Mr. Bicker (to colored servant)—You do as I tell you. I'm the master of this house. Mrs. Bicker—and I'm the mistress of it, so you'll mind me before anyone else. Rastus—Dat's all very well. I doan care a picayune w'ich is de mas'r or de missus. What I want'r know is who's de boss?—Truth.

There is no medicine so often needed in every home and so admirably adapted to the purposes for which it is intended, as Chamberlain's Pain Balm. Hardly a week passes but some member of the family has need of it. A toothache or headache may be cured by it. A touch of rheumatism, or neuralgia quieted. The severe pain of a burn or scald promptly relieved and the sore healed in much less time than when medicine has to be sent for. A sprain may be promptly treated before inflammation sets in, which incurs a cure in about one-third of the time otherwise required. Cuts and bruises should receive immediate treatment before the parts become swollen, which can only be done when Pain Balm is kept at hand. A sore throat may be cured before it becomes serious. A troublesome corn may be removed by applying it twice a day for a week or two. A lame back may be cured and several days of valuable time saved or a pain in the side or chest relieved without paying a doctor bill. Procure a 50 cent bottle at once and you will never regret it. For sale by Blakeley & Houghton Druggists.

Young Housekeeper—Those soles I bought from you were not fresh. Fishman—Well, marm, that be your fault—it bean't mine. I've offered 'em yer every day this week, and you might 'a 'ad 'em days before if you'd 'a liked!—Tib-Bits.

Let it run down, and your cough may end in something serious. It's pretty sure to, if your blood is poor. That is just the time and condition that invites Consumption. The seeds are sown and it has fastened its hold upon you, before you know that it is near.

It won't do to trifle and delay, when the remedy is at hand. Every disorder that can be reached through the blood yields to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. For Severe Coughs, Bronchial, Throat and Lung Diseases, Asthma, Sciola in every form, and even the Scrofulous affection of the lungs that's called Consumption, in all its earlier stages, it is a positive and complete cure. It is the only blood-cleanser, strength-restorer, and flesh-builder so effective that it can be guaranteed. If it doesn't benefit or cure, in every case, you have your money back.

Perfection is attained in Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. It cures the worst cases. Only 50 cents; by druggists.

Tired Tolliver—Better look out about goin' in dere, Fray. You might get in trouble; dat's a young lady's seminary. Frayed Egin (jauntily)—Dat's all right, old feller. I kin take care of meself—an', besides, dis ain't leap year.—Puck.

ANTS AGAINST SNAKE.

Numbers Won in a Long and Exciting Battle.

"While camping in Alabama during the late war," said Col. H. C. Crossman, of Dayton, O., the other day, according to the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, "I witnessed an attack of a band of black ants upon a striped snake. 'One evening while I was trying to go to sleep after a long day's march I felt something move under my head. I lifted one corner of the blanket and found a snake between three and four feet in length. I quickly hit it with a small stick, but the reptile seemed hardly stunned by the blow, so I picked it up on the end of the stick and threw it about fifteen feet away. The snake landed on a large ant hill. Almost instantly the ants poured forth from their nest, which was underneath, and began a vigorous attack upon the intruder, who was soon covered by scores of his assailants, biting him furiously. The battle raged with fury, the snake writhing about in torture.

"The contest at first seemed an unequal one, for the snake was rapidly thinning out his persecutors, but, on the other hand, the ants were very numerous and quick in their aggressive movements. The snake with one blow of his tail would kill or wound a long line of ants, but the active little creatures were soon reinforced by fresh troops and fought with a desperation wonderful to behold. I was astonished beyond measure to see the tactics of the ants. When they saw their numbers were being lessened they dispatched couriers for fresh relays of soldiers, who appeared on the scene in due time to replace the killed or wounded.

"The moon after a time lit up the scene, but as there appeared no near termination of the struggle I gave up watching it, and, stretching myself again on my blanket, went to sleep. Before striking tents the next morning I went to look at the battle ground. The slain insects were scattered in every direction, but there were six or seven watchful ants upon the back of the snake, which lay stretched out dead near the ant hill."

FUN WITH SEA TURTLES.

A School of Them That Covered the Sea for Many Miles.

"I am reminded," said an old coasting captain to a Washington Star man recently, "of an experience I once had with sea turtles on the edge of the gulf stream, about sixty miles from Hatteras. I was part owner and captain of the Mary Lyle at that time, and was coming up from Savannah with a half cargo of rice when one morning the outlook yelled to me to come up on deck and look at the sea turtles. When I got up and looked over the rail the whole ocean as far as I could see ahead of us was covered with turtles. They were tremendous fellows and were paddling along lazily in the opposite direction to that in which we were going.

"It didn't take us long to rig up a windlass and tackle and begin pulling some of the old fellows aboard. We picked the biggest of them and in the course of three hours we had caught twenty-six, about all that we could handle to dispose of about the ship. Only nine of them lived until we reached New York and we sold them for good prices. The shell of one that weighed four hundred and seventy pounds is now in New York. I would hate to say how many turtles were in sight of the Mary Lyle that day for fear somebody might think I was fish-yarning, but they came by us steadily for five hours and when we got well into the school it extended as far as the eye could reach on all sides, and there was a turtle to about every forty square feet of water and I didn't see one that weighed less than one hundred and fifty pounds."

DISLIKED REPORTERS.

Lord Randolph Churchill Would Not Be Interviewed.

The Canadian Gazette confirms the opinion that Lord Randolph Churchill is not enamored of reporters, says the Westminster Gazette. A Montreal journalist who, during his lordship's recent visit there, endeavored to obtain his views on public questions, was answered thus: "If I express my views I shall only annoy you. I don't want to annoy you. I have annoyed enough people." Asked as to how he liked Montreal, his lordship's observations were equipped with the complimentary and the uncomplimentary. But he was pointed in praise of the Windsor and Dominion square. "What does your lordship think of the value of the colonial conference?" asked the reporter. "Nothing. Nobody does. Same as any other political farce. All nonsense," was the reply. "I am afraid you are rather cynical," Lord Randolph said the reporter, and Lord Randolph remarked: "Yes, every sensible man is nowadays." When at Winnipeg on his way to the coast it seems that Lord Randolph Churchill gave local reporters a reception in comparison with which his treatment of Montreal journalists was quite genial. An interviewer who asked his "illustrious subject" if he could have five minutes' conversation was met with the reply: "No, you can't. I never see reporters; it's years since I talked to one; they annoy me very much. Please go away."

A Fish with Gills and Lungs.

The academy of natural science has just come into possession of a rare fish, which can boast of a pair of lungs in addition to the gills with which alone less favored fish are endowed. The necessity of these two sets of breathing apparatus is readily seen when the habits of the animal are known. In Africa, where the fish lives, it inhabits lakes and ponds, which are often completely dried up during the dry season. As long as the water remains the lung fish lives as do the other members of the finny tribe, and breathes by means of his gills; but when the ponds dry up he burrows down into the mud and makes a round nest, where he lives in a semitorpid condition, breathing by means of his lungs, until the rainy season releases him again.
