AN ECONOMIC REVOLUTION

one side merely supplies the means for ties in Oregon have at last a common overlook the enormous shrinkage that property in common. has taken place in the value of the staple products of the labor of man, side by side with a steady increase of the rates which are paid for that labor. The exports and imports of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland furnish, perhaps, the most accurate standard that could be selected of the course of prices of these staples. There has been no fluctuating tariff to affect values, and no irregularity either in the monetary system or the conditions of exchange to render them uncertain.

When we find that in 1874 England paid $155,000,000 for 47,000,000 hundredweights of foreign wheat and flour, and that last year 89,000,000 hundredweights costs her only $133,000,000, we get a realizing sense of more than the significance possesses a double virtue. It cures and of cheap bread. For there is in such cures quickly. Snipes-Kinersly Drug figures the sign and the measure of a Co. social revolution whose progress has been none the less momentous because it has been peaceful. To go back only 10 That's what De Witt's Witch Hazel years ago, $50,000,000 buys 25,000,000 Salve will do, because it has done it in pounds of tea more than it would have hundreds of cases. Snipes-Kinersly done in England in 1884, and 14,000,000 Drug Co. hundredweights of refined sugar can be imported for the price paid in 1884 for little more than 10,000,000. In ten years the quantity of dead meat imported into the United Kingdom has nearly doubled, while its declared value has increased barely 50 per cent.

The cheapening of articles of food has been no more remarkable than that of the raw materials of manufacture. In 1874, 14,000,000 hundredweights of raw will resume the road between here and cotton are valued among British imports The Dalles. at $255,000,000, while last year 16,000,000 hundredweights count for only $165,000,-000. The imports of wool were 180,000,-000 pounds more last year than they were in 1884, but they cost $6,600,000 less than they did then. Of course, the value of the manufactured product bears the impress of the decreased value of the raw material. Great Britain received $25,000,000 less for the cotton fabrics she shipped last year than she did for those exported in 1874, but she, nevertheless, sent out 1,700,000,000 yards more. For less than 2,500,000 tons of iron and steel manufactures exported in 1874 the price was $155,900,000; for considerably more than 2,500,000 tons exported last year the price was about $73,000,000. These are some of the data which will go to the making of one of the most remarkable chapters in the history of this century-the still incomplete economic revolution to which the concluding quarter of it will have been a witness.

A TELL TALE REPORT.

The following is the report of the government statistician for the months of January and February, and it tells an eloquent story of the hard times. In live stock alone the decrease in values from the same months in 1894 is equal to one-fifth of all the gold, silver, and paper money in circulation in this coun-

The estimates of farm animals for January, 1895, show a decrease in the number of horses as compared with Jan-1894, of 187,821, or 1.17 per cent; a decrease in mules of 19,123, or 0.81 per cent; an increase in mulch cows of 17,-229, or 0.10 per cent; a decrease in oxen and other cattle of 2,243,952, or 6.13 per cent; a decrease in number of sheep of the number of swine of 1,040,782, or 2.30 2,753,953, or 6.11 per cent; a decrease in per cent. In value per capita horses have declined 24.1 per cent; mules 23.5 per cent; milch cows have increased about 1 per cent; oxen and other cattle have lost in value 4.1 per cent; sheep have declined 20.2 per cent, and swine 16.9 per cent. The decline in the farm prices of horses is very general throughout the country, the exceptions being in the mountain and Pacific states and Massachusetts. The range of prices is from $15.37 per head in New Mexico to $81.21 in Rhode Island. The average value of mulch cows has increased from

The south spring wind during the week just past has removed the four or five inches of frozen snow from off this entire country, mountain summits excepted, says the Prineville Review. From all directions come reports of turning out winter-fed stock; and preparations are in progress in many neighborhoods for spring plowing, and as soon as roads settle a number of long teams
