J. H. CROSS,

Telephone No. 61. Cor. Second and Union Sts.

W. A. McGuire, a well known citizen of McKay, Ohio, is of the opinion that there is nothing as good as children troubled with colds or croup as Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. He has used it in his family for several years with the best results and always kept a bottle of it in the house. After having la grippe he was himself troubled with a severe cough. He used other remedies without benefit and then concluded to try the children's medicine and to his delight it soon effected a permanent cure. 50 cent bottles for sale by Blakeley & Houghton Druggists.

Maggie—Has he proposed yet? Daisy—No, but last night he asked me my opinion of flats, and I said I adored them, especially the cute little ones, and I know by the way he smiled that he'll pop within a week.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Marvelous results.

From a letter written by Rev. J. Gundersman, of Dimondale, Mich., we are permitted to make this extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the Baptist Church at Rivers junction she was brought down with Pneumonia succeeding La Grippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interruption and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery; it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results." Trial bottles free at Snipes & Kinnersly's Drug Store. Regular size 50c. and $1.00.

Uncle Josh—Did any of them robbers get a hold of yew when you was in New York? Uncle Si—No, by gosh! Every time I seen one of them p'lice I dodged into a hallway or somethin'.—Indianapolis Journal.

Four Big Successes.

Having the needed merit to more than made good all the advertising claimed for them, the following four remedies have reached a phenomenal sale. Dr. King's New Discovery, for consumption, Coughs and Colds, each bottle guaranteed—Electric Bitters, the great remedy for Liver, Stomach and Kidneys. Bucklen's Arnica Salve, the best in the world, and Dr. King's New Life Pills, which are a perfect pill. All these remedies are guaranteed to do just what is claimed for them and the dealer whose name is attached herewith will be glad to tell you more of them. Sold at Snipes & Kinnersly's Drug Store.

ANCIENT STATUARY.

The Enormous Cost of Some Historic Pieces.

The famous Colossus of Rhodes, which has been described so often by gleaners of the curious that the subject is becoming threadbare, cost 300 "talents," a sum equal to about $375,000 in United States currency. This sum is a trifle, however, when compared to the price paid for a colossal statue of Mercury, which was made for the Gaulish city of Averi by Zelodorus. The artist was engaged upon this great work for ten long years, and the total cost to the city would equal $1,775,000. What the gold and ivory statue of Athena, in the Parthenon, or the celebrated "Olympian Zeus," both of which were made by Phidias, cost is not stated by any of the ancient or modern authorities, but that it was enormous may be inferred from statements made below: Athena was arrayed in drapery made of pure hammered gold weighing 40 talents. The coin value of this wonderful drapery at the United States mint-to-day would approximate $580,000. Of the Olympian Zeus it has been said that "it was a monster idol of gold and ivory worth more than the cash assets of many modern kingdoms." The head of this great image was covered with locks of pure gold, each weighing six minae, or about the value of $25,000 in modern gold coin.

A Big Corn Yield.

The largest crop of corn ever produced on one acre, according to the Charleston News and Courier, was that raised by a farmer in Marlboro county, S. C., in 1892. A prize of one thousand dollars was offered for the largest yield on an acre, and this farmer chose a piece of worn-out piney woods, sandy land, to which he applied more than a thousand dollars' worth of fertilizers. The season was favorable and the cultivator was kept going almost constantly. The stand became so thick and heavily burdened with ears that fences had to be built to sustain it. When the crop was gathered it measured within a peck of two hundred and fifty-five bushels and carried off the prize, which the farmer richly deserved, for it takes a valiant man to spend more than a thousand dollars to enrich a single acre.

Location of the Memory.

The memory remains intact and in perfect working order in cases where the left side of the brain is badly diseased or even if portions of it have been removed. From this the natural inference is that the right side of the brain is the seat of that most remarkable faculty. Lieut. Brady, who lost a portion of the right side of the brain from a gunshot wound while in Assam, where two-thirds of the officials are negroes, suffered a remarkable lapse of memory. After he had fully recovered he knew and could call by name all his white associates, but the negroes, whom he formerly knew as well as the whites, were perfect strangers to him.

A Happy Settlement.

The late Lord Denman, on being reminded by a hatter that a small account was "overdue," visited the shop and gave the manager a legal reply to the request for payment. "You state," he said, solemnly, as he stood over him, shaking his finger at him, "that this account is overdue. Remember that a bill of exchange or bill of acceptance may become overdue, but a tradesman's account never. A gentleman pays when he thinks he will or when he has the money. But to show that no ill-feeling exists, I will pay the account and take another hat."

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns, and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Snipes & Kinnersly.

LEAVES NO MONUMENT.

The Vanishing American Indian Has Done Nothing to Benefit Mankind.

A recent brief announcement, unnoticed by many, had an important bearing on the "Indian question," or on the duration of that question, says the Kansas City Star. It was, seemingly, that the last mounted soldier of the United States army had been ordered out of the Indian Territory, something that had never before happened. Ever since the white man landed on the shores of what are now the United States a white man with a gun has been watching the Indian. The first semblance of an army was raised to fight Indians; almost the first structure raised on the shore was a fort for protection against Indians; so, for two hundred years and more as the Indian has fallen back, the soldier and the fort have moved with him. Then the white man moved around to the western ocean and the western shore, to Oregon and California, and began to push the Indian to the eastward, fort and soldier and settler altogether pressing on. Now the Indians moved back from the Atlantic and Pacific to the great central plains seem surrounded, and now comes the order to take off the guard. "He can neither fight nor fly" is the idea of this order. "He must be a 'good Indian' now. The troopers can unsaddle and take a long rest from now on." Does not this really look as if we were approaching the last hour of the last Indian?

In truth, the original "real" Indian, absolutely unchanged by contact with the white man, has gone now except in the far deserts and mountain fastnesses. In 1846, Francis Parkman tells us in the "Oregon Trail," he saw Indians who had not emerged from the "stone age," and used implements and weapons such as may have been used by people before Noah's flood. But could such Indians be found now? Certainly not in the region where Mr. Parkman found them. Elderly people who visit the "Wild West" show make mild complaint that the Indians who do the best they can to look "natural" do not look like the Indians of forty years ago. That Indian has, somehow, "passed on."

This much is certain, that the "last Indian" will be, in every sense of the word, the "last." He will leave nothing behind him to mark the place he occupied in the world—no history; neither monument, books there will be and museums and "collections," but none by him. Should an Indian become so learned and accomplished as to write a history he would become a white man. Many white men have followed him, studied him. Learned men from foreign countries have journeyed here for such purposes, but who of all of them has learned the secret of the Indian's heart? To do that it would be necessary to become for the time an Indian—to "put yourself in his place;" and what white man has ever done that? The Indian has no record, or it is as if whispered to the winds or committed to the leaves that fall or to the water that runs away. The Indian rears, while he is an Indian, no habitation that endures; when it is gone there is nothing but a ring on the ground that the rain washes away. He throws up no highway; his narrow path through the grass lasts no longer than the buffalo's road to ford in the stream. So there must come a time when, leaving no trace behind, he shall pass out of this world, when the "last Indian" shall go—like the mist.

A COURT BALL.

Brilliancy of the Scene as Depicted by an American Visitor.

Never shall I forget the sight which greeted me as we entered, writes Winifred Grant, in Home and Country. A long walk between two lines of people led to the farther end of the room, where I saw a slender man, in the uniform of the Austrian hussars, and a sweet-faced lady in a court costume that fairly blazed with jewels, surrounded by ladies and gentlemen in waiting, all gorgeously attired. The brilliancy of the countless crystal gas lights from the huge chandeliers, the superb uniforms, wealth of sparkling jewels on all sides, and the magnificent gowns, all completed a picture of dazzling beauty, never to be forgotten. I was dimly aware of the fact that the countess had again given our names to some official, who repeated them to the master of ceremonies, handing him the cards. Not visiting cards, mind you, but huge things with our names so clearly written as to defy mistake. We had dropped our trains on entering the room, and they were immediately spread out to their full width and length by ushers with long wands.

Then we slowly marched up the room, and after our names had been announced to their majesties, we each stepped forward and courtesied, or bowed, almost to the floor. Then we backed away, keeping our faces toward the royal party, until we reached the end of the room, where we stopped to breathe for a minute. I had been presented, and lived, and was grateful.

Presently there was a movement in the lines of guests, and at the same moment a hidden orchestra began a majestic polonaise. The guests moved towards the sides of the room, leaving the center cleared, and, headed by two ushers with staves, the royal party slowly marched around the ballroom and then retired. His majesty's ball had been formally opened.

An Ancient Hunting Ground.

There is still a deal of good hunting on the Delaware peninsula, although the region has been steadily shot over by a sporting population for the last two hundred and fifty years. Delaware has stringent game protective laws, and in the lowest county of the state there are great swamps that still harbor a considerable variety of game. The same is true of several of the Maryland eastern shore counties, and the two Virginia counties have probably as good aquatic hunting as is to be found anywhere on the Atlantic coast short of a few almost inaccessible points north and south.
