Parker (at the football game)—Tame sort of a show, in't it? Barker—Tame! You're the first man I've heard express that opinion. Parker—Maybe I'm not in the humor to appreciate it. I became a member of the stock exchange a month ago.—Truth.

Marvelous results.
 From a letter written by Rev. J. Gunderman, of Dimondale, Mich., we are permitted to make this extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the Baptist Church at Rivers Junction she was brought down with Pneumonia succeeding La Grippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interruption and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery; it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results." Trial bottles free at Snipes & Kinerly's Drug Store. Regular size 50c. and $1.00.

"Ah," he exclaimed playfully, "why that deep flush upon your cheek?" "Oh, Alfred," she faltered, "your arrival was so unexpected." She trembled, and felt that she might better have taken time to lay it on less deeply.—The Artist.

Henry Wilson, the postmaster at Welington, Florida, says he cured a case of diarrhoea of long standing in six hours with one small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. What a pleasant surprise that must have been to the sufferer. Such cures are not unusual with this remedy. In many instances only one or two doses are required to give permanent relief. It can always be depended upon. When reduced with water it is pleasant to take. For sale by Blakeley & Houghton Drug-gists.

"I dropped the stamp on the floor," exclaimed the votress, "and I didn't like to soil my gloves picking it up, so I just punched the ballot with a hairpin. That will do just as well, won't it?"—Indianapolis Journal.

When persons are weak and languid, from sickness or overwork, feel debilitated and depressed, it is an indication that the blood is out of order, and they need help to throw off the miserable feeling. The best remedy for this purpose is Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier. It restores lost strength, gives vigor to circulation, promotes good appetite and a flow of cheerful spirits. Price $1.00 per bottle. For sale by the Snipes-Kinerly.

Notice of Proposed Street Improvement
 By order of the Council of Dalles City, notice is hereby given that the portion of the east side of Union street, commencing on the south line of Fourth street, Dalles City, and extending southerly to where the north line of the alley which forms the north line of the public school grounds intersects said street, said public school grounds being situated on both sides of Union street between said alley and the bluff, shall be improved by the construction of a plank sidewalk eight feet in width along the east side of said street.

The success that has attended the use of Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Liniment in the relief of pain and in curing diseases which seemed beyond the reach of medicine, has been truly remarkable. Hundreds supposed to be crippled for life with arms and legs drawn up crooked or distorted, their muscles withered or contracted by disease have been cured through the use of this remedy. Price 25c, 50 and $1.00 per bottle. For sale by the Snipes-Kinerly Drug Co.

 Scrofula is one of the most fatal among the scourges which afflict mankind. Chronic sores, cancerous humors, emaciation, and consumption, are the result of scrofula. Ayers Sarsaparilla eradicates this poison, and restores, to the blood, the elements of life and health.

A perfect stranger usually betrays many imperfections when you become acquainted with him.—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

The smallest "cat-boil" is large enough to show that the blood needs purifying—a warning which, if unheeded, may result, not in more boils, but in something very much worse. Avert the danger in time by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Cured others, will cure you.

LAND O' DROUTHIE CRONIES.

Convivial Caledonia's Curious Inns and Hotels and Some Facts About Them.
 Robert Kempt has gathered together many interesting historical items and quaint anecdotes about the inns and hotels of Scotland, says the Caterer. It must be confessed the historical side begins very late, for in olden days inns were practically unknown over the border, travelers being received in private houses as guests. Consequently there is no record of such ancient London hostleries as the Tabard, in Southwark; the Mermaid, in Bread street, or the Blue Boar, in Eastcheap. When Defoe went to Scotland he had difficulty in finding an inn at Aberdeen, and this in spite of a royal edict issued by James I. in 1424, to the effect that in all burgh towns where there was considerable traffic, hostleries should be established, but these institutions did not flourish till very much later. Mr. Kempt gives some amusing information as to the pains and penalties enacted in the fifteenth and seventeenth centuries regarding the hours of closing, drunkenness, etc. The inns of Aberdeen are accorded a whole chapter, for there is much to say about those of the last century. They practically formed open clubs for the wits and learned men of the hospitable city. Over very modest repasts and potatoes, grand symposia were held; the philosophers lived low, but thought and spoke high.

Dr. Johnson seems to have appreciated the Aberdeen inns; he found them almost as congenial as his haunts in Fleet street, and certainly far better than the Scottish houses of entertainment. Among other interesting items of information Mr. Kempt points out that whisky is a comparatively modern beverage, and that in olden days claret was almost as much drunk as ale. The regent Albany is supposed to have made claret popular. In 1480 red Gascony wine sold in Aberdeen at sixpence a pint, and later on claret and port wine could be had at eightpence a bottle. Indeed claret and port in those early days could be procured cheaper in Scotland than in most parts of England. In the cities and country side are many inns with historical interests attached to them. In the Invercauld Arms hotel, Braemar, is the stone on which the standard of Mar was raised in 1745, the beginning of Prince Charlie's wild escapade. Other inns are associated with names venerated in Scottish history and literature. There are many inns in the Highlands closely connected with Burns, the Ettrick Shepherd, Sir Walter Scott and other kindred giants of old. Scott mentions that it used to be the fashion to eat oysters in the Covenant Close, Edinburgh, and Mr. Kempt has gathered together many details as to this once fashionable form of indulgence. During the eighteenth century it seems that the best society in the Scottish capital, ladies and gentlemen, used to make parties at one of the taverns in "Auld Reekie," there to partake of oysters and porter, ending up with brandy and rum punch, with songs and dancing. Some of these old Aberdeen and Edinburgh inns were the ancient houses of noble families, great rambling buildings, with many rooms, some of remarkably fine proportions. Even a few of the country inns were former mansions of the lairds of the soil.

AN ENORMOUS VINE.

One That Grows in England and Bears Two Thousand Bunches of Grapes.
 While in the public mind the great vine at Hampton Court palace is esteemed the most remarkable, even that is excelled in dimensions by the still greater vine at Cumberland lodge, Windsor Park, says the London Daily News. Not only these giants, but probably all other vines in the kingdom, have to give place for extent and productiveness to that most remarkable vine which is just at the present moment carrying the enormous quantity of eight hundred and fifty-two bunches and a total weight materially exceeding half a ton.
 This is growing at Manresa house, Roehampton, in a viney two hundred and twenty-four feet long by eleven feet wide. The vine was planted by the present gardener, Mr. Davis, as a cutting, onto a wall outside more than thirty years ago. But finding that in the natural soil such capital growth was made, the present house was specially built for its accommodation, so that now the vine and its main stems stand partly across the house, just two-thirds up its length. There are seven main rods or branches running horizontally each way. These are allowed to carry laterals, or fruiting shoots, on the upper sides only, so that the grapes, now fast becoming black (for the variety is the black Hamburg), hang the entire length of the roof in straight, even lines, instead of up the roof, as is commonly the case. Over two thousand bunches were cut after they had set. The value of the crop, estimated at two shillings per pound—which is, as good grapes go, perhaps not a high figure—would be one hundred and twelve pounds sterling. Probably no other tree of any kind in the kingdom could produce such a sum in fruit annually.

Where Was He Brought Up?
 Who says there is no American language? Harper's Magazine gives the following story as evidence that in some portions of our land a tongue is spoken that is distinctively our own. Prof. F. of Harvard, tells the tale. He was at a picnic, and after the affair was well under way a carpenter, a sturdy New Englander, appeared on the scene with several planks, out of which he proceeded to construct the dinner-tables. Noting the thickness of the planks, the professor chaffingly inquired why it was necessary to use such heavy timber. "Why?" returned the carpenter. "Why, in order that not when dinner's half eat tables might squash and victuals leave us." It was some hours before the professor was able to translate this satisfactorily, but he finally discovered that it could be done.
