FRIDAY - - - MARCH 8, 1895
 A BIT OF HIS TRADE.

Mr. Erwin, who is said to be a brilliant St. Paul lawyer, and who is engaged in defending a rich young man named Hayward, charged with murdering a young woman, yesterday began his argument to the jury, and in its course paid his respects to the newspaper fraternity as follows:

"In the last few years of these modern times every effort has been made to make the jury simply one of the aids of public prosecution. A deep movement has been going on for the past twenty years to destroy this most ancient bulwark of public liberty. Public need, public opinion undigested, the creations of public journalism and the ill-formed judgment of passion have been used to give them greater weight and power. This is the unspoken movement in this case today. Why, we have tried this case before two juries—one that has not spoken, and will not speak before it can declare its conscience before its God and deliberate. And there is another jury, not devoted to the investigation of truth, but given to the most sensational parts of daily life. This jury tears down civilization," shouted the tall attorney, turning and gazing into the faces of the reporters. Then a long finger was solemnly raised, and the attorney cried: "Every time it dips its pen in the ink it is to write hasty, undigested facts."

Had Mr. Erwin studied the art of making an ass of himself all the days of his life, assisted as he was by a generous start from Nature, he could not possibly have arrived at a more perfect stage of development than his language would indicate he has now reached. And had he descended in a direct line from cross strains of the blood of Ananias and Sapphira and Baron Munchausen, he could not have reached a more lofty pinnacle in the art of prevarication. If there is one thing that the press, and the whole press of the United States, is conscientious in, that it is careful to speak nothing but the truth concerning it, it is the trial of a murder case. At the most the testimony is given to the public as it is, and except that it cannot see the witnesses, and so judge of the weight of their evidence from their manner, it is put in many cases in as good position to form an opinion concerning the case as the jurors themselves.

Mr. Erwin is employed in the case to have his client acquitted, that is what he is paid for, and that is (as these matters are viewed) his duty. We have no fault to find with Mr. Erwin, or the profession on that score; but when it comes to his assertion that the newspapers of the country deliberately deceive the public, and undertake to try cases out of court, he asserts what he knows to be false. Comparison between the newspapers and the attorneys in these matters will not redound to the credit of the latter. The aim of the newspaper is to get at the truth; that of the lawyer, in the majority of cases, is to conceal it. The trial of a criminal case is simply a battle between the attorneys; those on the side of the prosecution endeavoring to present evidence that will convict, no matter how doubtful its origin, and those on the other attempting to close the mouths of the prosecution's witnesses and shut out the evidence; and the clearer and more truthful it is, the greater the desire and the effort to keep it from the jury. That's what lawyers are paid for, while the newspapers can measure their success by their ability to present the truth; that is what they are paid for. The criminal lawyer shuns the truth; the newspaper seeks it. Which, think you, is more likely to find it?

Dr. Roberts, stated clerk of the Presbyterian general assembly, in an analysis of the returns of the census of 1890, shows that about 63 per cent of the voters of the United States are not identified with any church whatever, and that Protestants and Roman Catholics together, even in their nominal showing, have less than 38 per cent of the voters. According to this classification, 27.7 per cent of the voters are members of Protestant churches, and 10.7 per cent are members of the Roman Catholic church. In the South Atlantic states the Protestants have 50 per cent, and the Catholics but 4.2 per cent, while in the North Atlantic states 20.6 of the voters are Protestants and 19.4 per cent are Catholics. New England had more Catholics than Protestants—a remarkable change. In Massachusetts the Catholics have 30.8 per cent of the voters, and the Protestant sects together only 15.7 per cent. In the Western division, 7.3 per cent of the voters are Protestant communicants and 12.6 per cent are Catholics. The figures for Oregon are 11.4 per cent of Protestants, and of Catholics 8.9 per cent. In Washington, Protestants 8.4 per cent, Catholics 4.8 per cent.

The dispatches speak of the engagement of Mr. Mackay and Miss Consuelo Vanderbilt as "a match between two of the most celebrated American families." This shows how little that newsgatherer knows of our American celebrities. The James family, which first came into prominence shortly after the close of the war, and the Cook family, but recently operating in Kansas, Oklahoma and Indian Territory, are the most celebrated of our robber barons. The Vanderbilt and Mackay families gathered more wealth, but they are not in it for fame or glory.

We received a communication from Sherman county this morning calling attention to the fact that circuit court meets at Moro Monday, and that the suit of the E. O. Land Company against farmers of that neighborhood for rent will be up for trial. Our correspondent scores the company, but we fancy the jury that will examine into the matter will be able to do impartial justice between the parties. We refer our correspondent to another editorial in this issue, which will give our reasons for not publishing this communication.

Nearly every paper we pick up has something to say concerning the recent legislative deadlock, and asserts that the proof is obtainable that this candidate pledged himself this way or that way, and then with a mighty rip up the back, said candidate is given a rest until the next issue. The matter is settled, and for heaven sake, brethren, remember what the old Don said to Sancho Panza at the wonderful adventure of the fulling-mill, and let go.

GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY

Many years ago Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., compounded this medicine of vegetable ingredients which had an especial effect upon the stomach and liver, rousing the organs to healthful activity as well as purifying and enriching the blood. By such means the stomach and the nerves are supplied with pure blood; they will not do duty without it any more than a locomotive can run without coal. You can not get a lasting cure of Dyspepsia, or Indigestion, by taking artificially digested foods or pepsin—the stomach must do its own work in its own way. Do not put your nerves to sleep with so-called celery mixtures, it is better to go to the seat of the difficulty and feed the nerve cells on the food they require. Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Biliousness and Nervous Affections, such as sleeplessness and weak nervous feelings are completely cured by the "Discovery." It puts on healthy flesh, brings refreshing sleep and invigorates the whole system.

Mrs. K. HENKE, of No. 806 North Halsted St., Chicago, Ill., writes: "I regard my improvement as simply wonderful. Since taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in connection with his Pleasant Pellets I have gained in every respect, particularly in flesh and strength. My liver was dreadfully enlarged and I suffered greatly from dyspepsia. No physician could give relief. Now, after two months I am entirely relieved of my disease. My appetite is excellent; food well digested; bowels regular and sleep much improved."
