field, of Washington, were not a woman whose word cannot be questioned, this story of an occurrence in a Fifth avenue omnibus would not be believed. A friend and herself had entered the vehicle, says the New York Press, and another woman and a man followed at intervals of a block or two apart. Presently a gentleman got in who was recognized as one of the most eminent physicians in New York. He made his way up to the front of the omnibus and sat quiet for a minute or two, then turned and looked earnestly up and down the two sides on which his fellow passengers were seated. A moment later he pulled the strap and stepped to the door.

"Ladics," said he, "one of you has smallpox. I shall have to trouble you all to lift your veils." The narrator and her companion responded at once, but arose and beat a hasty retreat, the doctor holding open the door, but saying as he did so: "You would be wiser, sir, to come with us and be vaccinated."

The man came back and took his seat quietly in the omnibus, and the doctor ordered the driver to drive at once to the stable, which he did. From the stable the doctor telephoned for an ambulance, in which the woman who had refused to lift her veil was taken away to the hospital, she having become thoroughly frightened by that time and offering no resistance. The doctor procured some fresh vaccine from a neighboring druggist and vaccinated the two ladies and their male

He explained that he had detected the odor of the disease on entering the omnibus, and that it was only by such A Letter. prompt action as his that it would be possible to stamp out the epidemic in the great city.

That Altered the Case. Of the late French Senator Renaud the Kolnische Zeitung tells the following anecdote: When Renaud first came as senator to Paris from his home in the Pyrenees he engaged a room at a hotel and paid a month's rent-one hundred and fifty francs-in advance. The proprietor asked him if he would have a receipt.

"It is not necessary," replied Renaud.
"God has witnessed the payment."
"Do you believe in God?" sneered the

"Most assuredly," replied Renaud, "don't you?" "Not I, monsieur."

"Ah," said the senator, "in that case please make me out a receipt."

Female Garments The leaves of the sensitive plant shrink from a touch; but Mrs. Claffin, in her "Personal Recollections of Whittier," tells of a man so sensitive as to shrink from the sight of a woman's dress, even when it was hanging harmlessly from pegs and hooks. An old Quaker friend, a bachelor, visited Mr. Whittier. When the hour for retiring came he was shown to his the top of the stairs, in an excited tone: "I think thee has made a mistake, Friend Whittier. I find female garments in my room!' "Thee'd better go to bed," replied the poet: "the female garments will not hurt thee.

Best Medicine.

I. O. WILSON, Contractor and milder, Sulphur Springs, Texas, thus speaks of Ayer's Pills:

"Ayer's Pills are the best medicine I ever tried; and, in my judgment, no better general remedy could be devised. I have used them in my family and recommended them to my friends and employes for more than twenty years. To my certain knowledge, many cases of the following complaints have been completely and by the use of Ayer's Pills alone: Third, day chills, dumb ague, bilious fever, sick headache, rheumatism, flux, dyspepsia, constipation, and hard colds. I now that a moderate use of Ayer's Pills, continued for a few days or weeks, as the nature of the complaint required, would be found an absolute cure for the disorders I have named above."

"I have been selling medicine for theld veers, and I can safely say that I yer's Pills give better satisfaction than any other Pill I ever sold."-J. J. l'erry. Spottsylvania C. H., Va.
