Concert

Tomorrow
Night.

The Cold Storage Co. shipped a carload of potatoes East today.

John Hill, the man killed at Seufert's fishery yesterday was buried today.

The railroad commissioners are in session at Salem considering the freight schedule of the Southern Pacific.

It will be seen by perusing the minutes of the council meeting last night, that all persons under 18 years of age are liable to arrest if found on the streets after 8 o'clock at night.

The Smith Bros. will give their dance at the opera house Wednesday evening this week instead of Thursday. This change is made on account of the hospital corps using the hall Thursday evening.

Tonight at 8 o'clock the fire bell will be tapped eight times. This is the curfew bell, and from this on will be rung each night at the same hour. Just remember this, and don't think it is a fire alarm.

A decision was handed down in the supreme court today in the case of the estate against Daniel Maloney and Charles Snelling. The judgment in the lower court was reversed and a new trial ordered.

The Dalles just at present is at its dullest. All the farmers are busy plowing, and hardly one of them is to be seen in the city. The weather is perfect and if it keeps up for a little while there will be a large acreage in grain. What we want is just such weather as we are having now, followed next month by rains.

The smallpox scare has grown beautifully less at such a rate that there is now little, if any, of it left. The patient,

Monahan, is recovering rapidly, the nurse is all right, and the quarantined people are well and happy, rejoicing in the approach of the time when they will be liberated. This is the 12th day since Monahan was taken sick, and the 11th since his attack was known to be smallpox. The chances are now all against there being any new cases.

How Are Your Eyes?

Dr. M. G. Benedict, the eminent optician of Cleveland, Ohio, is in the city, stopping at the Umatilla House, where he may be consulted. The doctor carries a complete case of ophthalmic instruments, and makes a thorough examination of the eye, free of charge. This is a rare opportunity and should be appreciated by the spectacle wearers of this community. He will remain one week. The following testimonial is from J. S. Lewis & Co., the leading jeweler of Ogden, Utah.

"J. S. Lewis & Co., of Ogden, Utah, take great pleasure in recommending Dr. Benedict, oculist and optician, he having prescribed for and fitted many of our first-citizens, therefore we do not hesitate to commend, but should urge all needing an oculist and optician's care, to profit by his visit to your place.

Respectfully,
J. S. Lewis & Co."

SEUFERT & CONDON.

The Accident at Seufert's.

News reached the city yesterday afternoon about 5 o'clock that an accident had happened at Seufert Bros.' fish-wheel No. 3, in which one man was killed and another badly injured. The testimony showed that the men were working in a crib, placing rock therein. That a derrick was used for hoisting the tray containing the rock into the crib. Before the tray is hoisted the man in charge always blows a whistle, which is a call to the men in the crib to come out. Among those employed were John Hill and a man named Koskelo. When the whistle blew at the time the accident occurred, Hill and Koskelo came out with the others, but instead of going behind the derrick with the others, and as Mr. Seufert had told them to do many times, they sat down on the edge of the crib. Although the tray was loaded with less than half the usual amount, when it was lifted part way up the derrick gave way. Koskelo saw it coming towards him, and dropped into the crib a distance of ten feet, being badly bruised and cut by the fall. Hill had his back towards the derrick, and the heavy pole struck him in the back or shoulders, hurling him violently into the crib. His head struck on the side timbers and his brains were dashed out.

The Seufert Bros. are not in anyway to blame, as the derrick had been in use for six months, had been lifting heavy loads, and there was nothing to indicate that it had weakened. Besides, had the strict orders to keep out from under the derrick been obeyed, no harm would have followed the breaking of the derrick.

Coroner Butts summoned a jury, and an inquest was held, resulting in the following verdict:

SEUFERT'S FISH-WHEEL,
No. 1, March 4, 1895.

We, the jury impaneled by W. H. Butts, coroner of Wasco county, Oregon, to inquire into the cause of the death of a man killed at said place on March 4, 1895, at or near 3:45 p. m. of said day, find as follows:

That the name of said deceased was John Hill, a single man, and a Finlander in nationality; that he was about 24 or 25 years of age, and had no relatives in this country, as far as we are able to ascertain; that he came to his death by reason of a derrick, which was used on said fish-wheel to hoist rock, breaking, and the boom of said derrick, or the mast, becoming detached and striking him in the head, thereby causing instant death. And we further find that he came to his death through his own negligence, and that no one was responsible for the death of said deceased. Signed:

ERNEST KREAMAN,
D. HEROUX,
GUS STADLER,
D. S. DUFUR,
J. F. BERRY,
JOHN ARNDT.
