BRIEF MENTION.

Leaves From the Notebook of Chronicle Reporters.

The grand jury had not brought in any true bills today up to the time we went to press.

Two hundred boxes of Hood River apples at J. B. Crossens, free from worms, and perfect.

Don't forget the concert this evening. Doors open at 7:30; performance commences at 8:30.

The funeral of the late Ann E. Craig will take place from the Catholic church tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Mr. S. L. Brooks and some others have been thinning out their shade trees by cutting every other one along the side walks.

President Chapman of the Eugene University will attend the teachers' institute next month and will deliver a lecture the evening of the 13th. He is said to be one of the best speakers in the state and will, no doubt, furnish the audience something worth hearing.

The Pease & Mays high water building is approaching its new location slowly. At noon today it had been turned around at the corner of Fourth and Laughlin streets, and was headed towards the river. By tomorrow night it will be in place.

The Oregon Railway and Navigation Co will make a rate on potatoes of 60 cents per 100 lbs from Hood River and points east of it to Council Bluffs, Omaha, Kansas City and all points on the Union Pacific in Kansas and Nebraska. This rate will be in effect from about Nov. 16th to Dec. 31st.

Mr. Tate Roberts, cousin of C. G. Roberts, visited Hood River recently and became so infatuated with it that he purchased a fruit farm, and has gone back to Scotland to induce several of his relatives to come out. As he is a man of means, and has the Scotch thrift, he will prove a valuable factor in developing that section.

A party of gentlemen were discussing the political situation, last night at the Umatilla House, the subject being the selection of a presidential candidate by the democrats. They all finally came to the conclusion that there were no democratic candidates, when M. P. Isenberg, who had been an interested listener, remarked, "What's the matter with John Doe?"

Joe Thomas and James Cotney, Indians, were arraigned at 1:30 this afternoon, having been indicted on two charges, one for stealing pants from Honywill's and a watch and some money from Farley & Frank's store. The Indians pleaded guilty to the indictment charging them with stealing the pants, and on motion of the district attorney the other indictment was dismissed. They will receive their sentence Friday.

Fell in the Well.

Out at Mr. Steel's place the other side of 3-Mile, one day last week, a horse fell in the well. The well was fifty feet deep and had about two feet of water in it. As soon as possible arrangements were made for getting the animal out, as wells are scarce and cost money. A block and tackle was procured and swung in a frame erected for the purpose, and then one of the men went down and took a turn around the horse's body with a rope. On coming out he reported the horse as still alive. A pair of horses were hitched to the rope in the block, and the animal was hauled about half way to the surface when the rope broke and he fell to the bottom again. A second hitch was taken on him and this time he was brought out without a mishap.

When the ropes were taken off him he got up, gave himself a shake and walked over to the haystack, where he proceeded to take breakfast. As he had been in the well for nearly twelve hours, he had his appetite with him, and, outside of a few abrasions, seemed to be unharmed.

A Famous Show of Beauty.

The show of distinguished beauty, transfigured by famous artists, which is now taking place at the Academy of Fine Arts in New York, has been anticipated by THE COSMOPOLITAN Magazine in its November issue, in an article by Wm. A. Coffin, with illustrations of some of the more beautiful faces. The "Great Passions of History" series has for this month's subject the romantic career of Agnes Sorel, who influenced the destinies of France under Charles VII. "The Art Schools of America," "The Great British Northwest Territory," "The Chiefs of the American Press," and the "Public Library Movement," are amongst THE COSMOPOLITAN's table of contents. Survivors of the war and their children will find intense interest in "The Story of a Thousand," a personal narrative begun in this number by Albion W. Tourgee, who tells in a graphic way, of a regiment which saw fierce service--of its organization, its marches, its sports, and its death-roll.
