WEED THEM OUT.

The fight over the senatorship has withdrawn attention from other very important matters that will come before the legislature at the coming session. There is an urgent demand for economy in the management of the state affairs, and to this end the demand is almost unanimous for the abolishing of a lot of useless and worse than useless commissions.

The fish commissioner is another of those useless and powerless offices that should be abolished. The sheriffs, constables and citizens should, and certainly could do much better service, and indeed would do more to enforce the fish and game laws than the fish commissioner can were it not for the fact that the knowledge that the state has this commissioner to look after that business prevents the citizen from making it his business.

The superintendent of public instruction is another office that never accomplished any good except to the Hon. E. B. McElroy, and is of no more practical use to the state than an extra pair of legs to a chicken.

The state board of equalization is another political wart that doesn't equalize anything except its salary, though properly conducted it would, perhaps, prove beneficial. If continued, however, it should be composed of the governor and other state officers, who would save the expense of the office, for the work instead of taking months as it does now when salaries lead to prolonging the job.

Another point that is going to be watched closely is the expense the legislature creates for itself in the shape of clerk hire, and legislators will hear from their constituents should the former shameless practices be followed.

This legislature owes it to its party, as well as the state, to show how well and how economically the state can be governed with all its branches in the hands of the republican party. The interests of the state demand honest government, rigid economy, and the interests of the party demand that this legislature does not provide its enemies a club for its destruction.

HAS NO PARALLEL.

It may be safely said that the case of the state against Hall in North Carolina, in an opinion of the supreme court just filed, has had no parallel. Deputy Sheriff Hall, standing just on this side of the line, fired and killed Andrew Robinson, a prisoner who was escaping into Tennessee. Hall was tried and convicted of murder in North Carolina. On his appeal it was reversed that "in contemplation of the law Hall was in Tennessee when the killing was done."

GOVERNOR PENNOYER.

In a few days Sylvester Pennoyer, who has filled the governor's chair of this state for eight years, will turn over the office to his successor, Judge Lord. There is, perhaps, no man who ever held the office that has had as much abuse, as many flings made at him as Governor Pennoyer, and certainly none who deserved them less. We may differ from him in political opinions, we may smile at some of his vagaries, and we may regret some of his opinions concerning the courtesy due to those in high national authority; but when we pass the acts of the man in review for the past eight years, we may find much to awaken our admiration, and much more that we may approve.

Pennoyer's administration has been a clean one, and he goes out of office with the respect of the people, regardless of politics. Some will find fault with his exercise of the pardoning power, but an examination into that matter will disclose the fact that in nearly every case the application for a pardon was signed by the judge, prosecuting attorney or jurors who tried the case. His action at Corvallis when the Oregon Pacific was clamoring for troops endeared him to the hearts of the laboring classes, and his famous epigram, "Pay your men and you won't need any troops," will be remembered long after all of us have passed away.

The newspapers, for lack of something else to vent their sarcasm on, have encouraged each other in trying to be witty at the governor's expense; but now that he is to step down and out, the people will recognize the fact that they have lost an honest official, and a friend.

ECZEMA

From early childhood until I was grown my family spent a fortune trying to cure me of this disease. I visited Hot Springs, and was treated by the best medical men, but was not benefited. FROM When all things had failed I determined to try S. S. S., and in four months was entirely cured. The terrible Eczema was gone, not a scab of it left; my general health built up, and I have never had any return of the disease. I have since CHILDHOOD recommended S. S. S. to a number of friends for skin diseases, and have never yet known a failure to cure. GEO. W. IRWIN, Irwin, Pa. Never fails to cure, even after all other remedies have. Obtain S. S.
