BRIEF MENTION.

Leaves From the Notebook of Chronicle Reporters.

The King's Daughters will meet at 2 o'clock tomorrow at the residence of Mrs. Willerton.

The social to have been given by the members of Fern lodge next Wednesday evening, is postponed one month.

Mr. Leavins of the Cascade Locks telephoned here this morning that that place had experienced an earthquake shock the night before, and inquiring if we had felt it here.

The dispatches this morning announce numerous cases of smallpox at Hot Springs, Arkansas. This is the place from which our smallpox patient came, leaving there ten days ago.

Lost—A small gold chain of three strands, the center one very small. Think it was lost on Washington street, near the Methodist church. Finder will confer a favor by leaving it at this office.

Street Commissioner Butts desires to state to all city property owners that they must have the alleys adjoining their property cleaned up within three days. If this is not done, he will see that the work is done for them and the bill therefor collected.

A Case of Smallpox.

S. Monahan, a stockman, arrived here from Arkansas Thursday, and took a room at the Obarr lodging house. Friday night he was taken sick and Saturday morning Dr. Hollister was called in. The man had a high fever and symptoms of smallpox, which developed during the day until there was little doubt but that was what the trouble was. As soon as the nature of the case was suspected, vigorous steps were at once taken to quarantine the house, and those who were unfortunate enough to be found in the house were compelled to stay there, and were vaccinated at once. The old pest house having fallen into decay, it was decided to keep the patient where he was found, which has been done. Dr. Geisendorfer of Arlington, this morning, in consultation with Dr. Hollister agreed with him that the case was one of smallpox.

A Runaway.

There was an exciting runaway this morning, that happily ended without any one being hurt, or much damage being done. Mr. Maloney was driving the delivery team, a one horse rig, and was standing up in the wagon, a small boy, Pearl Haslam, being with him. As they came down the hill near the Methodist church, one side of the shafts dropped, the wagon took a lurch to port, and Maloney fell over the side of the wagon, his foot catching and he was dragged under the wagon for fifty yards. The Haslam boy fell at the same time, but inside the wagon bed. The horse ran down Washington at a rather slow gait, being hampered by the shafts and came almost to a halt just below THE CHRONICLE office. The boy took advantage of the lull in the pace to climb out over the back of the wagon, and as he struck the ground he threw up his hands, gave a whoop and shouted, "I ain't hurt." The horse was caught at the corner of Washington and First, and a bolt repaired all damages. Maloney fortunately escaped without injury.

Buried Yesterday.

All that was mortal of our old townsman, L. Newman, was laid away until the judgment day, yesterday. The funeral services were held at the house and were conducted by Rabbi I. Bloch of Portland. The procession to the cemetery was led by Temple lodge, No. 3, A. O. U. W., of which deceased was one of the oldest members, and the services of the order were conducted at the grave. The funeral procession was a large one and in it were many who mourned sincerely the loss of the genial and loyal friend.

Farewell Party.

Of the many society events which have taken place this winter the dancing party and banquet given Saturday night as a farewell to Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Gordon, who leave tonight for Leadville, Colo., takes the lead. Mr. and Mrs. Gordon have made many warm friends during a ten-months residence in The Dalles, who took this means of showing their esteem and the regret felt at their departure. About thirty couples were present at the Baldwin opera house, and with music furnished by the Orchestral Union, thoroughly enjoyed themselves in the "mazy" for about three hours, when all adjourned to Keller's oyster parlors, where one of his famous banquets was served, during which time everyone seemed to be possessed of the most genial feeling, and as the following who were present bade Mr. and Mrs. Gordon good bye all felt that the evening's pleasure was only marred by the thought that the best of friends must part: Mr and Mrs L E Crowe, Mr and Mrs Chas Hilton, Judge and Mrs Blakeley, Mr and Mrs W Moody, Mr and Mrs F L Houghton, Mr and Mrs M T Nolan, Mr and Mrs F Faulkner, Mr and Mrs Theo Senfert, Mr and Mrs H J Maier, Mr and Mrs W H Hobson, Mr and Mrs S P M Briggs, Mr and Mrs C L Phillips, Mrs Geo St Johns of Tacoma, Miss Apperson of McMinnville, Misses Lay, Emma Lay, Nons Ruch, Florence Lewis, Beulah Patterson, Catherine Martin, Laura Thompson, Mamie Smith, Mamie Cushing, Messrs R H Lonsdale, J Hampshire, J Bonn, G Mays, J Weigle, B Phelps, M Vogt, H Fowler, C Fritz, L Porter, W Fredden, H Riddell, C Lord of Chillicothe, Ohio, Dr. Logan.

Would All Want the Onion.

A Pendleton gentleman visiting in the Willamette valley sends the following, says the Tribune:

"Society is always on the alert for some thing new and novel. A new game called the 'onion social' has made its appearance and is growing into the favor of the young people. This is how it is played: Six young ladies stand in a row; one of them bites a piece out of an onion, and the gentlemen pay 10 cents to guess who bit it. The correct guessers kiss the other five girls, while the unsuccessful kiss the lass who bit the onion. People who don't believe in card playing ought to enjoy this game."

As it is fair to presume that at least five would guess wrong where one guessed correctly, it will be seen that the girl who bit the onion would get five kisses to the other girls' one. This would come under the head of class legislation, and here in The Dalles would cause a row the first time the game was played, for every girl would want to bite the onion.

"Bacteria do not occur in the blood or in the tissues of a healthy living body, either of man or the lower animals." So says the celebrated Dr. Kock. Other doctors say that the best medicine to render the blood perfectly pure and healthy is Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mr. R. Sigman came in from Dufur yesterday.

Dr. Geisendorfer and wife of Arlington are in the city.

W. N. West, proprietor of the Hood River meat market, is in the city.

Mr. Robt. Mays returned from Salem last night and so did Mr. J. M. Patterson.

Mr. Otto Pieper, who has been railroading in Washington, returned home Saturday.

Hon. Chas. Cartwright arrived from Salem today, coming in response to a telegram on account of his brother's sickness.

Theo. Cartwright is dangerously ill. He scratched his hand while at work a few days ago, and as a result has a very bad attack of blood-poisoning.

Mr. Wm. Garretson is confined to his bed from sickness. Mr. White, of Feldheimer's jewelry establishment, Portland, is in charge of his business.

"I guess my hat's my own! I paid for it," snapped the young woman at the matinee, turning round and addressing the two men who were making audible remarks about her towering head-dress; "and I paid for my seat, too." "But you didn't pay for all the space between your seat and the ceiling, my dear young lady," mildly observed the elder of the two men.—Chicago Tribune.
