"What a world of insincerity this is!" exclaimed Penniquick. "When I stopped that runaway horse all the papers said I deserved great credit. And here I've been in no less than twenty places trying to work my face for a drink!"—Boston Transcript.

THE WEAKEST SPOT in your whole system, perhaps, is the liver. If that doesn't do its work of purifying the blood, more troubles come from it than you can remember.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery acts upon this weakest spot as nothing else can. It rouses it up to healthy, natural action. By thoroughly purifying the blood, it reaches, builds up, and invigorates every part of the system.

For all diseases that depend on the liver or the blood—Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Biliousness; every form of Scrofula, even Consumption (or Lung-scrofula) in its earlier stages; and the most stubborn Skin and Scalp Diseases, the "Discovery" is the only remedy so unfailing and effective that it can be guaranteed.

If it doesn't benefit or cure, you have your money back. On these terms, it's an insult to your intelligence to have something else offered as "just as good."

Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy by its mild, soothing, cleansing and healing properties, perfectly and permanently cures Catarrh in the Head.

Binkerton—How does Badstock come to get so many invitations to evening parties? Pilgarcie—Well, you know a man who can stimulate the flow of conversation is always a welcome guest. Binkerton—But Badstock is no talker. Pilgarcie—He doesn't talk much himself—he sings.—Puck.

Strength and Health. If you are not feeling strong and healthy, try Electric Bitters. If "la grippe" has left you weak and weary, use Electric Bitters. This remedy acts directly on liver, stomach and kidneys, gently aiding those organs to perform their functions. If you are afflicted with sick headache, you will find speedy and permanent relief by taking Electric Bitters. One trial will convince you that this is the remedy you need. Large bottles only 50c. at Snipes & Kinerly's drug store.

"That cat made an awful noise in the back garden last night." "Yes, father. I suppose that since he ate the canary he thinks he can sing."—London Tid-Bits.

The success that has attended the use of Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Liniment in the relief of pain and in curing diseases which seemed beyond the reach of medicine, has been truly remarkable. Hundreds supposed to be crippled for life with arms and legs drawn up crooked or distorted, their muscles withered or contracted by disease have been cured through the use of this remedy. Price 25c, 50c and $1.00 per bottle. For sale by the Snipes-Kinerly Drug Co.

Mrs. Dabblers—What do you think of my cake, dear? Mr. Dabblers—It just strikes me. Mrs. Dabblers—of course; it's a pound-cake, dear.—Inter Ocean.

For a pain in the side or chest there is nothing so good as a piece of flannel dampened with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and bound on over the seat of pain. It affords prompt and permanent relief and if used in time will often prevent a cold from resulting in pneumonia. This same treatment is a sure cure for lame back. WHY PEOPLE WORSHIP GOLD.

'Tis a Relic of Barbarism and Has No Basis in Actual Value.
Men are accustomed to regard gold as the epitome of wealth; to associate it with ease and luxury; to consider it the apotheosis of security and power, says William Penn, Jr., in Blue and Gray. This is merely a relic of barbaric ages, when monetary science was unknown and bits of the rare metals, coined or uncoined, were the particular possessions of kings and conquerors. This popular ascription of inherent value to the yellow metal, this silly notion that it by some means possesses a regal right to rule the commerce of the world, is so ingrained in human nature that most men recoil in dismay when it is suggested that its use as money may be entirely discontinued. While silver shared the throne with gold it, too, was held in as much and sometimes in greater reverence; but when, in 1873, concerted action condemned the white metal to take its place with corn and cotton and all the other subjects of the golden king, the power of gold was doubled and made absolute. Too many who regard gold as a ruler by inherent right forgot that, during the long struggle for supremacy, silver was more than once within an ace of degrading her rival to the ranks, but at the end the gold power triumphed. Had the result been reversed the advocates of "honest" money might now be filled with horror at the thought of "fifty-cent dollars" of gold instead of silver.

People who are influenced by this ancient form of gold idolatry would do well to consider that it is a god of their own creation, whose power may and should be cut off whenever it becomes oppressive.

The Pope as a Mountaineer.
The present pope in his younger days was an ardent Alpine climber. A monument is now being erected at Pietrasantina, in the extreme corner of the Parthenian district, as a reminder of his exploits as a mountain tourist. In 1844 Gioachino Pecci was at this place to meet a fellow prelate. The ruins of the robber castle, that of the prince of Storno, which, according to the traditions of time and place, no man had ascended for many decades, aroused the ambition of Bishop Pecci. For the sum of twenty paoli he secured the loan of a shepherd's suit, and, rigged out in this style, he managed to reach what seemed to be an inaccessible height of two hundred and fifty meters. Pecci was at that time an apostolic legate. The monument commemorates the anniversary of these exploits.

The Heart of an Admiral.
A silver box was recently found at Aubonne, in Switzerland, containing the heart of Abraham Duquesne, the great admiral of Louis XIV., after whom the first settlement at Pittsburgh was named, and who was the only Protestant allowed to remain unmolested in France after the revocation of the edict of Nantes. His sons, who were banished, had placed the heart in the church of Aubonne, from which it is to be sent soon to Dieppe, Duquesne's birthplace.

W. A. McGuire, a well known citizen of McKay, Ohio, is of the opinion that there is nothing as good as children troubled with colds or croup as Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. He has used it in his family for several years with the best results and always kept a bottle of it in the house. After having la grippe he was himself troubled with a severe cough. He used other remedies without benefit and then concluded to try the children's medicine and to his delight it soon effected a permanent cure. 50 cent bottles for sale by Blakeley & Houghton Druggists.

Notice of Proposed Street Improvement.
By order of the Council of Dalles City, notice is hereby given that the portion of the east side of Union street, commencing on the south line of Fourth street, Dalles City, and extending southerly to where the north line of the alley which forms the north line of the public school grounds intersects said street, said public school grounds being situated on both sides of Union street between said alley and the bluff, shall be improved by the construction of a plank sidewalk eight feet in width along the east side of said street.

Dated this 20th day of October, 1894.

A ROYAL DEADBEAT.

How King Milan Filled His Depleted Purse by Shady Methods.
One hundred and sixty thousand dollars per annum is the income conceded to ex-King Milan of Serbia, by his son and by the national treasury in consideration of his quitting the country and betaking himself once more to Paris or some other distant capital. It is now some months since he left the French metropolis to all intents and purposes penniless, numerous judgments out against him and a quantity of so-called debts of honor unpaid. His credit was exhausted and he was, financially speaking, on his beam ends. It may be remembered, says a writer in the Philadelphia Press, that when he first abdicated he stipulated for a large annuity, which was granted to him. On two occasions subsequently he obtained large lump sums from the Serbian army to defray pressing debts. Then he commuted his annuity for a third lump sum of large dimensions, sold his office and dignities in Serbia for a fourth sum, his Serbian citizenship for a fifth and finally obtained from the czar a gift of two million rubles in return for a solemn understanding never under any circumstances to return to Serbia. It was not very long before he had squandered all his money at the card table, upon the turf and in the demi-monde.

Finding himself without resources, he effected a reconciliation with his wife in the hope of inducing her to come to his assistance, she being very rich, Queen Natalie, however, knows her husband too well and declined to do anything whatever for him until he had eaten humble pie by himself demanding the annulment of that divorce which he had taken so much trouble to obtain, and even then she refused to give him any of her own money, but merely offered to use her influence with her son to grant him a new allowance. Seeing that young Alexander was somewhat slow about complying with the request, and his position at Paris without either money or credit being absolutely untenable, he, in defiance of all the promises which he had made alike to the czar, to the Austrian government and that of Serbia, returned to Belgrade, where his presence brought about a couple of ministerial crises and led to no end of difficulty. And he has refused to budge from there until his financial exigencies are complied with.

I suppose that unless the tired Servians depute some one to put him out of the way by means of knife, pistol or poison, we shall in course of time see him once more going through the same process. That is to say, he will commute his present income for a lump sum, squander it and then return to Belgrade and upset one or two more ministries, disturbing things generally until again bought off.

KEPT AHEAD OF THE TRAIN.
A Moose Able to Travel at the Rate of Forty Miles an Hour.
The morning express on the Bangor & Aroostook from Houlton had a race with a moose one morning recently, says the Boston Herald. Between Island Falls and Crystal, about thirty miles out of Houlton, the engineer saw a huge moose on the track, watching the approaching train and evidently undetermined whether to derail it or jump off and let it go about its business. The engineer blew a succession of sharp blasts with the whistle, and this the moose evidently took for the word to go for a race between himself and the train. At any rate, he turned, and with the train not more than a dozen rods from him, he started down the track. The train was moving at the rate of forty miles an hour, but the moose flew like the wind and kept his distance. The passengers heard the warning blast of the whistle, and knew that something was on the track, but not until the train reached Crystal station did they learn that they had been racing with a moose.

For a quarter of a mile the big animal kept up the almost incredible pace necessary to keep ahead of the train, and then, as if satisfied that he had convinced his competitor that there wasn't anything in the steam engine line that was coming into Aroostook could outdo him in a sprinting match, he left the track and plunged into the woods without so much as looking behind him.

THEY ARE MEN AT TEN.
The Boys Have But a Short Childhood in Corea.
In Corea the boys are called men as soon as they reach the age of ten. They receive their final names at that age, and assume the garments of full-grown men, all except the horsehair hat, which they cannot put on until they have passed through a period of probation. Permission to wear the horsehair hat is the final act of transforming the small boy into a real, sure-enough man—though he doesn't look it.

Such a short childhood may, at first thought, possess a charm for boys in our colder climate. But it will be quickly understood that making boys into men as soon as they are old enough to feel that they would like to be men is not a wise idea. The Coreans, although possessing a certain degree of a queer kind of civilization, are not a people to be patterned after. In Corea, if a young man's parents are not rich, he can never hope to become so by his own efforts. And, if he is not a member of a noble family, he can never hope to reach an exalted position. As for courage, the Coreans have never shown much of that. The Corean men are not in themselves a good argument for a brief childhood.

Frogs Are Wonderful.
The toad is a higher animal than the frog, because it gives birth to little air-breathing toads, whereas the frog lays eggs that produce fish-like tadpoles. But the frog in certain respects is the most wonderful creature in the world. Think of a vegetable-eating fish with gills that turns into an air-breathing land animal, developing teeth and becoming a carnivorous quadruped. That is the life history of the frog.

BABY WAS WELL BAPTIZED.

Stolen for the Purpose by Pious But Pilfering Guatemala Domestic.
A San Franciscan, traveling through Central America with his wife and young babe, rented furnished apartments in Guatemala and engaged a servant to act as nurse and general housemaid, says the San Francisco Argonaut. She had been in their service less than a week when she inquired of the father if the babe was baptized. He replied in the negative, whereupon she insisted that the child, a girl, would be forever lost. Within six weeks he had tried four consecutive servants, but found that each one would pilfer small articles, and finally determined to get along without any help. One afternoon, while sauntering lazily through the plaza, he was accosted by servant No. 1, who asked if the babe was yet baptized. "No," replied the father. "Still unbaptized." "Well," she answered, "it is all right, as I stole her away one Sunday, and the good padre baptized her, calling her Maria, so her soul will be saved." "As it cannot hurt her, and may help her, I am satisfied," thought the parent, and so dismissed the subject from his mind. The next day servant No. 2, with a new charge bundled in the linen swath on her back, approached him at the market place with the oft-repeated query: "Did you have the baby baptized?" and to his reply of "No" she consoled him by explaining that she had taken the little one to the cathedral and had it named Catarina, so her soul was saved a second time. Somewhat amused, the father hunted up and interviewed the succeeding servants, and discovered that the babe had been stolen to the church by each of them and quietly baptized. Consequently the name ran Maria Catarina Margarita Cruz Eloisa Refugio, besides that of Emily given by the parents.

LONG MATRIMONIAL CAREER.
A Couple in Hungary Celebrate Their Hundredth Anniversary.
We have all heard of tin weddings, celebrated after ten years of marriage; of crystal weddings, after fifteen years; of china weddings, after twenty; of silver weddings, after twenty-five; of gold, after fifty, and of diamond, after seventy-five, or, as some folks celebrate it, after sixty years, says the Philadelphia Press. But the scale of celebration does not seem to extend any further, and one wonders what precious thing would be selected to give its name to a wedding recently celebrated in Hungary—the one hundredth anniversary of the marriage of Szarthary and his wife.

This appears to be a circumstance which is entirely impossible. But the marriage of this aged pair is duly and officially recorded as having taken place in May, 1794, at which time, according to the record, they were of marriageable age. As in Hungary, at that time, a bridegroom must have reached the age of twenty and the bride that of fifteen, the pair must now be at least one hundred and twenty and one hundred and fifteen years respectively.

The one hundredth anniversary was celebrated at the town of Zsomboyl in the town of Banat, which has for a long time allowed the venerable couple a pension in recognition of their great age and fidelity to each other.

Even the oldest residents of Zsomboyl have no other recollection of Jean Szarthary and his wife than as old people. No one relation of either survives. Their century of wedded life is so well and officially attested that many notables and Hungarian officials attended the anniversary celebration and gave them many presents.

SAVING TIMBER IN MISSISSIPPI.
Stringent State Laws for the Preservation of Forests from Extinction.
Timber depredations, according to the New York Evening Post, have been stopped practically in Mississippi by a law which punishes offenders severely. There are large areas of forest land there belonging either to the United States government or to the state, and the temptation to settlers in remote regions to enter upon them and help themselves to wood was often too strong to be resisted. When driven from federal land by deputy United States marshals, the timber thieves found refuge in the state forests, which were not so well policed, and by moving from the one territory to the other they contrived to escape arrest. The federal officers finally became so vigilant that timber stealing proved a dangerous business, and the thieves transferred all their operations to the state lands. The legislature thereupon passed the law referred to, and it has improved the morals of the people so much that some districts which formerly were the scene of wholesale depredations are now almost free from the raids of poaching woodmen. The statute imposes a fine of two dollars per acre for each acre in every forty-acre sub-division of land upon which any trespass is committed. For the protection of private owners it also provides that for every tree cut down without their consent a fine of five dollars shall be paid.

Odd Phase of Sunstroke.
"A peculiar phase of sunstroke," said one of Philadelphia's most eminent physicians the other day, according to the Record, "is that a subject does not succumb to the attack until some hours after it occurs. The only explanation that medical science can give is that a sunstroke consists in a disintegration of the blood corpuscles, and considerable time elapses before the disintegrated blood reaches the nerve center in the brain which acts as a governor on the heat system of the body. The flow of the blood finally paralyzes the heat centers, and the heat runs riot, raising the temperature of the body to a fearful height within a few minutes. As an instance of heat prostration the doctor cited the statistics of the British army in India, where the great majority of sunstrokes take effect between seven and nine o'clock in the evening."

SUMMONS.
In the Circuit Court of the State of Oregon for Wasco County.
Joseph May, plaintiff, vs. J. T. Dolk, Sarah E. Dolk, and H. Fleckenstein and S. Julius Mayer, partners doing business under the firm name of Fleckenstein & Mayer, defendants.
To J. T. Dolk and Sarah E. Dolk, of the defendants above named: In the name of the State of Oregon, you and each of you are hereby required to appear and answer the complaint filed against you in the above entitled suit on or before Monday, the 11th day of February, 1895, that being the first day of the next regular term of said Circuit Court following the expiration of the time prescribed in the order heretofore made for the publication of said summons; and if you or either of you fail so to appear and answer said complaint, judgment for want thereof will be taken against you, and the plaintiff will apply to the Court for the relief prayed for in his said bill of complaint, to-wit: For a decree ordering a foreclosure of the mortgage of plaintiff, described and mentioned in said complaint, and for the premises mentioned therein, to-wit: fractional block 13, in Hood River proper, in Wasco county, Oregon, be sold in the manner provided by law; that from the proceeds of such sale the plaintiff have and recover the sum of $700.00, and interest thereon at the rate of ten per cent per annum since the 4th day of January, 1893; and the further sum of $100.00 reasonable attorney's fees, together with the costs and disbursements of this suit, including advertising and accruing costs and expenses of sale; that upon such foreclosure and sale all of the right, title and interest of the defendants, or of any or either of them, and of any or all persons, claiming or to claim through, by or under them, or any of them, be foreclosed and forever barred of the equity of redemption; that plaintiff be allowed to bid for and to purchase said premises at his option; that the purchaser thereof have the immediate possession of the same; that plaintiff have judgment against the said J. T. Dolk and Sarah E. Dolk for any sum that may remain unpaid on said note after the foreclosure and sale of said premises; and for such further and other relief as to the court may seem to be just and equitable.

The service of this summons is made upon you by publication thereof in The Dalles Chronicle, a newspaper of general circulation, published weekly at Dalles City, Wasco county, Oregon, by order of Hon. W. L. Bradshaw, judge of the said court; which order was duly made at chambers in Dalles City, Oregon, on the 6th day of November, 1894.
