BRIEF MENTION.

Leaves from the Notebook of Chronicle Reporters.

C. E. Bayard announces himself as a candidate for the office of school clerk.

By request I desire to state that I will be a candidate for school clerk again. E. JACOBSON.

The deadlock in the Idaho legislature over the senatorial election was broken today by the election of Shoup.

It is reported that owing to the passage of the law creating a new judicial district no term of court can be held in Morrow county this spring.

Commissioners' court is in session, but has devoted most of its time to road petitions and matters of that kind, and to getting bills in shape for action. Tomorrow there will be a grist of bills run through the mill, that will come out warrants. The county judge and commissioners are trimming expenses down to a minimum.

There will be English Lutheran service by Rev. L. Grey on Friday, Saturday and Sunday evenings, at 7:30, at the Baptist church, Sunday 10:30 a. m. in the chapel on Ninth street in German. Monday 1:30 and 7:30 p. m., in the U. B. church of Dufur, also there on Tuesday 10:30 a. m. A cordial welcome to all friends of the church by pastor and people.

Some of our exchanges have printed the statement that the pest house burned here was built by subscriptions given by employees of the old O. R. & N. This is a mistake. The pest house burned belonged to the city. The building spoken of was not burned, but is now used by the city and occupied by the persons quarantined on account of having been exposed to the smallpox.

The county assessor is getting ready to begin his labors, among which will be the taking of the census, together with the collecting of certain statistics. Every man will be called upon to give the number of his children, horses, mules, sheep, hogs, chickens and dozens of eggs, from which we judge that in Oregon all these things enumerated are considered members of the family.

The smallpox patient continues to improve, and although there has been a thousand rumors repeated a thousand times to the effect that the nurse who attended him has taken the disease, we have been unable to find any foundation for the story. It will be but a short time until all danger of his taking the disease is past. As a matter of fact the nurse has been vaccinated twice, or at least the attempt was made, but the vaccine would not take. This in itself means as a general thing, though not always immunity from the disease.

These Can Vote.

So that all may know who are legal voters at our school election next Monday, we quote the law. Section 43 reads: "In all school districts in this state with a population of one thousand and upwards, any citizen of this state shall be entitled to vote at a school meeting who is twenty-one (21) years of age, and has resided in the district thirty (30) days immediately preceding the meeting, and who has property in the district upon which he or she pays a tax."

Virgil Bolton Dead.

Died—In this city, Thursday morning, March 7th, G. Virgil Bolton, aged 32 years.

It did not create surprise among our people this morning when the news reached them that Virgil Bolton was dead, for that event was expected at any moment. For months he has been but a shadow of his former self, for consumption had claimed him, and with remorseless and ceaseless energy had little by little robbed him of strength and vitality. Only his indomitable will kept him alive for the past two months, and though so weak he could hardly stand, he walked to the bank and home every day up to ten days ago.

He was born in Wasco county Jan. 26, 1863, being 32 years old last January. He graduated from the Wasco Independent Academy in 1881, and immediately accepted a position in French & Co.'s bank, remaining with that firm ever since, and being cashier at the time of his death. Last June he was elected mayor of the city, and for a short time brought to the discharge of the duties of that office his usual vim and energy, but failing health prevented him for the past few months giving much attention to the office.

Virgil Bolton was known by almost every citizen of the county, and outside of it his acquaintance was extensive, and wherever known his name was a synonym for probity. He had few enemies and many friends, sincere friends, whose tenderest sympathies go out to the bereaved wife and fatherless little girls in their great loss.

Besides his wife, he leaves two daughters, Carmel, aged 5 years, and Noncarie, aged about 18 months, his mother, three brothers, Zenas, Simeon and Wilbur and a sister, Mrs. W. A. McFarland.

The funeral will take place from the family residence Saturday afternoon, at 1 o'clock.

Last Night's Concert.

The concert last night at the Methodist church drew a large and appreciative audience, and was decidedly the affair of the season. To make individual mention of those who took part would be a task beyond our weak powers, for where all is excellent, who shall select that which is most so. The very best and sweetest voices in the city were heard, and when that is said there is nothing left to say, for, as is well known, The Dalles has some genuine talent in the musical way. That the audience enjoyed the numbers was evidenced by the encore following nearly every one, and that too with an energy and persistence that would admit of no refusal.

The two recitations, one by Miss Besie French, and the other by Mr. N. Sinnott brought out generous applause, and with Mr. Sinnott the determination to have him out again compelled him to supplement "Cassius to Brutus" with a plain and unvarnished statement of the facts in the case of the duel between Mr. Shott and Mr. Knott, in which the heretofore hidden matters of that affair were brought to light and made plain.

Mrs. J. M. Patterson presided at the organ, and as she is perfect as an accompanist, contributed largely towards the success of the entertainment. Mr. C. J. Crandall is a master of the baton, and his work can always be recognized in the smoothness with which every program in his charge flows without a break.

Financially the entertainment was also a success, gathering in $50.

A Gem of His Kind.

There was a tramp in town yesterday that, as far as filth and looks are concerned, must have taken all the degrees, and a few side ranks. He was a Nyanza "nigger" of large proportions, with a head like a stonehammer or a churn, set with a fore and aft pitch of 45 degrees on a pumpkin vine neck. The longitudinal appearance of his head piece was elongated by short crisp wads of his kinklets tied up with strings. His clothing was—some of it, and that that he had with him was a sight. He had completed his tout ensemble with several old gunny sacks gathered from some scavenger's cart.

He was first visible in the eastern portion of the city, where, after gathering a half peck of "snipes," he crawled into the stock yards and was going to sleep with Saltmarsh's hogs. The hogs, however, raised such a racket about it that Saltmarsh went out to see what the trouble was, and discovering it, chased the dark brown epidemic away. He left some time during the night for Portland, where he will probably arrive today, and tomorrow we expect to notice in the Oregonian that those complaints against the crematory and Johnston street sewer in the metropolis, have again got into print.
