BILLIARDS IN A CHURCH.

The Adams Congregational church recently dedicated a congregation house and parsonage containing some radical modern features. The house, besides containing more completely the features found in parish houses, has a bowling alley, a well-equipped gymnasium and a billiard and pool room, the most radical feature of all. The auditorium has a platform and footlights, as near in approach to a stage as could well be built in connection with a church, even in the midst of liberal Adams folk. The church has a well-fitted kitchen, many tables, lots of table linen, silverware and dishes. It has reading rooms, classrooms and a study for the pastor.

The bowling alley is in the basement, and is always full of merry youths at accessible hours. The gymnasium in the attic is constantly patronized. Last week a class of young men was organized and Professor Seeley of Williams college was engaged for instructor. The young women have become jealous, and it has been decided to prohibit the use of the gymnasium by the boys for several hours each day and turn it over to the girls, who are determined to form an athletic association, too.

The church is not selfish. It has thrown open the doors of its fine congregation house to the whole community, believing that a bettering of social conditions is a step toward purification.

There are one or two of the old conservative element who look unfavorably upon the congregation house and its well patronized pool and billiard tables. One says: "By and by there will be a saloon connected with every church. If you put in billiard tables, bowling alleys and gymnasiums and say as long as the boys will play they had better play at church, why not put in a bar, for as long as men will drink, why not let them drink at church?"—Boston Journal.

TOUCH NOT.

Music has a range and freedom all its own and practically unlimited, yet there are bounds which even the searchers after harmony should not overstep. The violet lifting its delicate bloom, can never be anything but a violet, and it is loved and enjoyed for its beauty, its delicate perfume and its breathing spirit of modesty. To attempt to make anything but a violet of it, is to destroy it. It is so in music. The simple ballads that touch the heart, from their very simplicity can be changed only to their destruction. The "Old Folks at Home," "Annie Laurie," and dozens of other like songs of the heart, should be sacred and above the touch of the modern vandal, who destroys their charm with "variations." We want the "Old Folks at Home" and "Annie Laurie" as they were, and the variations we do not want at all. "Annie Laurie" with Trilby trimmings, and the "Old Folks at Home" inoculated with the delirium tremens of art can no longer touch the heart, but instead, awaken a feeling of anger that they have been desecrated by unsympathetic minds.

Musical monstrosities, if they must be created, should like Minerva be born full grown, they should not be made from those creations, that are already perfect. Put balloon sleeves and toothpick shoes on the modern musical creations if you will, but leave us the violets and primroses of song as nature made them.

The announcement is made that the children of Fred Douglass by his first wife who was a negress, will contest the will of their father which they claim discriminates against them, and that their father was influenced in making his will, by the second wife, who is a white-entitled woman. From all of which we gather that while the boy's faces may be black they are at heart just as selfish as a whiteman. The higher the civilization the greater is the quarrel over deceased parents' property, and this being true proves that Douglass' children are in a high degree, cultured.

The senate of the state of Washington yesterday defeated the Helm bill for a maximum rate on railroads. It was a good bill, a remarkable bill, a bill the people wanted; but the railroad companies did not want it, and so it was put to sleep by the "people's representatives." The initiative and referendum will yet have to be adopted if the legislatures of Oregon and Washington are duplicated.

The legislature of Massachusetts by a vote of 127 to 87, has refused to give woman the ballot. This can hardly be considered a set-back to woman in general, for in the case of the Massachusetts legislature, it must be taken into consideration that the women the members thereof had in mind, were the literary curios of "Boston." That they should be denied the franchise is perfectly proper, for there must be something left by which the sexes may be distinguished.

And now it is reported that a son of Mr. Mackay's is to marry Miss Consuelo Vanderbilt, whose mother and father were divorced a few days ago. The poet Saxe had just such a couple in mind when he wrote those biting lines on such marriages:

I waive the case, the barren case of those Who have no hearts to barter, or to lose, Whose wedded state is but a bargain made In due accordance with the laws of trade. When the prim parson joins their willing hands, To marry city jots to western lands, Or in connubial ecstasy to mix Cash and collateral ten-per-cent with six, And in the holy bonds of Hymen, locks Impassioned dollars with a smored stock.

President Cleveland, according to Private Secretary Thurber, will be chasing ducks and drakes in the swamps of North Carolina for the next ten days.
