Servant—There's a horrid tramp at the back door. Mistress—Show him right up to the best bedroom and then go out in the street and shriek. Quick, or he will get away. The Astors indeed!—The Smiler.

Help is Wanted

by the women who are ailing and suffering, or weak and exhausted. And to every such woman, help is guaranteed by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. For young girls just entering womanhood; women at the critical "change of life;" women approaching confinement; nursing mothers; and every woman who is "run-down" or overworked, it is a medicine that builds up, strengthens, and regulates, no matter what the condition of the system.

It's an invigorating, restorative tonic, a soothing and bracing nerve, and the only guaranteed remedy for "female complaints" and weaknesses. In bearing-down sensations, periodical pains, ulceration, inflammation, and every kindred ailment, if it ever fails to benefit or cure, you have your money back.

Day—You won't catch me going to Neighbor's any more Saturday nights. Weeks—Why not? Day—He flashed one of those signs on me: "We close at 12 o'clock on Saturday."

W. A. McGuire, a well known citizen of McKay, Ohio, is of the opinion that there is nothing as good as children troubled with colds or croup as Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. He has used it in his family for several years with the best results and always kept a bottle of it in the house. After having a gripe he was himself troubled with a severe cough. He used other remedies without benefit and then concluded to try the children's medicine and to his delight it soon effected a permanent cure. 50 cent bottles for sale by Blakeley & Houghton Druggists.

Lecturer—The platform in the curio hall has fallen. Manager—Any bones broken? Lecturer—I believe the ossified man was nicked in a few places.

Henry Wilson, the postmaster at Welshon, Florida, says he cured a case of diarrhea of long standing in six hours with one small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhea Remedy. What a pleasant surprise that must have been to the sufferer. Such cures are not unusual with this remedy. In many instances only one or two doses are required to give permanent relief. It can always be depended upon. When reduced with water it is pleasant to take. For sale by Blakeley & Houghton Druggists.

May—Had an awful accident on my bicycle this morning. Agnes—Really. May—Yes. The wind stopped blowing just as I was passing the Oldchappy Club.

When persons are weak and languid, from sickness or overwork, feel debilitated and depressed, it is an indication that the blood is out of order, and they need help to throw off the miserable feeling. The best remedy for this purpose is Dr. J. H. McLean's Strengthening Cordial and Blood Purifier. It restores lost strength, gives vigor to circulation, promotes good appetite and a flow of cheerful spirits. Price $1.00 per bottle. For sale by the Snipes-Kinnersly.

Cholly—Weally, Miss Daisy, you are vewy first girl I ever kissed in all me life, dontcherknow? Daisy—That's quite an unnecessary statement, Mr. Cubleigh.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns, and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Snipes & Kinnersly.

Jack—Alas! What cure is there for a broken heart? Jess—Get it broken over again.

Feed wheat for sale cheap at Wasco Warehouse.

STOPPED BY GRASSHOPPERS.

A Train in New York brought to a standstill by the insects.
 "The story is an old one about western railroad trains being stopped by grasshoppers during a memorable invasion of Kansas and other states by these insects," said a New York traveling man to a New York Sun reporter; "and it was and is still looked upon in the east as a wild reach of the western imagination. I believe no one had deeper doubt of it than myself. But I doubt no longer, for I was on a train the other day right in our state of New York which was stopped by grasshoppers as effectually as the engineer with his airbrakes could have stopped it."

"The railroad was the Chautauqua Lake railroad and the train was on its way between Mayville and Jamestown. All that region has had a most destructive visitation of grasshoppers this year, crops, foliage and even hay, cut and housed, having been absolutely eaten up clean by the ravenous insects. This day the passengers on the train noticed that frequently it would gradually slow up and come almost to a standstill, but after awhile regain somewhat of its regular speed. At last, though, after slowing up and the engine working in a way that showed that the engineer was making his greatest effort to overcome whatever the obstacle was to the progress of the train, it came to a dead standstill. A trainman was hurrying through the car I was in and I asked him what was the matter.

"Grasshoppers," said he. "We're stalled again by grasshoppers."
 "Nobody believed him, of course, but I got out of the car and it wasn't long before I found that he was in earnest. Grasshoppers had effectually stopped the train. The rails behind us as far as anyone could see were two glistening lines of grease. As far as anyone could see ahead the railroad tracks were hidden by untold numbers of grasshoppers. Men had to be sent ahead to sweep or shovel or scrape the insects off the rails. By dint of much sand and steam the train was at last got under way, but for nearly two miles the advance guard of trainmen had to keep the train clear of grasshoppers immediately ahead of the locomotive wheels before we had passed out of the tremendous swarm of insects, fat to bursting on the crops of the Chautauqua region, and the train could go its way without danger of further stalling. I learned that the trains on that road had been unable to make anything like schedule time for several days and that no trip had been made on any train in that time on which it had not been stopped more than once by the crushing of grasshoppers on the rails."

WORDS AND MEANINGS CHANGE

"Afflicted Keliel" is hardly good English nowadays.

It is interesting to notice the change in the meaning and use of words that time brings. Just fifty years ago the "National Portrait Gallery of Distinguished Americans" was published in this city, says the Boston Globe.

In the account of Mrs. Washington we read that "when ladies called at the president's mansion the habit was for the secretaries and gentlemen of the president's household to hand them to and from their carriages, but when the honored relics of Greene and Montgomery came to the presidential, the president himself performed the compliment himself."

We do not call a widow "the afflicted Keliel" nowadays; at least, when we mean to be respectful. But Mrs. Washington is spoken of in these terms two "several times" in the portrait gallery.

Later on we find that Com. Maedonough married a member "of a highly respectable family;" nowadays we use that expression only when speaking of a criminal's family.

Of Dr. Samuel Latham Mitchell's father this gallery remarks that he lived to see most of his children "reputably settled in life;" and it seems to think it speaks well of him. In this age we might think that we spoke kindly of a man, though not well of him, if we said that.

All the children of Col. Thomas Marshall, of Virginia, "females as well as males, possessed superior intellectual endowments." Henry Clay's father, we learn, was a respectable clergyman—an avers less rare in those days, we should have thought, than now; and even now we would hardly say that a clergyman was respectable.

UNCLE SAM'S NEW LIBRARY.

It has some of the largest bookcases in the world.
 No such library as this new one of Uncle Sam's was ever planned before. You must imagine, to begin with, two iron bookcases, each 65 feet high, 112 feet long and 45 feet wide. They tower up through the building story on story in nine tiers. Each bookcase will hold 800,000 volumes. The metal framework is made gridiron fashion to permit the free passage of the atmosphere, for books need fresh air as much as human beings, else they rot. The floors are sheets of iron, and fire could do no damage worth mentioning, for books will not burn. They will only smolder under favorable circumstances. The library, says the Washington Star, has 1,800 windows. Those which admit light to the great book stacks above described are single sheets of fine plate glass. Looking from the interior courtyards, the walls inclosing the book stacks appear to be almost wholly of glass. Thus the title on the back of every volume may be easily read. The shelves already provided will accommodate 1,500,000 books—twice as many as are now in the library.
 The building has been so constructed as to afford space for other stacks, which may be put up at any time, and will hold 2,700,000 volumes more. A million of books in addition may be accommodated in the courtyards, and there is room for more besides. The librarian of congress a century hence will not find himself cramped in the least.

Of Des Moines, Iowa, writes under date of March 22, 1893:

S. B. MED. MFG. CO.,
 Dufur, Oregon.
 Gentlemen—On arriving home last week, I found all well and anxiously awaiting. Our little girl, eight and one-half years old, who had wasted away to 38 pounds, is now well, strong and vigorous, and well fleshed up. S. B. Cough Cure has done its work well. Both of the children like it. Your S. B. Cough Cure has cured and kept away all hoarseness from me. So give it to every one, with greetings for all. Wishing you prosperity, we are Yours, Mr. & Mrs. J. F. Ford.

If you wish to feel fresh and cheerful, and ready for the Spring's work, cleanse your system with the Headache and Liver Cure, by taking two or three doses each week.
