Caution to Telephone Purchasers.

The Northern Pacific Railway company uses a large number of private telephones at various places throughout the length of its roads, which have been heretofore leased from the Bell telephone company, through whose territory the road runs. A few months ago, by circular letter from headquarters, the Bell telephones were ordered out and were replaced by infringing telephones of other manufacturers.

The change, in its usual course, came to the attention of the counsel of the company, who decided that the guarantees of the manufacturers were no protection, and it was hazardous to subject the Northern Pacific railway company to later litigation and the payment of large damages, so last week a circular was received by all offices discontinuing the infringing instruments, and the Bell telephone have been ordered replaced.

Any telephone set up in complete working order, embodies a dozen or more patents depending upon each other for a satisfactory and working whole, and therefore the expiration of one or two of these patents does not open to free use a complete or even a workable telephone. m-w-f.

Infringement Suits.

The Western Electric Company, of Chicago, on December 10, brought suit in the federal court at Springfield, Ill., against the Decatur Telephone Exchange for an accounting. The Decatur exchange is about to begin business with the instrument manufactured by the Harrison Telephone Company. An infringement of patent is claimed.

The Western Electric Company has also brought suit for infringement against several other companies in different parts of the United States. The Western Electric Company is a sub-company of the American Bell Telephone Company, and does most of their manufacturing. t-t-s
