We have experienced a good many snow storms but the present slush that pervades the sidewalks is the slippiest, sloppiest nastiest conglomeration we ever tackled. It is the only lot of snow that we ever heard of that was greased when it fell.

The city recorder is just having a picnic these days. The snow is so deep, and so sloppy that even if a fellow does get too much gin he stays where he got it and doesn't make business for the police courts. The newspapers miss the old John Doe worse than anybody.

Although the morning broke dark and gloomy with a gentle, cold, drizzling rain, the sun soon managed to drive away the clouds and the day has been exceptionally fine. The snow does not seem to disappear as rapidly as the weather would indicate it should, but it has settled at least half, there being not over fifteen or at most eighteen inches.

About the best reputation any young man can get is that of paying his debts, living within his means, whatever they are. There is always an opening for such young men, men who will do their duty as quickly and well on a small salary as on a big one. They are the ones who "get there" in the long run.

Yesterday afternoon Drs. Eshelman and Logan removed a tumor, composed of a net work of blood vessels called "Naevus," from the head of the ten months old child of D. L. Bolton. The operation is one not without considerable danger, owing to excessive hemorrhage. In this case the operation is a success and today the child is doing well.

The Arlington National.

At a regular meeting of the stockholders of the Arlington National bank, held in Arlington, on Jan. 8, 1895, the following directors were elected for the ensuing year: D. M. French of The Dalles, W. W. Steiwer of Fossil, George Conser of Heppner, and L. C. Edwards and A. C. Hawson of Arlington. After adjournment of the stockholders' meeting and the newly elected directors had duly qualified, a directors' meeting was held, at which D. M. French was elected president, W. W. Steiwer vice-president, F. T. Hurlburt cashier and John W. Lundy assistant cashier.

With these directors and officers the success and permanency of the bank is assured beyond question. The directors and officers are all men of known integrity, and we bespeak for the Arlington National a year of unsurpassed prosperity.—Record.

Death of Richard Grazier.

Richard Grazier died at the residence of the Hendricks Bros. near Dufur some time last night. He was apparently in the best of health, worked all day yesterday, ate a hearty supper, read until 9 o'clock, at which time he retired, and upon his not getting up this morning, those who went to call him getting no answer, went into his room and found him dead in his bed. Death came to him evidently so swiftly that he made no struggle.

He was about 32 years of age, and was held in high esteem by all who knew him. His mother lives at Tygh and three brothers reside in the Willamette valley.

The Frenches at the Opera House.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. French will commence a three nights' engagement at the opera house, next Monday evening, in Clay M. Green's most successful work, "The Golden Giant." This is what the Seattle Post-Intelligencer says of Mr. and Mrs. French and their company:

"R. E. French and Eva Earl French with their excellent company opened a week's engagement at Cordray's theatre last evening to an army of their friends that filled the house up and down stairs. The opening play was the romantic five-act drama of "The Golden Giant," written by Clay M. Greene. The entrance of both Mr. and Mrs. French were signals for a storm of applause that left no doubt in the minds of all present that the stars of the evening continued great favorites. Mrs. French was at home in the character of Bessie Fairfax and did some excellent comedy work that was well appreciated. Mr. French made a typical Jack Mason, in the strong dramatic passages eliciting a number of hearty rounds of applause as well as several curtain calls. Mr. French has a well balanced company and the performance last evening was smooth and even, without a hitch from first to last. Frank Lavarnie had the heroic part of Alexander Fairfax, the Golden Giant, and gave a strong, manly representation of the Western hero. Miss Jessie La Senr was very effective in the character of Ethel Wayne, arousing the sympathies of the audience in the many emotional passages of the play." To School Boards.

Summary of steps necessary to vote a special tax in school districts under law of 1893:

1. Directors should call a special meeting, giving ten days notice, to be held as late in January as possible (say 26 to 28) and get result to county clerk by Feb. 1st.
 2. Make application to the county clerk for amount of assessable property in your district, not earlier than January 1st, but early enough to insure his reply by the date of your meeting.
 3. The clerk cannot give you the assessment before the latter part of January, and you cannot vote until you get it.
 4. When the vote is made the result must be forwarded in writing to county clerk by Feb. 1st. (School laws 1893, pp. 62-64).
- As the time is limited, promptness in all your proceedings is absolutely necessary.

School Supt.

A Murder at Cornelius.

A fatal shooting affair occurred at Cornelius this afternoon, in which Joseph Penning, a farmer living a mile north of town, was shot by J. J. Reitter, a German laborer, 30 years of age. The trouble arose over the ownership of some land, and also because of Penning's objection to the murderer carrying his daughter.

Reitter went to Penning's house where he first took a shot at the girl he proposed to love, but fortunately missing her. He then fired at his victim, striking him in the left breast, immediately above the heart. Penning's death is believed to be merely a question of a few hours.

The murderer is now in jail, and will have an examination before Justice J. J. Knight, at Hillsboro, on the 19 inst.
