

Woman's Friend Stove Mat.

POSITIVELY INDESTRUCTIBLE.

10c each. Former price, 50c.

DIRECTIONS.

Use, as a general thing, just on top of stove. If great heat is required, use without the stove lid.

No stirring required for oat meal, milk, rice, custards, blanch mange, jellies, butters, catsups, apple sauce, etc., etc. In fact, nothing will burn on it. Coffee will not boil over if the pot is on the mat; bread toasts nicely on it. Try it and be convinced. For the nursery, there is nothing equal to heat the milk and food for the baby. If a grate fire, lay the mat on the open fire. If the mat becomes soiled, do not wash or scrape, but turn the soiled part next to fire, and burn until clean.

BRIEF MENTION.

Leaves From the Notebook of Chronicle Reporters.

The weather today has been like spring.

Regular meeting of the city council tonight.

Circuit court meets for the regular February term, next Monday.

Mrs. Foss died at her home near Hood River yesterday, at noon, just 24 hours after the death of her brother-in-law, G. H. Palmer.

The wedding of Gung Song and Seong Tui, Chinese, of which mention was made Saturday, seems to have transferred a small section of the Chinese war to this neighborhood.

W. Case, the pioneer banker of Astoria, died at his home in that city yesterday. He was 63 years of age and crossed the plains in 1850. Mr. S. L. Brooks, of this city, came across in the same train.

As a never-failing evidence of the approach of spring we wish to remark that the abundance and falling price of eggs is the most certain harbinger, whatever that is. Eggs are 20 per cent off in price today, selling for 20 cents a dozen.

According to the ground hog, unless his clock was wrong, there will be no more winter. At noon when his hogship is supposed to come out and take his winter peep, there was a fine cloud over the sun and it is presumed that this would satisfy him concerning his shadow.

The new city charter will be considered by the council tonight, and as there will be no time in which to inform the public through the newspapers, all those interested should attend the council and if they have any objections to the amendments suggested by the committee, they will have an opportunity to make them known, otherwise they must forever hold their peace.

The Dalles Literary Society met Friday evening and among others things on the program the question of the propriety of taxing church property was debated. Mr. Snowden, assisted by Miss Aimee Newman, who read a fine paper, took the negative side of the proposition but the judges decided in favor of the arguments brought forth by Messrs. Phelps and Riddell. The society has in preparation a program to be given at a public meeting some time during this month.

Too Suddenly Moral.

It is really astonishing how law-abiding the thug element of the Chinese become when they desire to get possession of some poor Chinese woman. When Gung Song married Leong Tui Saturday it stirred the long-haired highbinders into action. Fearing to openly take the woman away from her husband, they invoked the law, to accomplish by perjury what they feared to do by force, and so had warrants sworn out for the arrest of the young couple. Accordingly they were arrested about midnight Saturday, and were taken to jail, where they were kept until nearly noon Sunday, at which time bail was furnished and they were given their liberty.

If the inside history of the case could be shown, it would probably appear that the sudden attack of virtue, which caused the other Chinese to have them arrested was superinduced by the desire to become possessed of Leong Tui that she might be used for immoral purposes. It is to be hoped that Justice Davis may be enabled to make the whole crowd show up the true inwardness of the affair.

In the meanwhile the young couple need not feel afraid, for The Dalles is not Portland, and the least crooked work on the part of the Portland highbinders, will cause a cleaning out amongst them that will prevent some of them answering at the next roll-call of their society.

Wear a Small Hat.

The floor of the opera house being perfectly level, at the best it is difficult to get a good view of the stage. This being the case, the ladies who go to see the Tittle sisters tonight, and who wear the smallest hats, are going to meet with the heartiest commendation from the gentlemen. If at the same time the balloon sleeves could be razed it would prove of great advantage. Leave the big hats at home, and give the down-trodden men a chance to see. Do it, and win their everlasting gratitude.

The Deadlock.

There was no change in the senatorial situation at Salem today. Quite a number of the members are off on committee work, and in consequence sixteen were paired. The vote was as follows: Dolph 35, Hare 10, Weatherford 7, Hermann 6, Williams 9, Lord 4, Lowell 3. There remains but eighteen days in the session.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.

When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.

When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.

When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

"Drifted Apart."

The closer you "hold the mirror to art nature" the more perfect becomes the of interpretation. "Drifted Apart," is a play that has for its fundamental basis the finer elements of human nature so carefully blended with the more pronounced phases of everyday life that it actually becomes a moral sermon from the stage. While dealing with society as it is today, and introducing the various types of society and club characters, yet the obtrusive elements being eliminated, the production is clean, clear cut and abounds with the delightful little touches of delicate light and shade that demonstrates the genius of Thespian, and draws the audience into perfect harmony with the action of the play. Fortunately this play is so appropriately constructed that it affords the three Tittle sisters great scope to display their histrionic abilities, giving them three distinct characterizations; all of which have made decided hits whenever performed. The action of the play occurring in the fashionable circles of New York, it allows opportunity to display the magnificent wardrobes these talented ladies possess. The costumes worn are masterpieces of the dressmakers' art and are direct importations from the noted Paris Modeste "Worth."

A State Census.

The constitution of Oregon provides that an enumeration of the people of the state shall be made every ten years, beginning with 1855. The statutes further provide that this enumeration shall be made by the county assessors, beginning not later than May 10th, and that besides enumerating the people of the state, they shall classify them by age and sex and collect various simple statistics of production and industry. The assessors are to make returns to the county clerks, and these to the secretary of state, who is to furnish blank forms for the enumeration and declare the result. Penalties are imposed upon assessors and clerks who fail to perform the duties imposed upon them by law.

A Batch of Decisions.

Judge Bradshaw filed his decisions in several cases today as follows:

Bettingen vs. Cates, summons set aside and proceedings held for naught.

M. J. Manning vs. Matilda Baldwin, writ of review dismissed and decision of lower court affirmed.

Eugene D. White vs. C. P. Heald, sale confirmed.

James Cameron vs. Wasco County, writ of review dismissed and judgment of county court affirmed.

Pekin Plow Co. vs. C. L. Morse et al., motion to strike out answer sustained. Defendant given until second day of next regular term to file amended answer.
