TUESDAY, - - - JANUARY 8, 1895

JUST SO.

Last night the sound of the jingling sleigh-bells, accompanied by musical laughter of enraptured maidens, and the less harmonious, but more sonorous blaring of the tin trumpets, whose blasts were blasted, so to speak, by the hilarious swain, were heard until a late hour.

As the playful puppy that chases his tail and tines up his bark, while his skin seems not large enough to hold all the pleasure that's in him, so the boy, as the kitten, beribboned; so soft to the touch, so large eyed and gentle, so soft purring and perfect for petting, and withal so uncertain of temper, so the girl.

This is the anniversary of the battle of New Orleans, St. Jackson's day, which is kept by all good democrats, when someone reminds them of the date and circumstance. It would be quite proper for the democracy to celebrate the birthday of their patron saint on this particular occasion, for he, too, had a banking system to manage as the lesser Saint Grover has.

The constitution requires that congress shall close up its business at noon March 4th. On this account it is quite probable a session will be held Sunday, it being by a legal fiction held as of Saturday and being so shown on the journal.

Up to date, about $25,000,000 of the gold received for the last bond sale has gone out of the treasury and by the middle of next month the reserve will be down to the old sixty million limits. It may be possible that congress will do something to stop the present game in which Carlisle is trying to lift himself out of the financial slough by his boot straps, but there is no assurance of it doing so.

As the legislature meets next Monday the senatorial question waxes warmer daily. That senatorial question may be a hard one, or it may be easy, according to circumstances. If a caucus is held, Dolph will be elected; if it is not, the result will then depend on the first ballot, for if Mr. Dolph fails in that, he may as well begin to calculate on taking up his law practice.

Mr. Downing, who has in a remarkably short time given his paper, The Tomahawk, a high place among the Oregon journals, has, we are sorry to say, severed his connection with that paper. He is one of the most forcible and at the same time most graceful writers in the Northwest, and we hope his versatile pen may soon again be doing newspaper work.

Grover's secretary of state Mr. Gresham is evidently not in favor with one of the congressmen. Representative Conn, of Indiana, sizes him up after this style: "Exhibit A: Hawaii—A restoration that did not restore. Exhibit B: Samoa—A protectorate that did not protect. Exhibit C: Japan—A mediation that did not mediate. Exhibit D: Armenia—An investigation that did not investigate. Exhibit E:—In process of preparation."

Why the Girls Laughed.

All the girls in Hudsonville, Mich., have been trying to catch Adrian Van der Slouis for a long time. Today they are all laughing at him.

A fair maid of Jamestown, Ottawa county, won him, and they were married last night. After the blushing bride had received the congratulations of her friends she, leaning on the bridegroom's arm, led the way to supper. The bridal cake was a beautiful thing, covered with a thick layer of soft sugar and chocolate.

The cake had been too tempting for the bride's little sister. She had helped herself to a quarter section of it, but being unable to eat it before the wedding company went into supper, had hidden it under the table on a chair. That was the chair on which Adrian Van der Slouis sat, and Adrian Van der Slouis wore fine lavender trousers. He did not know that the cake lurked there.

When he arose from the wedding feast and led the way out of the room the guests began to laugh. The bride, a woman of nerve and quick perception, hurried Adrian and his lavender trousers into another room. Then with a sponge she applied gasoline where it would do the most good and soon all evidences of the chocolate were removed.

Then the happy couple returned to their guests. But Adrian was ill at ease. Bashful at best, he was damp with perspiration and gasoline. He felt he must do something to distract attention from himself, so he passed around a box of cigars. All the men took one and lighted them.

Then Adrian Van der Slouis took one, bit off the end and put the cigar between his lips. Then he took a redheaded sulphur match and scratched it on his lavender trousers. There was a puff, a blaze, a yell of agony.

"I'm afire!" cried Adrian, clutching his coat tails.

By way of rendering the promptest assistance all the young women shrieked. One man seized the water pitcher, another ran to the well. Only the bride kept her wits about her. She grabbed up a hairy mat and put out the incipient conflagration.

Adrian's trousers are ruined, and he ate his breakfast today from the mantel. But worst of all, the girls who tried to win him are laughing at him.—New York Herald.

"Only the Scars Remain,"

Says HENRY HUDSON, of the James Smith Woolen Machinery Co., Philadelphia, Pa., who certifies as follows: "Among the many testimonials which I see in regard to certain medicines performing cures, cleansing the blood, etc., none impress me more than my own case. Twenty years ago, at the age of 18 years, I had swellings come on my legs, which broke and became running sores. Our family physician could do me no good, and it was feared that the bones would be affected. At last, my good old to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I took three bottles, the sores healed, and I have not been troubled since. Only the scars remain, and the memory of the past, to remind me of the good Ayer's Sarsaparilla has done me. I now weigh two hundred and twenty pounds, and am in the best of health. I have been on the road for the past twelve years, have noticed Ayer's Sarsaparilla advertised in all parts of the United States, and always take pleasure in telling what good it did for me."

Mother Urged Me

ECZEMA

From early childhood until I was grown my family spent a fortune trying to cure me of this disease. I visited Hot Springs, and was treated by the best medical men, but was not benefited. FROM When all things had failed I determined to try S. S. S., and in four months was entirely cured. The terrible Eczema was gone, not a sign of it left; my general health built up, and I have never had any return of the disease. CHILDHOOD I have since recommended S. S. S. to a number of friends for skin diseases, and have never yet known a failure to cure. GEO. W. IRWIN, Irwin, Pa.

Never fails to cure, even after all other remedies have failed. Our Treatise on Blood and Skin Diseases mailed free to any address.
