BRIEF MENTION.

Leaves From the Notebook of Chronicle Reporters.

The local from Portland did not arrive today until after 3 o'clock.

Don't forget Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde at the opera house this evening.

One hundred and forty-three persons drew premiums at the recent fair.

Don't forget the bubble and pumpkin social tonight in Pease & Mays' high water building.

N. Harris' window contains a handsome display of ladies' hats, and his store is filled with elegant goods just received.

Parties who drew premiums at the fair, are requested to call at The Dalles National bank (Moody's) and get their money.

G company of the Third has moved its quarters, now occupying the room over The Dalles Lumbering company's office, on the corner of Washington and First streets.

Complete returns of the election will be received at the Umatilla House, commencing this evening and continuing until the returns are all in and the election decided.

The cannery is rapidly approaching completion. Now if the sound of the hammer and saw can be heard on a building intended for a scouring mill, it will be in order.

Potatoes are arriving in large quantities, most of them having been purchased by Mr. F. L. Houghton, who is storing them in the cellar under The Dalles Lumbering Co.'s office.

In Justice Davis' court yesterday the suit of J. H. Matthews against George Williams, to recover $20 alleged to be due on a contract, was up for trial. A jury of six was secured, and then the case was postponed until tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

The fair given by the German Ladies' Aid Society was a decided success, the attendance being large, and the articles sold bringing a good price. The members of the society therefore desire to return their thanks to their friends and patrons for making the affair so decided a success.

At the hour of going to press no news was received from the political battlefields. By 7 o'clock which would be 9 in Chicago and 10 in New York some official returns should begin to come in, showing a partial count in the precincts, but enough in which to begin to hang conclusions as to the result. The bulletin board at the Umatilla will no doubt attract a big crowd.

Mr. Frank Fleming of Bake Oven lost his house by fire last week. He made a fire in the kitchen stove in the morning and went to another part of the house.
On returning he found the whole kitchen ablaze, and the fire under such progress it was beyond his control. The house was a story and a half, and with contents was valued at from $1,200 to $1,500.
It was insured for a small sum.

The Orchestra Union will give a concert Tuesday night at the opera house, assisted by Signor and Madam Ferrari, the celebrated vocalists. The action of the union in getting these talented people here is highly commendable, and the public should show its appreciation by a generous support. The way to get first class entertainments is to patronize those that are known to be good.
Lovers of music have a treat before them next Tuesday, and no doubt the house will be crowded.

A Sad Experience.

It was during the progress of the picnic in Jurnigan's grove by the Methodist Sabbath school in Hawville, Okala-homa.

Alkali Ike, who sings bass in the choir, and Miss Lillie Ousack, the soprano, had wandered a short distance from the scene of the festivities and seated themselves on a moss-covered log, which lay at the foot of a tall tree.

The gallant's arm had strayed around the maiden's slender waist and lingered there, apparently to the profound satisfaction of both persons, and Isaac had asked, for the sixteenth time:

"Does oo love me Lillie?"
"Course I do!" replied the maid, snuggling closer to him. "I love gooder than any—Oh, mercy, I do believe there is some kind of horrid animal up in this tree!"

"We'll soon see," remarked Ike, grimly, at the same time drawing his revolver and firing a few shots into the foliage above. "I'll stir the varmint up a little, anyhow."

At that instant a reproachful voice was heard proceeding from the canopy of leaves above their heads:

"How long, oh Lord? How long?"
"What the dev— That is, who are you?" demanded Ike.

"All that remains of Hercules P.
Smith," was the reply. "I was swimming before the picknickers came, and a cow ate up the most of my clothes before I noticed her. I chased her through a blackberry tangle and then a stray dog, that appeared to be mad, chased me back again. Then the coming of the Sabbath school drove me up this tree, and here I have been ever since, with a hornets' nest on one bough and a snake on another. And now you are trying to finish the job by assassinating me."

"Why didn't you come come down before?"
"Well, you see, I happen to be engaged to Miss Ousack, whom you are hugging."

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

From our regular correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2, 1894.

The key to Mr. Cleveland's rather queer actions has, thanks to the wagging tongue of a Cleveland worshipper, been found. Instead of his being engaged in going through a period of old-fashioned sulks with his party, he actually thinks himself to be playing a deep political game that will result in making his own the only name that will be seriously mentioned for the democratic nomination in '96. He believed for a long time before the adjournment of congress that democratic defeat was probable this year, and after adjournment and the summing up of the blunders made by his party he became certain that the republicans would control the next house, but it was not until his most hated personal enemy, Senator Hill, was nominated for governor of New York that he fully made up his mind that neither himself nor any member of his cabinet would take any part in the campaign. It was then also that the possibilities of the game which had been floating through his mind for some time began to look to him like probabilities. His idea is that the democratic defeat will impress it on the democratic party that it is only when Grover Cleveland is interested or is a candidate that it can win. His game is in short a revival of the "man of destiny" racket.
He will point out that it was the failure of the democrats in congress to follow his advice that made the party unpopular, ignoring the fact that following of his advice on the tariff question would have made it still more unpopular, and will bend all his energies for the rest of his term to posing as the only democrat who will have even a fighting chance to win two years hence, not forgetting to work the patronage at his disposal in the interest of the Cleveland party. All of which is decidedly amusing to republicans.

Chairman Babcock, of the republican congressional campaign committee, returned to Washington this week from a ten days' stay in Wisconsin. When asked whether he cared to revise his estimate made more than two weeks ago, that the republicans would elect 190 members of the next house, he said: "I can see no reason to change my statement in one particular, with this possible exception: The latest returns show that districts that were considered as hopelessly democratic when I left Washington are now felt to be probably republican, and districts where we felt we felt we had a fighting chance are now almost certain republican. There has been no diminution in the trend towards our success, and the republican wave, instead of receding, is growing higher every day." Speaking of the claim of Senator Faulkner, chairman of the democratic campaign committee, that the democrats would carry Wisconsin, Mr.
Babcock said: "It is a novelty to come away from home to get news from there.
That is news indeed, that the democrats are going to carry the state ticket and a majority of the congressional delegation.
If Mr. Faulkner's information on general matters is no better than that from Wisconsin, upon which he based his claim, then his campaign must indeed be wholly hopeless. If I were not certain that this claim is a great bluff, I should think it a huge joke, directed at me. I cannot understand how Mr.
Faulkner should have been so badly misled in his estimate about the ticket.

There is no confidence among the democrats of the state, and even the chairman of the democratic state committee, Boss Wall, who owns the democratic party of Wisconsin, has practically given up the fight. Just before I left I heard that the best he could do towards keeping up a bold front was to offer to bet $1,000 that the republican state ticket would not be elected by more than 20-000 majority. It is certain that we shall elect more than a majority of the congressmen." CAS.

Jurors for the Term.

The following is the list of jurymen summoned for the term of the district court which meets Monday. Three or four persons, who are not yet served with summons, are not named in the list: P G Barnett, Frederick Kemp, Bernard Warren, J W Ingalls, Robert Rand, Geo P Crowell, T E Wickens, John A Wilson, M P Isenberg, Hood River; Alex McLeod, Lafayette Davis, M K McLeod, Kingsley; C E Hill, John Bonn, John Cates, W J Harriman, M Doyle, James M Benson, The Dalles; F C Clausen, Nansene; J W Zumwalt, J R Woodcock, Wanic; Peter Frame, E P Ash, Cascade Locks; A D Bolton, Boyd; W T McClure, Mosier; O L Morris, Wapinitia.

Putting Them in Stout.

The Winans' Bros. are hauling an immense amount of timber to their wheels across the river, or rather to where the wheels were, for the purpose of rebuilding them. From the size of the timbers we judge the boys are determined to put the wheels in this time so they will stay. They have certainly had experience enough with the high water, to know what the Columbia can do, and just what they have to contend with. Knowing the Winans boys we will make a small wager that no more wheels will be carried away by high water, unless it is higher than June 6, 1894, and that was pretty good for high.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mrs. Flint Bradford of White Salmon arrived from Astoria yesterday.

Mrs. F. H. Button and family returned to Hood River from California last week, Mr. Button having returned some time ago. After a year or two of California they are all glad to get back to Oregon.

BORN.

At Independence, Or., Monday, Nov.
5th, to the wife of E. C. Pentland, a daughter.

Henry Wilson, the postmaster at Welshton, Florida, says he cured a case of diarrhoea of long standing in six hours with one small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.
What a pleasant surprise that must have been to the sufferer. Such cures are not unusual with this remedy. In many instances only one or two doses are required to give permanent relief. It can always be depended upon. When reduced with water it is pleasant to take.
