A NEW FINANCIAL SYSTEM.

About forty delegates met at Pittsburg Friday, for the purpose of organizing a new party. But little was done besides agreeing upon a name, which, it was decided, will be the "Home Protection Party." An early date has been agreed upon when the delegates will again meet, and at which time the "Home Protection" infant will be born. The delegates delivered several addresses on the temperance question, but nothing was said concerning the tariff on silver. A resolution was adopted, which, if put into the platform as a financial plank, ought to be broad enough for the world to stand on. The resolution demanded: "That all kinds of money be on a parity; but that the government shall issue it direct to the people, instead of to the bankers." There is breadth to that platform that might be called longitudinal in its extent. The resolutions indicate if Home Protection wins, the government will issue all kinds of money to the people, and the only fellows who won't get any will be the bankers.

If the scheme can be carried out, we offer ourselves as an earnest and sanctified convert, safe from all heresies financially, and a humble and longing seeker after a larger government, with more power to its elbow, and more money of all kinds so it is at "a parity," that it may, can and will issue to the people instead of the bankers. We are the people, all the time; and we are glad that a new party will be born, with an elastic financial system, so that every dollar will be the peer of every other dollar, and all will be issued indiscriminately to the people—except the bankers. We have always envied those banking fellows who stand pat on a tray full of double eagles; but when "Home Protection" gets in its work, they won't be in it, and then they will see for themselves how disagreeable a thing it is to have the population divided into classes in Saxen's lines: "Those who have money, and those who have not." They will see what a nuisance the old plan was when they have to borrow, which they will, when the Home Protection government gets in its work and issues parity money to all of us that have no national banks in our pocket.

We believe, though, the matter could be simplified. We have an idea, and an original one, that in view of the great good the "Home Protectionist" is going to do, we will let them have at cost. It would save the government coining money, printing greenbacks, or going to any trouble at all over money matters. Now that the thought has come to us, we wonder that it never occurred to Hamilton and Jefferson, and Robert Morris and Jay Gould, the Barings and David Wells, and the Rothschilds and Sydney Dell, and all other great financiers. We can hardly realize that our thinker has gotten a scoop on all those illustrious monetary money-terriers, and feel correspondingly elated.

So much for the cackle. Behold the egg! Let our "Home Protection" party as soon as it is born, demand "That all men's promises to pay be on a parity." When our note is on a parity with Vanderbilt's or Astor's, we won't care what kind of money is best.

IT IS DIFFERENT WITH US.

It might be well to pause in our criticism of the Turkish government as to its course in the so-called Armenian outrages, to make a pull or two at the beam which is at present prominent enough in our own eye to be somewhat painful. It would not in the least lessen our sympathies with the butchered Armenians to contemplate for a moment the murdered Italians in Colorado, or the poor black-faced fellows shot down in New Orleans for no greater offence than trying to earn money by the labor of their hands.

It is true this is a Christian nation, and that what it does is entirely different from the acts of a benighted Mohammedan people. They ought to know better than to murder helpless people just on account of a little difference in religious matters. Of course it is less sinful and more excusable to differ in religious views than it is to labor at a job someone else wants, especially if that someone else is of a lighter complexion; but then, the Turks, with all their experience in religious wars, ought by this time to know better. Thirty-five years ago things were different, for then the negroes did all the work in

New Orleans, but people have not yet got used to the change. Our brethren of the South then did not know what a good thing the "nigger" had, or how much they were missing. They did not know then what a blessing work was, or they would not have driven the colored brethren to it with a club. Now that they have found it out, it is only natural that they should desire to get their share. The Negro had it all for nearly a hundred years, though he did not get paid much for it, and it is only right the white man have it all for a while, to even up. The Negro was brought here against his will, was forced to work on the wharves when he would gladly have divided his job with his master; but there is no reason on earth why he should be allowed to earn a living for himself, unless he does it at some employment a white man wont work at.

Honors are easy between this country and Turkey, as far as race prejudice is concerned, and an Armenian in Turkey might well hesitate before leaving the yoke of the Turk to grasp the unlimited freedom of the United States.

J. M. Huntington & Co. have practically finished their labors on the present ownership books. Over $200,000 at the very lowest estimate, has been added to the wealth of the county. This will increase the yearly revenue of the county several thousand dollars besides causing more equitable taxation. It can be easily seen that the county made a good investment in this venture.

This from the Antelope Herald tells a chapter of the Gould-Castellance romance, not before given to the public: One of the editor's old girls, Miss Anna Gould, was married in New York Monday to Count Paul Ernest Boniface de Castellance, and they have already sailed for Paris, where they will reside. Poor girl! We hated to disappoint her in love, but the size of her "sack" didn't suit us, and we had to drop her.

At the last meeting of the Literary society the question of the annexation of Hawaii came up for settlement. After a spirited debate the judges decided that this government had better annex the islands. At the coming meeting the debate will be on the election of United States senators by a direct vote of the people, and an interesting program is promised. The society decided to continue its meetings till the beginning of summer.

The suggestion has been made, and it is a good one, that a grand musical festival be given on Easter Sunday in one of our churches. Union services could be held and a special program arranged. With the present fine orchestra, which The Dalles now has, and the number of sweet singers, which could be obtained, a most pleasing and appropriate service could be held. The Dalles has a great amount of talent, which could easily be brought out on such an occasion.
