Parker (at the football game)—Tame sort of a show, in't it? Barker—Tame! You're the first man I've heard express that opinion. Parker—Maybe I'm not in the humor to appreciate it. I became a member of the stock exchange a month ago.—Truth.

Marvelous results.
 From a letter written by Rev. J. Gundersman, of Dimondale, Mich., we are permitted to make this extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the Baptist Church at Rivers Junction she was brought down with Pneumonia succeeding La Grippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interruption and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery; it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results." Trial bottles free at Snipes & Kinersly's Drug Store. Regular size 60c. and $1.00.

"Ah," he exclaimed playfully, "why that deep flush upon your cheek?" "Oh, Alfred," she faltered, "your arrival was so unexpected." She trembled, and felt that she might better have taken time to lay it on less deeply.—The Artist.

Henry Wilson, the postmaster at Welshton, Florida, says he cured a case of diarrhoea of long standing in six hours with one small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. What a pleasant surprise that must have been to the sufferer. Such cures are not unusual with this remedy. In many instances only one or two doses are required to give permanent relief. It can always be depended upon. When reduced with water it is pleasant to take. For sale by Blakeley & Houghton Druggists.

"I dropped the stamp on the floor," exclaimed the votress, "and I didn't like to soil my gloves picking it up, so I just punched the ballot with a hairpin. That will do just as well, won't it?"—Indianapolis Journal.

When persons are weak and languid, from sickness or overwork, feel debilitated and depressed, it is an indication that the blood is out of order, and they need help to throw off the miserable feeling. The best remedy for this purpose is Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier. It restores lost strength, gives vigor to circulation, promotes good appetite and a flow of cheerful spirits. Price $1.00 per bottle. For sale by the Snipes-Kinersly

The success that has attended the use of Dr. J. H. McLean's Volcanic Oil Liniment in the relief of pain and in curing diseases which seemed beyond the reach of medicine, has been truly remarkable. Scrofula is one of the most fatal among the scourges which afflict mankind. Chronic sores, cancerous humors, emaciation, and consumption, are the result of scrofula. Ayers Sarsaparilla eradicates this poison, and restores to the blood, the elements of life and health.

A perfect stranger usually betrays many imperfections when you become acquainted with him.—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

The smallest "cat-boil" is large enough to show that the blood needs purifying—a warning which, if unheeded, may result, not in more boils, but in something very much worse. Avert the danger in time by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparil. Cured others, will cure you.

AFRICAN CUSTOMS.

Episodes Which a Traveler Saw in the Yoruba Country.
 Jean Hess, a French-African traveler, gives in Le Figaro of recent date an unaccustomed view of the savage negro. He pictures her as having a beauty of her own befitting the climate and vegetation of tropical Africa. That, however, might be a matter of taste, and, perhaps, most writers would find it hard to discover, with M. Hess, in the naked negress a "living bronze, of unimpeachable lines," a creature whose pride and dignity suggest "what ancient poets tell of Athenian priestesses and Roman empresses."

Matter of fact and not of taste, however, is to be found in the account M. Hess gives of love and marriage among some of the savage African tribes. In the country of the Yoruba, extending from the Gulf of Benin to the Niger, M. Hess saw a young negro who, after sacrificing a pigeon upon the end of a stream, threw its plumage upon the water, and chanted a prayer to Imoya, protector of the bottom of the sea. Imoya is a white genius that lives at the bottom of the stream. He has power to inspire virgins with love of the young men that implore his aid. Prayer is made to Imoya in secret place, with the sacrifice of honey cakes and white doves. Here is a love chant that is sung to Imoya:

"There is in the house of the chief a beautiful virgin, Rere by name, the loveliest of all. She has large hips as those of a heifer; she has arms as strong as a warrior's; she has eyes as sweet as the antelope's; her voice is a chant gay as those of the birds; her dancing is light and a pleasure to see; she is supple and undulous as the sacred serpent; she is lovelier than may be told. I would like her well for a wife. She would honor me in my house and she would give me beautiful children. But she is proud and mocking. She will laugh at me when I would buy her, and I shall not be able to conduct her to my house. Imoya, give her to me!"

The girls also have their chants, fetiches and exorcisms to obtain rain bands. In a village of Yoruba, M. Hess saw a group of young negroesses performing these rites about a great baobab tree. They carried jars of oil, and sang, moving slowly, with naked bosoms, with measured cadence and harmonious balancing. As they danced they affixed white bits of cloth to the tree. The observer saw nothing grotesque or laughable in the scene.

M. Hess says that the savage negress has her coquetries, and asserts that she submits to painful tattooing that she may seem more beautiful to men. The marriage of a rich man of the Egbas to the daughter of a chief was a notable ceremony. The maiden's consent having been obtained, the future husband paid her father the agreed price. As the newly married couple journeyed homeward people along the way laid down branches and flowers, saying: "The genii give thee a beautiful spouse; forget not that she is more precious than all thy riches. The virgin whom thou takest was the charm of the house, the charm of the city. Thou desired her. When thou hast given us all thy treasures thou shalt not have paid enough."

SCARED HER INTO SPEECH.

This Engaging Woman Was Deaf and Dumb Until Caught Off Her Guard.
 A prepossessing middle-aged woman walked into the office of a well-known firm of railroad lawyers on Williams street the other day and drifted over to where the junior partner sat. She had court-plaster and other trifling articles to sell for ten cents and showed at the same time a card on which was written: "I am deaf and dumb."

The lawyer was interested, says the New York World, for the woman had a sad face and seemed eminently respectable. So he wrote on a pad: "Any children?" and she in the same manner answered: "Yes." To the question: "How many?" the reply was: "Six," emphasized by a mournful shake of the head. She acknowledged in writing that her husband was dead. When her address was asked for she was rather slow in putting it on paper, and when it came to references she wrote, with a good deal of deliberation: "John Davis."

"Where does he live?" was the next question to which the woman wrote no reply, but indicated with her hand a point on the horizon that might have meant Jersey or heaven.
 "Great Scott! You don't mean to say you know Davis?" shouted the lawyer, jumping to his feet.
 "Yes, I do," answered the woman, taken off her guard by the vehemence of the speaker.
 They looked at one another for a moment and then the lawyer called an office boy and told him to show her the street by the way of the stairs, eight long flights.

Keeping Composed.
 To maintain one's composure under circumstances of a trying nature is about as difficult a task as has ever been set for mankind. The Frenchman is so rarely able to keep cool that he marvels at the Englishman's stolid indifference to most of the ills of life, and in a French work published some years ago a certain "Milord Hamilton" is held up as the prince of the composed, "for," says the writer, "Milord Hamilton, having killed a hotel waiter in a brawl, being informed of the man's death by his landlord, composedly orders his host to charge it in the bill."

Strange Properties of Cryostase.
 A German chemist is reported to have discovered a new substance which has the remarkable and unique property of solidifying when heated and remaining liquid at temperatures below zero. It has been named "cryostase," and is obtained by mixing together equal parts of phenol, camphor and saponine, and adding a somewhat smaller proportion of essence of turpentine. Certain substances, like the albumens, harden on heating, but this is the only product that again liquefies on cooling.
