A Louisiana gentleman was discussing the tariff question with a gentleman from Kentucky. "Sugar," said the Louisiana, "is as much an article of necessity as flour and meat." "A great deal more, my dear fellow," responded the Kentuckian; "without sugar you can't make your whiskey toddy."

There is no medicine so often needed in every home and so admirably adapted to the purposes for which it is intended, as Chamberlain's Pain Balm. Hardly a week passes but some member of the family has need of it. A toothache or headache may be cured by it. A touch of rheumatism, or neuralgia, or a touch of the severe pain of a burn or scald promptly relieved and the sore healed in much less time than when medicine has to be sent for. A sprain may be promptly treated before inflammation sets in, which insures a cure in about one-third of the time otherwise required. Cuts and bruises should receive immediate treatment before the parts become swollen, which can only be done when Pain Balm is kept at hand. A sore throat may be cured before it becomes serious. A troublesome corn may be removed by applying it twice a day for a week or two. A lame back may be cured and several days of valuable time saved or a pain in the side or chest relieved without paying a doctor bill. Procure a 50 cent bottle at once and you will never regret it. For sale by Blakeley & Houghton Druggists.

Little Willie—Did God make me, mamma?

Mamma—Yes, dear.

Little Willie—Well, who asked him to?

Jones—Are you an advanced thinker? Bones—I am. I've got a board bill due tomorrow, and I've been doing advanced thinking about it all day.

Let it run down, and your cough may end in something serious. It's pretty sure to, if your blood is poor. That is just the time and condition that invites Consumption. The seeds are sown and it has fastened its hold upon you, before you know that it is near.

It won't do to trifle and delay, when the remedy is at hand. Every disorder that can be reached through the blood yields to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. For Severe Coughs, Bronchitis, Throat and Lung Diseases, Asthma, Scrofula in every form, and even the Scrofulous affection of the lungs that's called Consumption, in all its earlier stages, it is a positive and complete cure. It is the only blood-cleanser, strength-restorer, and flesh-builder so effective that it can be guaranteed. If it doesn't benefit or cure, in every case, you have your money back.

Perfection is attained in Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. It cures the worst cases. Only 50 cents; by druggists.

Daisy—Doesn't Jack swear he will reform if you marry him.
Della—Yes, that's just the trouble. I'm afraid he'll not be the least fascinating.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure in the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address

HAZARDOUS HAYING.

On Alpine Heights Where Goats and Sheep Fear to Tread.

Bravny Swiss Maids—Compelled to Mow Grass in Masculine Attire—Weird Rocky Region and Flaccid Folk, Who Inspired Schiller.

The hay makers on our western prairies, and for that matter on the hilly and mountainous meadows of America, can form no conception of the hardships that the Alpine wildheuer of Switzerland have to brave in order to gather the winter's provender for their cattle.

Wildheuer, says the Chicago Infer Ocean, is the name given to small peasants—men and women—who climb the rocky peaks of the alps during the months of August and September and gather the wild hay that grows on almost perpendicular, isolated grass plots, over yawning precipices and near threatening glaciers. The reader is reminded of Schiller's graphic description of this fraternity in William Tell. It occurs in the third scene of the fourth act. Gessler, the governor of Switz and Uri, approaches down the sloping Kuessnacht pass with rocks on either side. Before him is a projecting cliff overgrown with brushwood. Armgard, the poor wife of a wildheuer, falls with her children in front of the governor's horse and begs for the release of her husband, who is perishing behind prison bars, and when Rudolph der Haras, the adjutant, asks her: "Who are you, woman, and who is your husband?" he receives the following words in reply:

A poor wild-hay man of the Rigiberg Kind sir, who on the brow of the abyss Mows down the grass from steep and rocky shelves To which the very cattle dare not climb.

Haras, the horseman, is conscience-stricken, and thus intercedes for the petitioner:

By Heaven! A sad and miserable life! I pity thee, give the wretched man his freedom: How great soever his offense may be His horrid trade is punishment enough.

To the woman:

You shall have justice: to the castle bring Your suit: this is no place to deal with it.

And, indeed, no more dangerous occupation can be imagined. The work is laborious and the harvest poor. The mowers and rakers ascend with ropes and Alpine shoes the dizzy steepnesses, where goats and sheep do not venture to graze, much less the larger cattle. The mountaineers here are, of course, never assailed by vertigo and kindred troubles, which must be accounted for by heredity and constant climbing of perilous heights. But for this work only such men and women can be hired who can find no other means whereby to keep the wolf from the door. These are the folks who work during the balance of the year at ridiculously low wages by day in villages and inns, or as wood-choppers and weavers during the winter. Hundreds of householders in this vicinity rely for their whole year's supply of milk, butter and cheese on a single cow, and must make hay on the mountains while the sun shines—during August and September. Every canton in Switzerland has its hay laws which set apart two months during the year for hay gathering and which appoint the very day on which the work may be commenced, besides imposing many other oppressive ordinances and regulations. As soon as the hay day has come these complacent, easily contented, semi-Roman Teutons gather in convivial companies and begin their climbing marches amid the yodling of popular ditties and the singing of religious hymns. All carry alpenstocks, scythes, rakes and ropes and a small knapsack of food and drink, sufficient for several days.

Often places are encountered where the grass is especially rich and luxuriant, but which can only be reached by dangling a mow down over the rocks and thus enabling him to gather a few sackfuls of hay at a time, when another man is let down to finish the plot. It is generally found most expedient to select some accessible spot near the mountain road and then to throw the hay bundles from the various little meadows along the paths. And it is marvelous with what dexterity the rakers have learned to throw their bundles.

Sometimes, however, no such convenient place can be found; then the poor people are compelled to carry their heavy, compact bundles on their shoulders down the steep, dangerous mountain path or to let them down with ropes from one to another somewhat like the water carriers of ancient Egypt.

In the Canton Switz many young women are employed for this work. They are usually robust, bravny young maids, full of courage, every movement betraying power and agility. Necessity compels them to wear masculine attire during these labors. As in the case of the Tyrolean shepherdesses, skirts would prove a great impediment in their work.

A Well Disciplined Man.

Army discipline is supposed to be very strict indeed, and orders must be obeyed swiftly and silently. The best disciplined soldier ever in the Russian army lived in 1777. He was stationed before the door of the palace during a heavy flood, when the empress, seeing from her balcony that the water had reached the sentinel, called to him to retire. This the soldier refused to do; and when the empress asked if he knew who she was, the man replied affirmatively. Although he knew her majesty he would not leave his post until his corporal relieved him. The water increased until it reached the sentinel's knees. The empress sent several messages to him, but he refused to obey her. Finally she was compelled to summon the corporal, who was found asleep, and he was obliged to swim to relieve the honest private, who by that time had only his head above water, and would composedly have suffered himself to be drowned rather than disobey orders while obeying his sovereign.

S. B. MED. MFG. CO., Dufur, Oregon.

Gentlemen: On arriving home last week, I found all well and anxiously awaiting. Our little girl, eight and one-half years old, who had wasted away to 38 pounds, is now well, strong and vigorous, and well fleshed up. S. B. Cough Cure has done its work well. Both of the children like it. Your S. B. Cough Cure has cured and kept away all hoarseness from me. So give it to every one, with greetings for all. Wishing you prosperity, we are Yours, Mr. & Mrs. J. F. Ford.

If you wish to feel fresh and cheerful and ready for the Spring's work, cleanse your system with the Headache and Liver Cure, by taking two or three doses each week. Sold under a positive guarantee. 50 cents per bottle by all druggists.
