

Love at First Sight

Ne'er occurs more genuinely than in the meeting of the feminine fair with our handsome Dress Goods for Fall.

Of course those handsome Imported Novelties in Dress Pattern Lengths are called by all kinds of extravagant names that feminine enthusiasm can devise, and we must confess that we think they are handsome. Our line at 50 cents is large and complete, and when purchasing particular attention was paid to have our goods at his price, attractive, of good value and in great variety.

The grand lodge Knights of Pythias meets at Portland next Tuesday.

The city council meets tonight it being the regular monthly meeting.

The weather predictions by Mr. Pague this morning are for today clearing and for tomorrow colder.

The Epworth League of the M. E. church, will give an entertainment at the opera house during fair week.

It is rumored that freight rates will be sharply advanced soon, between Missouri river points and Portland.

We are told that three or four of the best horses in the circuit will be here during the fair, coming from Portland.

The managers of the Oregon Lumber Company at Hood River have been arrested for running sawdust in the streams.

And still the wheat comes in. The recent wet weather interfered somewhat with the threshing and this put some teams on the road that otherwise would still be with the machines.

As we hustle vainly today for the elusive item, we wish with all our heart were sampling the banquet our more fortunate brethren are enjoying today at Pendleton. It is easier to get and more filling.

The Olympic Club of New Orleans met yesterday and formally declared Robert Fitzsimmons heavy weight champion of the world. This action was taken because Corbett refused to meet him.

General Booth, commander in chief of the Salvation army, will arrive in New York from England this week and will visit Portland December 28th, so remain one day. It will be a big day for the Salvationists of the Northwest.

According to today's Oregonian the freight advances of which we speak elsewhere will be made about October 20th. The advance will be from 7 to 25 per cent, and will prove a discrimination against Portland. The reason for the raise is unknown.

A progressive whist party at Mr. Julius Wiley's last night was one of the pleasantest affairs of the kind this season. Mrs. Norman and Mr. Tom Ward won first prize, and Miss Sterling and Mr. Kelly the booby. The party separated about 11 o'clock.

For the gentlemen's roadsters race at the coming fair, the following entries have been made: John L., bay stallion, by M. E. Welch; John Day, bay gelding, by J. P. McInerney; Hero, bay gelding, by R. Hinton; Kit Wheeler, black mare, by A. Brown; Patty, sorrel mare, by E. Jacobsen.

Madame L. Dulac, 382 Morrison street, Portland, Or., artistic French dress maker, late of H. B. Litt, is ready to make appointments with the ladies who would like to have her come to The Dalles, to take their order, to fit them there. Latest styles and fit guaranteed. Reasonable prices. 1w.

Mr. James B. Crossen has purchased the Dehm property on Third street near the Gates building and is having it repaired. A force of men are engaged in raising it, and from the amount of mortar and brick around it looks as though the old house would be replaced by a new one, and a brick at that.

Wm. Buskirk, administrator of the estate of Elmer E. Griffin, a former resident of Hood River, but now in the east and insane; Saturday sold a quarter section of timber land in Hood River belonging to the estate, to Lucas Henry. The property was mortgaged and bought by the mortgagee.

The windows of the city council chambers have been washed. We know that our reputation for truth and veracity is liable to suffer from making this apparently rash statement but it is true just the same. The deed is placed at the door of Street Commissioner Butts, but that seems as great a wonder as the original story.

A writer in Farm and Home tells how he keeps potatoes: Dig them after the first light frost and pile them in a round heap; stack corn stalks around them four inches thick, then cover about four inches with dirt and put a dry shelter over them; never put over thirty bushels in a hill, and I think if you will follow my plan you will keep potatoes as long as I have.

Mr. Peter Fennell last Sunday rode his horse over the hill from Sandos's place on Mill creek to his own on Chenoweth creek, carrying some tools behind the saddle. These slipped frightening the horse which threw Mr. Fennell. His foot hung in the stirrup and as the horse dragged him it also stepped on his right hand tearing the first joint off the index finger. Fortunately his foot came out of the stirrup before he had been dragged far, else had this article been an obituary.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

"Tell me, mammy dear, why does papa always scold nurse when you're there and plays hide-and-seek with her when you're not there?"—New York Journal.

The Prince of Wales is entitled to wear 70 different uniforms, but he never puts on more than one at a time. This is his uniform habit.—Tummany Times.

She Saved the Dog.

An Oregonian reporter describes a case of honors being even as follows:

"The profession of dog-catcher is not exempt from trouble, and even danger. The dog has been styled the truest friend of man, and most men are true friends of their dogs, but they are not to be mentioned in this respect in the same day with the women. A bear robbed of her cubs is not more dangerous than a woman when the dog-catcher attempts to capture her dog. Away up First street, a day or two since, a dog-catcher started in to lasso a dog. The woman who owned the dog rushed out to its defense. A man was unloading a cartload of refuse near by, and the dog sought refuge under the cart. The catcher was stooping to spy the dog when the woman came up behind him and gave him a vigorous push, sending him head first into the garbage heap. She then whistled up her dog, and then retrenched in good order to a place of safety. The next day the catcher sneaked around, thinking to get the dog. He found the animal on the street and chased after him. The woman espied him and rushed out after him, but her foot slipped on the polished rails of Mr. Holladay's justly celebrated street railway and she fell full length in the muddy street. The impolite dog-catcher laughed so heartily that he quit chasing the dog, and the woman, calling her pet, took him in her arms and marched off covered with mud and glory.

It Winked Out.

Recently an attorney wrote to County Clerk Kelsay, desiring to know which was the leading democratic paper of The Dalles. The letter was turned over to A. G. Johnson, deputy, to reply, and we quote a small portion of the answer, as showing the present condition of democratic newspapers in The Dalles. Mr. Johnson said:

"There was a democratic paper published here in days gone by, but the 'change' it labored so hard for, brought not a harvest of plenty, and it met the fate of the Frenchman's whiskey, it lasted—soon. Like many another industry under the new conditions that confront us it withered and died. The old plant has been moved across the river, and the faithful type that whooped it up for democracy's uncrowned king, Grover the First, and tariff reform, is now doing good service in expounding republican principles to the political sinner's of the evergreen state.

Pioneer Ball.

We acknowledge the receipt of an invitation to attend a pioneer ball at the Cascade Locks, Saturday evening next. As the name of Hon. H. A. Leavens heads the list of the committee no further assurance need be made that it will be a success. A pioneer supper will also be served and among the delicacies to be served are fillet of bear a la muck-a-muck, wapatotes with the harness on, venison, coon, jack rabbit and huckleberry sauce. We know the boys will have a good time, but as we can't be there what good is that going to do us.
