"Coffee Club" entertainment tonight at Fraternity Hall.

Three drunks received proper admonishment and a fine at the hands of the city recorder today.

Rev. J. N. Smith of Monmouth will preach at the Christian church tomorrow, (Tuesday evening), at 8 o'clock.

Owing to increase of business and putting in a stock of dry goods, M. Honeywill has added thirty-five feet to the length of his store.

License to wed was issued today to James A. Cook and Miss Wyoming Cooper, both of Hood River. The wedding will take place tonight.

Don't forget the entertainment and dance to be given by the "Coffee Club" tonight at Fraternity Hall. Gents 25 cts., ladies 10 cts. Come everybody and have a good time.

Arrangements are all completed for the fair, and exhibits are coming in rapidly. Tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock all entries at the pavilion close. Do not forget this but get there in time.

The ladies of the M. E. church will give everyone an opportunity to secure a good meal twice a day during the fair, at noon and at 6 o'clock, both hot meals, in the building next door to the First National bank.

About twenty members of the Masonic fraternity went to Mosier on the boat this morning to attend the funeral of the late J. H. Mosier, who was a member of the order. The party came home on the local passenger.

Madame L. Dulac, 382 Morrison street, Portland, Or., artistic French dress maker, late of H. B. Litt, is ready to make appointments with the ladies who would like to have her come to The Dalles, to take their order, to fit them there. Latest styles and fit guaranteed. Reasonable prices. 1w.

Hans Neilsen, who was sent to the insane asylum from here some time ago, committed suicide Thursday by hanging himself. The unfortunate man was a native of Denmark and was 24 years of age. His parents Mr. and Mrs. R. Neilsen reside on Mill creek, a few miles from town, and up to this time have not been told of the sad fate of their son.

Mr. Fred Wilson has kindly consented to use his pencil for THE CHRONICLE during the fair. Anyone having water-melons or fruit to sample are respectfully referred to him, and if there is a baby show to be judged, or a kissing match needing assistance, we feel certain that Mr. Wilson will do the honors of the occasion as gracefully as we might or could do if personally present.

The building boom is still on at Antelope, and the hard times are apparently not recognized. Work was commenced last Wednesday morning on the new residence of Dr. Pilkington, on a lot which he purchased from C. B. Durbin, across the street from Wingate & Co.'s store. It will be a 5-room cottage with a cellar underneath, and will be another valuable acquisition to our thriving city.—Antelope Herald.

Judging from the manner in which the members of the Press Association were welcomed and entertained during their stay in Pendleton last week, the climate of Umatilla county must be especially conducive to geniality. Every member of the reception committee, as well as the citizens generally, did his utmost to entertain, as did also the residents of Milton, where they were invited to spend a portion of Wednesday. And so the members of the association returned to their fields of labor not only benefited by their deliberations, but with a better idea of what real cordiality is, and with a determination to aid that section of the country as best they can in securing every means for the development of its resources, which are truly wonderful.

The Forbidden Fruit.

Many are the attempts to identify the forbidden fruit. Some say it was the fig, others the grape, others again the pomegranate; but the most "Arabian Nightish" description paints it as an ear of wheat, which looked like a ruby and was as big as an ostrich egg, and grew on a tree whose trunk was like gold, its branches like silver and its leaves emerald.

Our first parents were expelled about 3 o'clock of the afternoon of Friday, the 10th of May, having resided in Eden seven years, two months, two weeks and three days. Adam was banished to Ceylon and Eve to Mecca, and they remained apart for 200 years. Adam, according to some accounts, spent half this time weeping, with his face to the earth; others, less charitably, aver that his solitude was cheered by Lilith, who resumed her former relations with him.

When he repented and rejoined Eve, he begged that something might be given him from the happy garden of innocence which he had forfeited, and lo! in answer to his prayer, three archangels were sent to him—Michael bringing gold, Gabriel frankincense, and Raphael myrrh—mystic gifts, in after years associated with the offering of the Magi, whom early Christian tradition identified with Enoch, Melchisedek and Elias.—All the Year Round.

When persons are weak and languid, from sickness or overwork, feel debilitated and depressed, it is an indication that the blood is out of order, and they need help to throw off the miserable feeling. The best remedy for this purpose is Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier. It restores lost strength, gives vigor to circulation, promotes good appetite and a flow of cheerful spirits. Price $1.00 per bottle. For sale by the Snipes-Kinnersly Drug Co.

A Threatening Blaze.

Yesterday afternoon an alarm of fire was caused by a blaze on the roof of the Cosmopolitan. The fire was evidently caused by a spark either from the chimney, or from a passing locomotive, as the fire was entirely on the outside of the shingles. A brisk wind was blowing from the east and northeast and the flames spread rapidly over the shingles. A bucket brigade was soon formed, and did excellent work surrounding the blaze and holding it in check until the arrival of the hose carts. Columbia got first water but the pressure was not sufficient, and the hose was hauled up on the building. The steamer was slow in getting to the fire and equally slow about getting steam. It is safe to say that had the bucket brigade not been formed at once the Cosmopolitan would have burned, and the chances then for the balance of the city towards Mill creek would have been small.

We are not disposed to fault-finding, but this is a case where the existence of the city was at stake. The greatest blame must rest upon those who have charge of the city's waterworks. The pressure was not on the mains, where it should be. There is a mistaken idea about supplying the lower part of the city from the lower reservoir. The business portion of the city lies below the bluff and so does four-fifths of the property values. The city has assumed a heavy indebtedness, for the purpose of owning its water system. It is entitled not only to water for domestic and common purposes, but also to fire protection. Unless the pressure is kept on the lower mains, one of the principle objects for which the city assumed its indebtedness is defeated. We have escaped a disastrous conflagration, more by accident than otherwise, for had the fire not been discovered for a minute or two later, the buckets could not have controlled it, and the probabilities are there would have been no town west of Court street.

This article is not written in a spirit of fault-finding, but simply to call attention to those whose business it is to manage the water and the fire department to the necessity of being better prepared for future emergencies. Since writing the above we have heard all kinds of assertions concerning the water, some insisting it was turned on, others that the plug was not opened and so on through the whole list of possible criticisms and recriminations. Mr. Worsley asserts that the plug was opened to its fullest capacity. However this may be or where the fault lies, one thing is assured and that is that the fire was not well managed save by the bucket brigade and perhaps Columbia hose company.

The Lost Boy Found.

The boy Ryan who was lost last week, has returned home. It seems he went visiting to some friends, apparently unconscious of the worry and trouble he was causing his parents and those with whom he had been stopping by his action. When one considers the amount of sympathy his absence has awakened, and the terrible suspense of his parents, the inclination to assist in giving him a good spanking is almost irresistible. The "Lost Heir," so touchingly described by Tom Hood, explains one's feelings perfectly. In that case it will be remembered after crying her eyes out and extolling her lost "darling" as the very perfection of childhood, the good mother in the midst of her grief, "claps her two lovin' eyes on him" and forgetting her recent sorrow, says: "But wait till I get him home with a good grip in his hair, and I'm blessed if I have a whole bone in his skin."

The Arkansas Kiss.

Something like a year ago, while editing the Glacier at Hood River, it became our painful duty to write up a kissing match that occurred between a young lady who had just arrived from Arkansas and her onliest only, who had preceded her, and whom she had not seen for a year. That match occurred on the arrival of the west-bound passenger train, in charge of Conductor Glendenning, time 3 o'clock p. m. Glendenning held the train so that the passengers could take notes of the result, and charged the delay up to the Columbia river scenery. We said at the time there was nothing on earth to equal the kissing power of an Arkansas girl, and this assertion has received ocular and oculatory proof.

A few days ago three other Arkansas ladies arrived on the morning train, and the first hugging match was multiplied by three. Those who saw it say it was worth going miles to see, and that when lip met lip and broke away again there was a sudden smacking together of the air that resembled the expiring gurgle of a bathtub. The girls each singled out her fellow and went for him then and there.

Since that occurrence every old bachelor in Hood River has been inquiring the price of tickets to Little Rock, and each and every one of them declare that the recent cyclone at that place was the result of a kissing bee in the next county. Charley Miller was in charge of the train, and as an advertisement of the scenic beauties of the route, held the train for five minutes, and until the male members of the kissing party began to show signs of weakening.

Mr. T. E. Wiley, 146 Chambers st., New York City, says that Ayer's Sarsaparilla cured him of a dry and scaly humor, from which he had suffered intolerably. He adds: "I have not now a blemish on my body, and my cure is wholly due to Ayer's Sarsaparilla."

The formula of Ayer's Sarsaparilla is well known to the medical profession, and universally approved. The reputation of the firm guarantees excellence and uniformity in the medicine, and the world's experience for nearly half a century has fully demonstrated its value.
