STORIES FROM THE SKY.

Historical and Traditional Stories of the Fall of Aerolites.
 Every country and every age has its historical, semi-historical or traditional stories concerning immense stones falling from the sky; or, more properly, from space. Levi tells of a whole shower of aerolites which fell on the mountains near Rome in the year 654 B. C. The Arundel Marbles (marble tables giving the events of the Grecian history from 1583 B. C. to 624 B. C. in chronological order) give an account of a great stone which "fell down from heaven" at Aegostami about the year 467 B. C. Pliny, who died in the year 79 A. D., says that in his time the "great air-stone" mentioned in the foregoing was still to be seen on the Hellespont; "and," he quaintly adds, "it is even now of the bigness of a wagon."

Since the opening of the present century there have been several well attested instances of falls of stone from the regions of space. In the year 1893 a perfect shower of litho-missiles fell in the farming country adjacent to L'Aigle, France, upwards of three thousand separate stones falling upon a wedge-shaped section of country eight miles long by about four miles wide.
 Aerolites, or "meteorites," as they are sometimes called, usually fall singly, sometimes in pairs, and, less frequently, in showers, as was the case at New Concordia, O., in 1860, when nearly two hundred red-hot stones fell in a field in broad daylight.

Up to January 1, 1894, there had been between three hundred and three hundred and fifty recorded instances of stones falling from the unknown regions outside of our atmosphere, and in eight of these the fall was in the shape of "showers," the individual missiles numbering from ten to five thousand, and of all sizes, from that of an orange to immense blocks of strange combinations of minerals weighing hundreds of tons.

GETTING ACCLIMATED.

Jim's Unique Way of Learning to Be a Good Husband.
 Jim is a teamster for a manufacturing establishment in Detroit, and until a week or ten days ago Jim was a bachelor and happy. Then, in a moment of recklessness, he got married. The lady in the case being about ten years older than he and with a temper on her that was simply terrific.

Jim took her to a little house he had rented and settled down to domestic bliss, but somehow it wasn't a success, says the Detroit Free Press. The other evening the policeman who is of that bent, and who has known Jim a long time, noticed him come out and sit on the front steps awhile, then go in and shortly afterward reappear for a few moments, then go in again. He watched this peculiar action for an hour, and the next time Jim appeared he went over to him.
 "What's the matter?" he asked.
 Jim jerked his thumb over his shoulder and smiled a wan sort of a smile.
 The policeman didn't understand.
 "Got married, you know," said Jim.
 "Yes," replied the officer.
 "Only four days ago," said Jim.
 The officer nodded.
 "Well," said Jim, "my wife's got a mighty spiky temper and I'm trying to get used to her on the installment plan."

A WIZARD'S FEAST.

Queer Surprise That Chinese Hosts Perpetrate on Their Guests.
 "I once attended a well Chinese banquet, and was not a little surprised at the way in which some of the delicacies were served," said Walter F. Logan, of Sacramento, Cal., at the L. C. Club recently. "After we had discussed the most substantial portion of the repast and dessert was being served, oranges were placed before each guest, the skins of which had apparently not been broken, yet from which the pulp had in some mysterious manner been removed and four or five different kinds of jelly substituted in its place.
 "The guests expressed a good deal of astonishment as to how such an operation had been accomplished, but their amazement was only increased when a dish of eggs, the shells of which appeared to be perfectly whole, was placed upon the table. Examination showed the contents of the eggs had been removed and the shells filled with nuts and candy.
 "Our host smilingly refused to tell us how such wonderful results had been accomplished, and we left the house completely mystified."

WOMAN'S LIFE IN INDIA.

An Existence Without Wickedness, But Intolerable.
 The position of the native women of Rajputana is singularly deplorable. Penned from their babyhood within the narrow limits of the zenana, they are cut off from all contact with the outer world, with which they communicate only through their slave girls, seeing not only no men but hardly any women, very few ladies of sufficient high rank living within visiting distance of each other. They are quite uneducated, unable to either read or write or work; nothing, therefore, remains to them but their affections, and these are outraged, their husbands professing no love for them and visiting them but occasionally, their children being taken from them at a very early age and placed under the guardianship of men, their mothers being considered unfit, and, alas! truly, to bring them up. It is to be wondered at that such an education, such a violation of every instinct, every need of a human being, should produce creatures singularly depraved?

Great Marchers.

The French soldiers have the tradition of being the best marchers in Europe. The rate of marching laid down in the infantry drill, 1892—that is 120 paces of thirty inches per minute—gives a rate of 3 miles and 720 yards per hour, or, including the five minutes' halt, 3 miles and 230 yards per fifty-five minutes.
