Miss Lakeside—Oh, I wish I didn't love Jack! Mrs. Van Pullman—Why? I thought you were going to marry him! Miss Lakeside—I am, and I'm afraid I'll just go on loving him, so that it'll break my heart to get a divorce—boo-hoo!

Marvelous results.
 From a letter written by Rev. J. Gunderman, of Dimondale, Mich., we are permitted to make this extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the Baptist Church at Rivers junction she was brought down with Pneumonia succeeding La Grippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interruption and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery; it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results." Trial bottles free at Snipes & Kinersly's Drug Store. Regular size 50c. and $1.00.

His elegant attire was lost upon her, "Curse it," he muttered, when he perceived that such was the fact. His money being gone, he had staked his fall overcoat on the mare. "Curse it," she ran fourth.

Henry Wilson, the postmaster at Welshon, Florida, says he cured a case of diarrhoea of long standing in six hours with one small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. What a pleasant surprise that must have been to the sufferer. Such cures are not unusual with this remedy. In many instances only one or two doses are required to give permanent relief. It can always be depended upon. When reduced with water it is pleasant to take. For sale by Blakeley & Houghton Drugists.

Higgles—What are those Chicago people shouting "A sail! a sail!" for? Piggles—Probably Miss de Million and the prince have come to terms after all.—The Matchmaker.

When persons are weak and languid, from sickness or overwork, feel debilitated and depressed, it is an indication that the blood is out of order, and they need help to throw off the miserable feeling. The best remedy for this purpose is Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier. It restores lost strength, gives vigor to circulation, promotes good appetite and a flow of cheerful spirits. Price $1.00 per bottle. For sale by the Snipes-Kinersly.

What interesting stories of travel Duffix tells! He must have roved a great deal. "No-o—he's always been here. But his mind wanders."

EVEN THE KING

Had to Make a Return Like a Common Citizen.
 Of all the extraordinary communications that have ever reached King, Humbert since he ascended to the throne, says a Rome letter, one which he received the other day for the purpose of inquiring in all seriousness whether he could read or write was perhaps the most extraordinary. And, to make matters worse, he was informed that he was required to give proof that he possessed a certain amount of education to do so. The letter in question was not the work of some irresponsible crank, but was a full-fledged communication bearing the signature of the burgomaster, or mayor, of the little town of Rheme Notre Dame, in Piedmont, where King Humbert happened to own some landed property.

As a land owner of the district the name of the king figures on the electoral register, and every citizen, before he is permitted to cast his vote, is obliged to furnish satisfactory evidence that he can read and write. Of course King Humbert has complied with the demands of the burgomaster, and has set an example to his subjects by performing his duties as a citizen.

Italy is about the only country where such an incident could occur, since in other monarchical countries, particularly England, the sovereign and the prince of the blood are subjected to the same restrictions as the peers of the realm, and are debarred from casting votes at the polls for the lower house of the legislature, the theory being that, possessing by virtue of their birth seats in the house of lords, it is not proper that they should in any way influence the elections to the lower chamber.

THIS MAN'S SIN.

His Single Aim Was to Get an Advertisement and He Succeeded.
 Stand in the public thoroughfare gazing at anything real or imaginary and the dozens who gather round you will multiply soon into hundreds, and if you stick to it, perhaps thousands. A crowd as big as the street could hold for a block gathered round a sign painter. They rallied in curious excitement and dispersed in disappointed disgust.

"My Sin," in huge flaming letters, was what the painter had already printed. If ever a crowd was bent on anything it was on the discovery of what that sin was. They asked each other what it might be and hazarded guesses while the man laid by his red paint pot and brought forth a green instead.

What would the next word be? The crowd grew so excited they called to the man: "What is it?" "Tell us." "Go on." "Hurry." "Paint quick if you won't talk," until it seemed he might grow too bothered to print anything. But he did.

He printed out in small green letters, added to the gigantic "Sin," the syllable "gle," and when the sign was done it read: "My single aim is to sell at a nominal profit."

Cotton from Wood.
 An artificial cotton, said to be much cheaper than the natural, is reported from France. It is made from the wood of the pine, spruce or larch, which is debarked and then disintegrated and bleached with a hot solution of bisulphide of soda and chloride of lime. The resulting pure cellulose is treated with chloride of zinc, castor oil and gelatine, and the paste is passed through a perforated plate. This gives a thread, which is woven into a presentable fabric.

BREWERS' HORSES.

They Are, as a Rule, Fat from Eating Brewery Grain.
 Did you ever see a thin, square, cadaverous, bony horse pulling a brewery wagon? Probably not in New York, though such a thing could happen, though it would not pass without notice. The reason for it is simple, says the New York Sun. These horses are fed on what is known as "brewers' grain," the residue of the brewing process, a nourishing but unsalable product of the brewery. When the labor of beer making is ended gallons of these grains in liquid form are poured into closed wagons and carted to the stables, where they are fed to the horses. They are fattening, and give brewery cart horses that rotundity which is the marvel of many, who do not understand the true cause of it. It is estimated that nearly seventy per cent. of brewers' grains are water and unavailable for transport, except at large expense, for considerable distance, and, more than this, they spoil easily, so must be used at once as they come from the brewery, hot and steaming. In some places, especially out of New York, these brewers' grains are fed to cattle with very good result, but in this city the supply is taken up chiefly in the stables of the largest breweries.

Very few persons have stopped to compute the extent to which horses are necessary in the brewery business. The largest of the city breweries has two hundred and fifty horses constantly in use in delivering kegs of beer to customers distributed about New York city and Brooklyn. The next largest has two hundred horses, and so on down the list, the total number of brewery horses in the city footing up five thousand.

SILK FROM WOOD.

A Recent Discovery of Great Commercial Importance.
 At Bradford, England, silk has been made from wood pulp so much like the real thing that it bids fair to occupy a place in commerce and use. It is produced by subjecting vegetable fiber to the action of various acids, the result being a product said to be identical with the filament of the worm, having its lightness, luster and all its qualities, including that of durability. Commercially speaking, says the Philadelphia Ledger, the importance of the discovery can hardly be overestimated, and it is possible that it will produce the most revolutionary consequence in the trade in that commodity everywhere. The world's stock of silk, both woven and raw, is immense and has always held a staple value likely to be much shaken and disturbed by the intrusion of a new supply which can be cheaply and abundantly produced. Samples of yarn, fringe, braid, gimps, sewing silks, handkerchiefs, brocades and other fabrics, dyed in various colors, have been exhibited by the Bradford makers to the trade and pronounced all right and up to the commercial standard in all respects. With artificial diamonds and rubies such as are now being turned out in great abundance, modern society will doubtless take on a style of splendor hitherto unknown, outshining the courts of Solomon or the queen of Sheba or the retinues of Mahmoud or Haroun Al Raschid.

AN AMERICAN AIR.

A German Band Leader's Idea of the Proper Thing.
 A good story was told by a Boston man who was in Antwerp while the preparations were in progress for the exposition. Representatives of all nations were there preparing exhibits from their respective countries. In the evening, says the Washington Star, all the visitors were in the habit of gathering in a large hall on the grounds to listen to the band play. Out of compliment to the visitors the national airs of the different countries were played, and received an ovation from the group of that nationality in the hall. The night that our Boston friend attended the band performance this playing of national airs was on the programme. All were played, but not a thing that could be twisted into an air for the bird of freedom. A delegation of the Americans went up to the leader and told him that they felt slighted that their country had not been recognized. With profuse apologies the leader said it was clearly an oversight, and promised to give them the American air at once. He distributed the music, and, waving his baton, the band broke loose, not with any familiar patriotic air, but "The Man That Broke the Bank at Monte Carlo." Amazement among the Americans finally gave away to visions of "Old Hoss" Hoey and his song, and when the band finished the tumultuous applause from the American delegation elicited an encore.

A Fishy Story.
 Pyeng Yang, a city in Corea, was founded three thousand and sixteen years ago. It is known as the well-less city. Within its walls is not a single well, and all the water of the city is carried up by watermen from the river which washes its southern wall. Tradition shows that this has always been so, for it is said that when a Chinese general besieged it two thousand years ago, believing that he could compel its inhabitants to capitulate by cutting off their water supply, he was led to give up the attempt because the soldiers on the walls took fish scales and went through the motions of the baths, and the scales, glittering in the sun, looked in the eyes of the astonished besiegers to be drops of water.

Misery Shared.
 The Parisian beggar is generally a person of wit. One of the fraternity met one evening, at eight o'clock, a gentleman who was on his way to a dinner party.
 "Have pity, monsieur, and give me a sou," said the beggar, "for I have had no dinner to-day!"
 "Get out!" exclaimed the gentleman.
 "I've had no dinner, either!"
 "Too bad!" answered the beggar.
 "Make it two sous, then, and we'll dine together!"
