YOUNG TO MARRY.

The old, old story of love-lorn youth and sickle maid has been told again in the case of Willie Brown, a 19-year-old youth of Albina, and Norma Boggs, a 17-year-old maiden of that same city. They met, they loved; but alas! there was a sort of prior claim on the affections of Norma in the person of a more aged wooer. Now when Willie discovered how radiantly beautiful the fair Norma was, and that his goodness was reciprocated, he determined then and there to do or die, to catch on, so to speak, before someone else should sing to the waxy ears, "Hear me, Norma." He hastily borrowed $25 from his uncle, and with this wealth the youngsters struck out for San Francisco in the steerage of one of the steamers plying between Portland and that point. Willie had posted himself and knew that the captain of the vessel could perform the marriage ceremony when once on the broad ocean and a marine league from shore. In spite of some qualms of their stomachs, the youngsters applied to the captain to be made one, but he incontinently refused. In consequence they were turned adrift in San Francisco, and being under age, could not get married there.

The latest story is that the aged wooer caught on, took the train to San Francisco, and there, while Willie was hustling for something to eat, the girl, tired of love on water and a crust, took up with the latter and went east. We do not believe this, and if it is true, it is a pity that it is so, for these charming little babes should now be allowed to finish their romance, if for no other reason, that they may discover what a mistake each one of them has made. It is a wise provision that cases of puppy love seldom end in marriage; but it is perhaps proper that a few cases of the kind should occur to show what miserable failures such matings are.

OUR WOOL MARKET.

One reason Crook county needs no railroad is that it is only 120 miles distant from the best wool market on the Pacific coast. The wool sales made in The Dalles for the past five years have averaged higher for the same grade of wool than in any market west of the Missouri river. There are reasons for this. The same causes that make Portland the mercantile distributing center of the Pacific Northwest, make The Dalles the largest and best market on the coast for wool. Portland is the point at which deep water navigation and the products of the Northwest come nearest together. Astoria is nearer the ocean and more accessible in a degree for ocean steamers than Portland, yet it will never be the distributing point of the Northwest, for the reason that it is further away from the center of production. So with The Dalles as a wool center. Pass a half a dozen railroads through Crook county, and our wool would go to The Dalles either by rail or wagon, for the simple reason that The Dalles is the most central wool handling and shipping point on the coast. Once at The Dalles the grower has at least four modes of shipment from which to choose, which in itself is one cause of buyers preferring that point, and the point the buyers prefer is the point where the most buying is done and the best prices obtained, which answers the question why The Dalles is the best wool market.

Again, The Dalles is to have an open river by the first of the coming year, which, taken together with the fact that it is then the nearest deep water point to the great wool producing belt of Eastern Oregon and Southern Washington, assures permanence to the prestige it already has, as the wool center of the Northwest. Give us good roads, and we might add free roads, to The Dalles, and we have no cause to complain, all things being equal, of our wool market.—Prineville Review.

THE CITY'S FINANCES.

Bids for Dalles City bonds in the sum of $60,000 are advertised for. These bonds are to run for twenty-five years, and are issued for the purpose of paying off all outstanding warrants and reducing the interest. The new charter provides that the city cannot go in debt, and so, unless the money is on hand to pay, nothing can be purchased. This has been done in the hope of getting the city's affairs in such a shape that in the course of time the indebtedness can be paid off.

Ten years ago the city did not owe a dollar. Five years ago its debt was small, so that within the past five years the larger portion of the debt has been made, and much the larger portion of it in the last three years. Of course one reason of this is the interest charges, which grow as the debt grows, and which now amount to $400 per month. There is only one way to get rid of the debt, and that is to so manage the city's affairs that the expenditures will not only be kept within the receipts, but that a sinking fund can be created sufficient to meet our obligations as they fall due. The city authorities realize this, and a determined effort will be made to get the city's business into such shape that it will eventually be out of debt. By that time economy ought to become second nature to us, and once out of debt, we ought to be able to keep out.

D. P. Thompson was not elected school director in Portland, and the proposition to collect tolls on the bridges failed to carry also. It really looks as though the Oregonian can no longer get on the winning side; or, to put it more plainly, that the people have gone fadding (if we may coin a word) after all kinds of "new ideas." The drift is away from the good old sheet anchor of honesty and economy, and the rabble run mad after the "new" that is as old as the hills. Some people have an idea that the government should support the people, and think they have done a smart thing when they have shouldered a load of debt onto it, that they themselves must pay.

ON THE ROAD

to recovery, the young woman who is taking Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. In maidenhood, womanhood, widowhood and motherhood the "Prescription" is a supporting tonic and nerve that's peculiarly adapted to her needs, regulating, strengthening and curing the derangements of the sex. Why is it so many women owe their beauty to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription? Because beauty of form and face radiate from the common center—health. The best bodily condition results from good food, fresh air and exercise coupled with the judicious use of the "Prescription."

If there be headache, pain in the back, bearing-down sensations, or general debility, or if there be nervous disturbance, nervous prostration, and sleeplessness, the "Prescription" reaches the origin of the trouble and corrects it. It dispels aches and pains, corrects displacements and cures catarrhal inflammation of the lining membranes, falling of the womb, ulceration, irregularities and kindred maladies.

"FALLING OF WOMB."

MRS. FRANK CAMPFIELD, of East Dickinson, Franklin Co., N. Y., writes: "I deem it my duty to express my deep, heart-felt gratitude to you for having been the means, under Providence, of restoring me to health. For I have been by spells unable to walk. My troubles were of the womb—inflammatory and bearing-down sensations and the doctors all said, they could not cure me. Twelve bottles of Dr. Pierce's wonderful Favorite Prescription has cured me."

"Bacteria do not occur in the blood or in the tissues of a healthy living body, either of man or the lower animals." So says the celebrated Dr. Koch. Other doctors say that the best medicine to render the blood perfectly pure and healthy is Ayer's Sarsaparilla.
