CONCERNING SALMON.

EDITOR CHRONICLE:—In your issue of the 30th inst. I notice your mentioning that the gill net fishermen on the lower river want all other methods of catching salmon abolished but theirs.

It is a well-known fact that fish wheels can only be placed close up to river bank, with a catching capacity of six or seven feet wide, at most, while a single gill net is about 1,800 feet long and about 40 feet deep.

There is another thing, Mr. Editor, I would call your attention to, viz, the close and open season for salmon fishing. Since the distance from Astoria, where no fishing should be allowed below, is about 200 miles from The Dalles, and it takes salmon at least two months to come that distance, wouldn't it be only justice for our Eastern Oregon representatives to introduce a bill giving six months open and six months close season?

I see notices occasionally in the Portland Oregonian where the Hon. Marshall McDonald, U. S. fish commissioner, says that unless the legislatures of Oregon and Washington do something to protect the salmon in the Columbia, that he will not advocate any United States aid in the way of hatcheries, etc., etc.

AND ITS OWN NEST TOO.

Every republican newspaper in the state of standing and character supports Dolph for re-election. Look at this list, and it is only a partial one: The Astorian, The Dalles Times-Mountaineer, The Dalles Chronicle, the Salem Statesman, the Eugene Register, the Pendleton Tribune, the Moro Observer, the Arlington Record, the Yamhill Reporter, the Yaquina Bay News, the Dallas Observer, and many more.

Just read the last four lines of the above and then take your pencil and make a calculation as to where the Telegram gets off.

Tomorrow will be that famous date in American history, known as "ground hog" day. The olden timers of New England had a superstition that on this day the badger comes out of his hole and if the sun is shining brightly enough to cause a shadow to be visible, the wise ground hog returns to his hole and remains there for six weeks longer.

Caution to Telephone Purchasers.

The Northern Pacific Railway company uses a large number of private telephones at various places throughout the length of its roads, which have been heretofore leased from the Bell telephone company, through whose territory the road runs.

The change, in its usual course, came to the attention of the counsel of the company, who decided that the guarantees of the manufacturers were no protection, and it was hazardous to subject the Northern Pacific railway company to later litigation and the payment of large damages, so last week a circular was received by all offices discontinuing the infringing instruments, and the Bell telephone have been ordered replaced.

Any telephone set up in complete working order, embodies a dozen or more patents depending upon each other for a satisfactory and working whole, and therefore the expiration of one or two of these patents does not open to free use a complete or even a workable telephone.
