J. H. CROSS,
 Telephone No. 61. Cor. Second and Union Sts.

Jenkins—Well, sir, I give it to that man straight, I can tell you. He is twice as big as I am, too, but I told him exactly what I thought of his rascally conduct right to his face, and I called him all the names in the dictionary and a lot of others as well. Studs—And didn't he try to hit you? Jenkins—No sir, he didn't. And when he tried to answer back I just hugg up the telephone receiver and walked away.—Tid Bits.

THE WAY OUT

of woman's troubles is with Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Safely and certainly, every delicate weakness, derangement and disease peculiar to the sex is permanently cured.

Out of all the medicines for women, the "Favorite Prescription" is the only one that's guaranteed to do what is claimed for it. In all "female complaints" and irregularities, periodical pains, displacements, internal inflammation or ulceration, bearing-down sensations and kindred ailments, if it ever fails to benefit or cure, you have your money back.

Anything "just as good," or as sure to bring help, could be, and would be, sold in just that way. This guaranteed medicine is an invigorating, restorative tonic, especially adapted to woman's needs and perfectly harmless in any condition of her system.

So sure to cure every case of Catarrh, is Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy that its proprietors make you this offer: "If you can't be cured, permanently, we'll pay you $500 in cash."

"We are going to have Mabel very highly educated," said a clever matron recently. "I don't want to be highly educated," came in the unexpected voice of Mabel, a little tot of 5 years, from another room. I want to be just like you.—Tid Bits.

Now Try This.

It will cost you nothing and will surely do you good, if you have a cough, cold, or any trouble with throat, chest or lungs. Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds is guaranteed to give relief, or money will be paid back. Sufferers from la grippe found it just the thing and under its use had a speedy and thorough recovery. Try a sample bottle at our expense, and learn for yourself just how good a thing it is. Trial bottles free at Snipes & Kinersley's drug store. Large size 50c and $1.

STEWARDS OF AN OCEAN LINER.

A Position of Responsibility with an Army of Subordinates to Oversee. It may surprise some old globe trotters to know that the big ocean greyhounds running between New York and the European ports carry on an average nineteen thousand pieces of sterling silverware for their table service, and that this large amount of plate is handled during the voyage by from two hundred to two hundred and forty waiters or "stewards," as they are called on shipboard. The chief steward is responsible for every piece, says the New York Mail and Express. He must be a man of quick powers of observation, a student of human nature and be up to all the little devices of a small army of subordinates usually keener and quicker witted than those found ashore in the same calling. It is a busy day for the steward twenty-four hours before the time set for departure. He has purchased or contracted for all the supplies and an assistant sees that the contracts are fulfilled. But his personal attention must be given to silverware. He keeps a regular debit and credit account and can tell to a toothpick just what he will start away with. On the voyage passengers are apt to lose spoons or forks or other ware by accident, and occasionally a gay blade may think it amuse to toss a sugar bowl or half a dozen knives through a port hole. It is needless to say that he furnishes a quid pro quo before he goes ashore. When the other side is reached the chief steward spends a day in balancing accounts. He started with so much, and so much should be on hand. If there is a difference he seeks to find it, and if he can't find it he "makes good" himself. The responsibility of such a position naturally commands a high salary, and every chief steward on every ocean steamship running from this port is, without exception, a man of unimpeachable integrity. The extraordinary record is that in thirty years there have been but two accusations of a betrayal of a trust.

THE VAMPIRE BAT.

A Dread Creature That is Common in the Island of Newfoundland.

I have always despised bats, said a Cleveland man recently, and it always sends a shudder over me whenever one of the hideous creatures approaches me. The bats of this country, however, are not to be dreaded in comparison to those of the vampire species which abound in India. Just imagine a big mouse with a horn on his head like a rhinoceros, furnish him with a pair of demon-like wings, and you have a very good picture of this latter kind. The natives dread the vampire bat on account of his blood-sucking propensity. In the sultry nights he fans the heated sleeper with his wings while his needle-like teeth are being inserted into the veins of his victim, quenching his thirst for blood with such gentleness that it is only by some fortunate chance that he is discovered before the mischief is done. It is a well-authenticated fact that if an individual is once bled by a vampire he is invariably chosen, in preference to all others equally exposed for a subsequent attack, and even if he were to move ten or twenty miles away, no immunity is gained thereby, as the bat is sure to follow him and keep up his blood-thirsty attack until his victim succumbs or the animal is discovered and killed. Cattle and horses, from being more exposed, are more frequently chosen as the subjects of attack by these loathsome creatures.

THE NEWFOUNDLAND DOG.

He is the Noblest Species of the Whole Canine Race.

The Newfoundland dog takes his name from the island where he is supposed to have originated. Many, however, believe that the Norsemen, who discovered America in the year 1000, introduced this dog in Newfoundland. He is by some classified among the wolf-dogs, while others, on account of his large pendulous ears, say that he should not belong to this family, but that he and the St. Bernards should occupy a place by themselves.

The Newfoundland, says Harper's Young People, since his introduction in England, has improved in appearance, and is now larger and heavier. In Newfoundland and Labrador these dogs are used as beasts of burden, drawing considerable loads of wood and provisions on sledges. Their feet are partially webbed, and therefore they are most excellent water dogs. The scent is not strong, and as the dog is slow and clumsy, he is not valuable to the hunter, except as a retriever when speed is not required.

In the island of Newfoundland this dog is almost totally black, but the English varieties are usually black and white. As a watch-dog the Newfoundland is only second to the mastiff. He is amiable to children and small dogs. Kept in confinement he often gets cross and ill-tempered, and flies at those for whom he has previously shown the greatest regard.

Where a dog cannot be allowed to run, and must be chained up, the Newfoundland should not be kept. This dog is a great life-saver, and by instinct will jump into the water to save even an enemy from drowning.

UNAPPRECIATED BANANAS.

Some Superstitions About Haddock and Fern Roots.

The banana possesses wonderful sustaining properties, and yet years ago, in the warm countries where it flourishes, the banana was thought of so lightly that it was allowed to waste if not eaten by the cattle. The plant itself was valued simply as a shade for coffee trees, between rows of which it was planted.

Somebody once told me, says a writer in the Gentlewoman, that the Spaniards used to regard the banana as a forbidden fruit, because they detected in its heart the transverse section of the cross.

I remember, too, how one of my early gnomes used to delight me by showing me the cross and the apostles in the center of the passion flower; and the other day a friend told me of some curious symbolical marks to be found at the back of the neck of the haddock, indentations similar to those that might be caused by the finger and thumb, the supposition being that the haddock was one of the fishes picked out of the net on the occasion of the miraculous draft of fishes.

CHAMPIONS IN THEIR LINE.

Absent-Minded People Who Were Simply Wonders.

They are telling a story of a Dutchman who presented himself at the registrar's office recently to obtain a license for his approaching marriage, and who, on being asked the name of the bride, was compelled to confess that it had quite escaped him, and he had to return home for the necessary information. It's a pretty good story of absence of mind, but there are others on record that are even better. There have been cases where persons have even forgotten their own names.

Lessing, the historian, was subject to the most wonderful fits of abstraction. One night, returning home late, he rang the front door bell, and when a servant called out from an upper window that the professor was not at home, he said: "All right, I'll come again," and walked away.

There was an English clergyman, Rev. George Harvest, who was engaged to a daughter of the bishop of London, but on the day of his wedding went fishing, and forgetful of the appointed hour did not appear at the nuptials. The lady broke off the match.

Making Rain in India.

A rainmaker in India has an apparatus consisting of a rocket capable of rising to the height of a mile, containing a reservoir of ether; in its descent it opens a parachute, which causes it to come down slowly. The ether is thrown out in fine spray, and its absorption of heat is said to lower the temperature about it sufficiently to condense the vapor and produce a limited shower.
