SOME SUGGESTED SUGGESTIONS.

In yesterday's Oregonian two articles appear on its editorial page, side by side, one entitled "The End of the Century," the other "Free Coinage in Mexico." Taken in connection with each other they furnish some queer suggestions. In one it is stated that the United States carries $624,000,000 silver. In the other is the statement that in 100 years the United States will have a population of 400,000,000, and this latter statement is said to have been made by "a master of statistics." If this is true we shall have to increase our population at the rate of 3,300,000 a year. Now if this statement is correct, to maintain the present amount of silver per capita in circulation (about $10 each) would require an addition of $33,000,000 every year, or enough to practically consume all our product. It is conceded that the country can easily maintain the parity between gold and silver at the present per capita circulation, then it logically follows that we can absorb $33,000,000 of silver yearly by the increase of population alone.

It may be argued that the production of foreign countries will swamp us, but if this "master of statistics" is correct, there is no danger from that source, but instead an actual measure of relief, for by his estimates Russia, which now has a population of 100,000,000, will have 340,000,000; all Europe will have grown from 350,000,000 to 780,000,000; North and South America will have grown from 125,000,000 to 685,000,000; Africa will have added 100,000,000 whites to her population; Australia 25,000,000 more, while Asia will add 200,000,000 to the 800,000,000 she already has. There will be an actual gain in the population of the world in one hundred years of 1,300,000,000. These people must have money, and if they cannot have silver what will they use? There is not gold enough produced for money purposes, and, indeed, instead of being afraid of silver becoming too plentiful, the danger will be in it not being sufficient.

One thing is sure, if the master of statistics is right, and that is that silver will have to be recognized as a money metal by all the world, or a big percentage of the 1,300,000,000 extra fellows who are going to be around one hundred years from now will be not only demanding a currency based on skim-milk and salt codfish, but they will have it. The population of the world, the civilized portion at least, is increasing faster than the products of the mines, both gold and silver, can supply it with the amount of money at present in circulation per capita.

THE BATTLE IS OVER.

Today the battle has been fought and is over, tomorrow the result will be known. That it will show tremendous republican gains, is certain, and that those gains will be large enough to give the party control of the house is probable. This last is really the object of the battle, not only is each party fighting for the majority of the house, but the majority of it by states. On this majority the election of the next president may fall. The populist strength, if sufficient to throw the presidential election in the house which is always possible, makes this majority of states; a glittering prize for either party. This is what brought Tom Reed from Maine and sent McKinley like a meteor through more than a dozen states. The election today has settled that point. Republican gains are conceded by everybody but unless the results show a republican majority by states, it can scarcely be heralded as a great victory.

What the results are will be pretty definitely known by tomorrow night and until that time speculation is useless. The fight in the Eastern states has been a battle royal, and that in New York has probably never been equaled in enthusiasm and party spirit since the famous log cabin campaign.

Judge Bronaugh writes to the Oregonian concerning an article in the New York Christian Advocate, which attacks the authenticity of the book of Daniel. The judge pertinently asks whether is the Methodist church drifting? As Judge Bronaugh has fixed the latter end of the world as due to arrive in about five years, and as all his calculations are based on Revelations, his query concerning this unwarranted attack on that particular book of the Bible becomes not only pertinent but really pathetic. If the judges predictions are correct, the end will have arrived, however, before the church can drift far, if it drifts at all.

The Baltimore Herald has a pretty story about the origin of the American Beauty rose. According to its tale, the rose came from a slip from the royal conservatories of Prussia, given to Hon. George Bancroft. The flower probably got its color through a mistake. Thinking it belonged to Hubert Howe Bancroft, it blushed to think what a magnificent liar its owner was.

THE BACILLI OF SMALLPOX.

Valuable Experiments by a Bacteriologist—Death Stops His Search.

The bacteriologists at the congress of American physicians and surgeons exchanged some surprising experiences, says a Washington letter to St. Louis Globe-Democrat. Dr. Harold C. Ernst, of Boston, however, contributed the most wonderful of all the stories of germs and cultures. Dr. Ernst told how the late Dr. S. C. Martin entered his laboratory to make a study of the germs of smallpox. Dr. Martin's father was the man who introduced the manufacture of cowpox into this country. He maintained this industry for many years and then turned it over to his son. The latter continued the production of virus for vaccination purposes, but desiring to learn more about the disease for which he was manufacturing the preventive, he came to Dr. Ernst's laboratory and entered upon a series of experiments. This work he continued until his fatal illness. On his death bed, just previous to a surgical operation, he committed to Dr. Ernst an account of his discoveries. This story Dr. Ernst told to the bacteriologists. Accustomed as they were to having their credulity taxed by the revelations in their peculiar field of research, these gentlemen could hardly believe in the results of Dr. Martin's work.

Dr. Martin began his investigation by collecting from smallpox patients a large number and variety of bacteria. He bred from these bacteria. Or, in the language of bacteriology, he got cultures. With these cultures he inoculated the calves and the calves produced cowpox. From this cowpox he took virus and vaccinated children. The matter "took" with all the vigor of the best virus. The operation was repeated until Dr. Martin was sure he had found the bacteria which causes smallpox. He described it to Dr. Ernst as "a short, fine bacillus with rounded ends."

Obtaining the bacteria from people with smallpox, Dr. Martin reproduced them through no fewer than fourteen generations of cultures. He dipped points in the tube containing the fourteenth culture and gave them to Dr. Williams. The latter vaccinated with these points and got perfect vaccination results in one or two cases. Dr. Martin himself did not carry his experiments far enough to establish this from his own observation. He tried ten cases of vaccination direct from culture tubes but none of them "took." But he inoculated many calves direct from his culture tubes and produced cowpox. In fact, Dr. Ernst said much of the virus sent from the Martin establishment for two years was produced upon the calves by inoculations from the culture tubes.

Before he died Dr. Martin was sure he had found the bacillus of smallpox. He felt that it only remained to be shown how the germ could be produced by culture so as to vaccinate without the intermediate production of cowpox. He had propagated the germ through generation after generation, but something more was necessary, he felt, to make it available for practical vaccination without going through the calf.

An Old Song.
 When giants lived in ancient times,
 Sing heigh, my boy, sing ho!
 In good old England, or foreign clime,
 Sing heigh, my boy, sing ho!
 They carried things with a high old hand,
 Not strong, nor weak, could before them stand,
 And they killed whom they pleased throughout the land,
 Sing heigh, my boy, sing ho!

But the giants didn't have things their own way when Jack-the-Giant-killer arrived on the scene. You remember the story. Recollect, too, that every age has its giant-killer. We have our giants in the form of all sorts of dread diseases, supposed to be incurable. Our Jack is in the form of Dr. Pierce, who has proven the expression "incurable diseases" to be a fallacy. Can you imagine more potent weapons to assist a woman in killing the giant-disease, than Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription? It's the only guaranteed remedy for all functional disturbances, painful disorders, and chronic weakness of womanhood. In female complaints of every kind, if it fails to benefit or cure, you have your money back. It's simply a question of the company you prefer—the Giant or Jack!

Notice.
 A resolution was adopted by the water commission on October 31st, providing that from and after January 1, 1895, water rent will be collected from the owners of buildings instead of tenants. This includes all occupancies, stores residences, wash-houses, shops, etc.

 A corps of women militia is the latest step in the emancipation of England. The ladies expect to fill all the war-office conditions of efficiency and promise to be ready to take the field should war break out.

The success that has attended the use of Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Lining in the relief of pain and in curing diseases which seemed beyond the reach of medicine, has been truly remarkable. Hundreds supposed to be crippled for life with arms and legs drawn up crooked or distorted, their muscles withered or contracted by disease have been cured through the use of this remedy. Price 25c, 50 and $1.00 per bottle. For sale by the Snipee-Kineraly Drug Co.

Miss Richgirl—Really, pa, it is cruel to ask George to wait until spring. He says if our marriage is postponed he'll die. Old Gentleman—Oh, well, I'll lend him enough to pay his board.—New York Weekly.

Attention

In time to any irregularity of the Stomach, Liver, or Bowels may prevent serious consequences. Indigestion, costiveness, headache, nausea, sea, biliousness, and vertigo indicate certain functional derangements, the best remedy for which is Ayer's Pills. Purely vegetable, sugar-coated, easy to take and quick to assimilate, this is the ideal family medicine—the most popular, safe, and useful aperient in pharmacy. Mrs. M. A. BROCKWELL, Harris, Tenn., says: "Ayer's Cathartic Pills cured me of sick headache and my husband of neuralgia. We think there is No Better Medicine, and have induced many to use it. "Thirty-five years ago this Spring, I was run down by hard work and a succession of colds, which made me so feeble that it was an effort for me to walk. I consulted the doctors, but kept sinking lower until I had given up all hope of ever being better. Happening to be in a store, one day, where medicines were sold, the proprietor noticed my weak and sickly appearance, and, after a few questions as to my health, recommended me to try Ayer's Pills. I had little faith in these or any other medicine, but concluded, at last, to take his advice and try a box. Before I had used them all, I was very much better, and two boxes cured me. I am now 80 years old; but I believe that if it had not been for Ayer's Pills, I should have been in my grave long ago. I buy 6 boxes every year, which make 216 boxes up to this time, and I would no more be without them than without bread."—H. H. Ingraham, Rockland, Me.
